Senate Votes Budget Cut To Total of $37.2 Billions

$2,500,000,000 Reduction Viewed As Prelude to Tax Action Next Week

The Senate yesterday approved a 37.2-billion-dollar ceiling on Government spending in the next fiscal year, a proposed slash of 2½ billion dollars in the President's initial estimates.

The new "legislative budget" was sent to the House for concurrent action by a unanimous voice vote after less than two hours of debate.

The proposed spending ceiling, described by Republicans as a target rather than an arbitrary cut, was viewed as a prelude to tax reduction action by the Senate Finance Committee beginning next week.

It is part of a two-way move by Republicans to make tax cuts doubly sure. A related action Tuesday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, charging three billion dollars of ERP 1949 spending to the current fiscal year's fat surplus, was attacked by some Democrats as a "bookkeeping phony." But on the books, at least, it adds three billion dollars to next year's surplus for tax cuts, and other purposes.

George Proposes Bond Issue

Before the Senate passed the new budget ceiling, Senator Walter F. George (D. Ga.) proposed still another device for lightening the impact of foreign recovery spending on the annual expenditures budget.

George proposed to the Senate a 20-billion-dollar Government bond issue to spread the cost of foreign aid programs "over the next 30 years."

He said the Government should issue bonds for "winning the peace as we did for winning the war."

The four-year cost of the Marshall Plan is estimated at 17 billion dollars but George proposed a 20 billion bond total to cover the cost of all foreign aid. He said that's two big a load for the budget to carry. Unless it is financed through a special bond issue, he said the Government fiscal picture will become so confused that no one will know what we are spending at home.

Tax Concession With Bonds

George indicated he will submit his ERP financing proposal to the Senate Finance Committee, possibly as an amendment to a revenue bill. He suggested some tax concession might be offered to those who purchased the bonds, such as accepting them in settlement of Federal estate taxes.

Congress should "face the cold facts" that the budget will amount to possibly 47 billion dollars by 1951 or 1952 "if this country continues to move in the direction it is going," he told the Senate.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) told newsmen George's proposal "ought to be considered," but he personally thought that foreign aid costs should be financed currently as planned.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), head of the House-Senate Budget Committee, opened the budget-cutting debate with an appeal to the country to get behind the GOP's economy drive.

Appealing for tax reduction as well, he said nearly one third of every earned dollar goes for some form of taxation.

Fiery Red Ball Explodes in Sky Over Kansas Area

Norton, Kan., Feb. 18 (AP).—A ball of fire exploded in the sky at 4:50 p. m. today, rattling windows in half a dozen northwest Kansas towns.

A fiery red ball, traveling eastward, was seen to explode "in a fiercely brilliant white flash."

The blast was felt at Hill City, 35 miles south, and at Oberlin, 35 miles west.

Hearing on J

Tamm's H Of Mo. Vo

By Edward F. R
Post Reporter

Edward Allen Tamm's r[illegible] handling of the 1946 Kansas City vote fraud investigation is slated today to become an issue in Senate review of his nomination to be associate justice of District Court here.

The issue was touched lightly by Senator Forrest C Donnell (R., Mo.) late yesterday when he asked Tamm in a hearing if the latter had handled the FBI investigation of the election violations in Kansas City.

Tamm replied that it was one of the type of cases that is "under my supervision." As assistant to the director of FBI, Tamm ranks as the Nation's No. 3 G-man.

"We may want to ask you some more about that later," said Donnell. He dropped the question there, and would comment no more after the hearing.

But Senator James P. Kem (R., Mo.) later commented that "I hope and I know" Senator Donnell's committee will go very thoroughly into what Tamm did or did not do in the Kansas City vote fraud case.

Senator Donnell is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee reviewing Tamm's nomination. The better part of its 5½-hour hearing yesterday was a testimonial of praise for Tamm's qualifications. Among those who urged his confirmation were Senators H. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) and Brien McMahon (D., Conn.), Attorney General Tom Clark, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and six Washington lawyers, two of them former FBI agents.

Senator Kem fought last year and is driving again for a full-scale investigation of Justice Department handling of the Kansas City vote frauds. Last year's drive ran head-on into a Democratic filibuster on the Senate floor. This year's is to be handled by a Senate Expenditures subcommittee headed by Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.)

Truman Asks 570 Millions To Aid China

President Responds To Constant Prods Of GOP Leaders

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Under insistent prodding from Republican leaders of both Houses, President Truman asked Congress yesterday for 570 million dollars' aid to China.

The amount was more than twice as much as Secretary Marshall thought would be necessary last November, when he was questioned on the subject by congressional committees.

It reflected not only the deepening economic crisis in China since November, but also the increasing pressure to "do something" for China, notably from Senator H. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) and Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.).

President Outlines Needs

The President said in a special message that most of the 570 million would be needed for food, fuel and fertilizer, but that 60 million dollars of it would be used for "a few selected reconstruction projects."

None of it would be used for military help to the Chiang Kai-shek government, although Bridges promptly complained that economic help alone could not turn the tide.

The purpose of the program, the President said, was "to assist in retarding the current economic deterioration" and give Chiang's government another chance to make necessary internal reforms.

"We have hoped for conditions in China," said the President, "that would make possible the effective and constructive use of American assistance in reconstruction and rehabilitation. Conditions have not developed as we had hoped and we can only do what is feasible under circumstances as they exist.

Conditions Are Proposed

"But it is and has been clear," he added, "that only the Chinese government itself can undertake the vital measures necessary to provide the framework within which efforts toward peace and true economic recovery may be effective."

To make sure that these "measures" are started, the President's message and an accompanying draft bill laid down a series of conditions which China would have to accept before getting help. Similar conditions have already

Armed Trio Sought Here in Two Robberies

Stolen Auto Used, Police Block All Highways to City

Police in the District and Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties were alerted last night in a search for three armed men believed to have committed three robberies in quick succession after stealing an automobile.

Motorized policemen had every entrance into the city blocked.

The men, all Negroes, started their rapid-fire series of crimes in Seat Pleasant, Md., about 8:30 p. m., police said, by stealing a 1939 black Plymouth. About 9 p. m. they robbed two clerks in the Suburban Liquor Store, 44th and High sts. ne., of the day's receipts.

Drugstore Held Up

A little later, they held up a drugstore at 316 H st. ne. No estimates of the amounts of money taken were immediately available.

With the lookout broadcast by police radio, a scout car spotted an automobile answering the description and Pennsylvania ave. nw. later and chased it to 9th st. and New York ave. nw., where the car and its occupants outdistanced police.

U. S. Bans Export Of Arms Sold as Salvage or Scrap

A ban on export of any surplus arms or munitions sold as salvage or scrap to private interests was placed yesterday by the State Department.

This embargo, a State Department spokesman said, was taken to forestall "embarrassment and expense" to the Government such as resulted from past attempts to export surplus war materials. Only recently two surplus Navy patrol bombers allegedly on the way to bomb the Venezuelan capital were seized in Nicaragua and five Americans were arrested in connection with the affair.

Even before that, a cache of machine guns and ammunition was found on a farm near Ellicott City, Md., and several men were arrested. There have been numerous charges by Latin-American governments that United States war surplus was being used to build up revolutionary strength.

$18,500 Top Agency Pay

Senate Subcommittee Urges $1000 Federal Salary Boosts

A Senate Civil Service subcommittee yesterday recommended a raise of $1000 a year for most Federal workers and a boost in salaries of top executives to $18,500 and $21,000.

The cost of the proposed raises, which would help the Government compete with business for first-class executives, would run to more than $1,350,000,000.

Under the proposal, which combines bills by Senators William Langer (R., N. Dak.), Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.), and Raymond E. Baldwin (R., Conn.), postal workers and general Government employes would get a flat $1000 raise.

Cabinet members would be jumped from $15,000 a year to $21,000.

Heads of agencies, who now receive top salaries of $10,000, $12,000 and $17,500, would get $13,500, $16,000 and $18,500.

Employes in Federal, legislative, postal and judicial services would be covered, though judges and legislators themselves are not included. Neither are foreign service or military personnel.

Czech Reds End Truce In Cabinet

Political Crisis Breaks on Charge Police Are Packed With Communists

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—The Communist Party plunged the country into a political crisis today and Czechoslovakia was at grips with the issue of whether Communists will lead it into becoming an eastern European workers' state.

The Communists, by far the largest single party, flatly refused to cooperate any longer with the five other parties in the coalition cabinet that has governed the country under a political truce for 30 months.

The all-party National Front, comprising heads of all parties and the group which makes up the cabinet, met but broke up over the same issue that split yesterday's cabinet meeting—Communist refusal to discuss charges the police force is being packed with Communists. Non-Communists refused to take up any other issue until the police question is settled.

Executive committees of non-Communist parties were supposed to meet tomorrow morning, but their decisions may be withheld until results of Sunday's congress of 8000 factory delegates are known. Non-Communists labeled the congress "a purely Communist enterprise," with handpicked delegates, including 2000 local Communist cell leaders.

Observers said it is clear the Communists are out to enforce their demands of yesterday for a new "above-the-party" coalition of workers and peasants to take over under the leadership of Klement Gottwald, Communist Premier.

National elections at once seemed to be the only solution. As the non-Communist parties possess a parliamentary majority, political quarters did not believe Communists could succeed in forming a government.

The crisis came after a stormy cabinet meeting last night, climaxed when Premier Gottwald walked out. Communist Minister of Interior Vaclav Nosek was charged with "communizing" the nation's police forces in preparation for general elections, expected in May.

Socialists declared Nosek had ignored the cabinet's order to stop promoting Communist officers over the heads of senior non-Communists. They announced their intention of walking out of a cabinet which could not enforce its own decisions. Gottwald hastily adjourned the meeting.

Authoritative sources said Gottwald called on President Eduard Benes and asked him who would be premier if the government resigned. Benes is said to have replied he would reappoint Gottwald since he headed the largest party.

Shortly afterwards the Communists issued a communique renewing their demands that the workers' and peasants' unions, which they control, become the basis for the next cabinet.

Bronx Upset Blamed on 'Light Vote'

Some Democrats Hold Boss Flynn Responsible in Wallace Victory

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Shaken by Tuesday's election of a Wallace-backed candidate to a normally Democratic House seat, Democratic leaders yesterday officially blamed New York's Bronx district upset on a "light vote."

Unofficially, many of them decided to make Edward J. Flynn, Democratic boss of The Bronx, the scapegoat.

While Democratic headquarters broadcast "get out the vote in November" appeals, several highly placed congressional Democrats privately held the Bronx district chief accountable.

These argued that out of 58,000 registered Democratic voters in New York's twenty-fourth congressional district, only 12,000 voted. Wallace-backed Leo Isacson on the other hand polled near the peak of the American Labor Party's registered strength.

"If a precinct captain ever turned in the report Flynn did, he wouldn't last overnight," said one irate Democrat.

Palestine a Factor

Some party analysts, however, said privately there was more to it than the short vote. These placed the Palestine embargo issue high among the factors. In a dominantly Jewish district Isacson and Wallace made a militant pro-Palestine appeal for lifting of the arms embargo.

Ironically, Karl Propper, defeated Democratic nominee, also opposed the embargo and Flynn was among the first in his party to recommend the Palestine partition plan finally taken by the Administration.

Students of the issue believed dissatisfaction with Administration failure to implement the partition recommendation of the United Nations commission backfired against Propper.

Isacson and Propper alike condemned the Taft-Hartley Act. Their sharpest parting of the ways came on the Marshall Plan, which Propper defended and Wallace and Isacson bitterly attacked.

Democrats Could Have Won

Both tried to fix blame for the price rise, but it was Isacson who cashed in on the issue.

An idea of how the voting has varied in the Twenty-fourth District in the past three congressional elections is shown in the following table, compiled by the Associated Press, with the vote by parties:

Democrats	ALP	GOP	Liberal
60,486	24,943	18,461	17,255
1946
39,316	24,249	16,931	8,504
1948
12,578	22,697	1,482	3,840

(In 1944 Benpamin J. Rabin was the nominee of the Democratic, ALP and Liberal parties.)

(The large vote in 1944 came in the Presidential election year when Franklin D. Roosevelt was running for the fourth time. That in 1946 was the regular off-year election, while the balloting in

Bone of Contention

Hot Wiener Dispute Mustered Over Armory Concessions

(Stories on the D. C. Fight for Votes, Page 22)

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Capitol Hill yesterday produced a two-hour "weiner roast" over the subject of hot dog sales at the District Armory.

The session took place in the Old House Office Building before the Judiciary Subcommittee of the House District Committee. It was planned as a final hearing on a proposed bill aimed at ending the long feud over who is to receive the revenue from nonmilitary affairs in the Armory.

All was peaceful until the crucial paragraph giving receipts from soda and food sales—hot dogs for the most part, witnesses said—to the District Government-National Guard-Capitol Architect Board was reached.

"This is the real bone of contention," said Chester H. Gray, principal assistant corporation counsel and drafter of the compromise bill. He said Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, head of the District National Guard, "agreed on all parts of the draft except this."

Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, speaking for the general who was not present, declared that the Guard would like to take charge of all concessions and receipts therefrom.

The District Commissioners reared back. Commissioner Guy Mason, describing himself as a former Army and National Guard man, said supervision of concessions was not a typical Army maneuver.

Representative Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.), subcommittee chairman, suggested that maybe the Guard should be given the exclusive right to income from food and drinks, but other concession revenue—such as hat-checking income—could go to the Armory Board.

The hearing will be resumed at the call of the chair to hear General Cox's stand on concession profits and why they should be sent into the Guard treasury.

Disagrees With Marshall, Too

Argentina Rejects Claims Of Europe in Antarctica

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—Argentina served formal notice on Europe today that it does not recognize the existence of European colonies or possessions in Antarctica.

The statement was made by Luis H. Irigoyen of the foreign ministry, as Argentina, Chile and Britain vied for south polar lands.

Irigoyen also disagreed with the opinion voiced today in Washington by Secretary of State George C. Marshall that the American security zone provided in last year's Rio de Janeiro continental defense treaty does not include the disputed antarctic lands.

The Argentine official reiterated his government's belief that both the Falkland Islands dependencies and the American Antarctic zone are within the boundaries of the American security zone.

Chilean President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla, now in Antarctic lands claimed by Chile, warned that any aggression by "ancient European imperialist . . . to snatch possession of these, our lands . . . will be directed against all nations of the Americas."

[President Gonzalez formally established a second military base in the Antarctic today, the Associated Press reported.

[Gen. Ramon Canas Montalva, Chilean army chief of staff said the action constituted a step toward "building up Chile as a Pacific power."

(At London a British official said the dispute may be thrown into the United Nations. Britain still hopes, he intimated, the problem will be referred to the International Court of Justice at The Hague.)

U. S. Livestock Supply Lowest In 10 Years

Both Meat and Milk Outputs Threatened, Crop Report Warns

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Nation's livestock supply is the lowest in 10 years, the Government Crop Reporting Board said yesterday, threatening both meat and dairy supplies.

Meat and milk animals are at the lowest levels since before the war, the report stated. With an increase in population of 10 per cent since 1937, the decline is sufficient to endanger breeding herds which might take years to rebuild.

Poultry supplies are also far below even prewar numbers.

The number of turkeys is the smallest in more than 20 years, and only slightly more than half as many as two years ago.

Chicken totals are the smallest since prewar.

Value Greatest in History

In spite of the fewer numbers, the value of all livestock including chickens and turkeys is the greatest in history. Total value of all livestock, horses, mules, and poultry was fixed at $13,458,910,000 compared with $11,977,636,000 last year and $7,080,209,000 prewar.

The report brought a sharp break in grain prices. The smaller number of livestock would reduce the amount of grain required for livestock feeding, grain traders pointed out.

However, the drop was short lived. Reports of dust storms in Kansas and other pessimistic advices from the wheat country sparked a late rally in both wheat and corn.

Wheat closed up to 2¾ cents a bushel higher, corn was 1¼ to 2¾ higher; oats were up to 1½ cents higher. Cotton went up 40 cents to $1 a bale, but soybeans dropped 3 to 4 cents a bushel.

Wholesale butter prices, cocoa and hides all dropped. Cattle were slightly higher, hogs about unchanged.

Two Other Price Factors

Two other events affecting prices of commodities marked yesterday's news:

1. The Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations reported "the outlook for the 1948-49 food production at this time is somewhat more favorable than a year ago."

"If these favorable conditions continue until harvest," the report adds, "a moderate relaxation in the present tight food situation appears probable for next year.

"Per capita supplies," it then continues, "particularly in the deficit countries, will continue below prewar."

2. Grain consumption by distillers is running above 6,500,000 bushels a month compared with 2,500,000 planned under the proposed Government limitation on distilling operations, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson revealed.

Unless controls are reinstated on use of grain in whisky making, Anderson told the National Press Club the all-out production planned by distillers may upset the entire program for export of grain to nations threatened with famine.

Yesterday, Chairman Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.) announced that his Senate Banking Subcommittee had approved the Administration's bill to ration grain to distillers until October 30. The com-

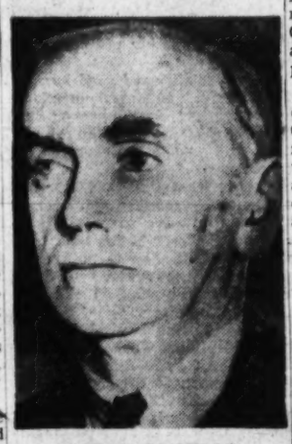
De Valera's 16-Year Rule Ends in Eire



JOHN A. COSTELLO
Eire's new Prime Minister

Dublin, Eire, Feb. 18 (AP).—Eamon de Valera's rule of Eire ended today after 16 years.

In his place stepped John A. Costello, 56-year-old Dublin lawyer, who immediately announced the formation of an oddly assorted government of five parties and independents.

New York-born De Valera's Fianna Fail (Soldiers of Destiny) Party lost its parliamentary majority in general elections early this month. Today the deputies of the Thirteenth Dail (Parliament) voted 75 to 70 against his reelection as Prime Minister. He got only 4 votes outside his own party and was forced out of the driver's seat for the first time since 1932.

First Coalition Government

Silver-haired Costello, who like De Valera has a background in the Irish revolution, then was elected Premier, 75 to 68, becoming Eire's third Premier and head of its first coalition government.

He is expected to urge the unity of Eire with Northern Ireland, as de Valera did, and to chart a careful middle course to hold together the coalition.

Costello must decide whether to go to New York for a St. Patrick's Day celebration next month. De Valera, who planned to visit Washington and Boston also, had accepted the New York invitation provided he was reeelected.

Cabinet Selections

Costello announced the following cabinet:

William Norton, Deputy Prime Minister (Labor); Gen. Richard Mulcahy, Education (titular leader of Fine Gael); Sean Maceoin, Justice (Fine Gael); Daniel Morrissey, Industry and Commerce (Fine Gael); R. F. O'Higgins, Defense (Fine Gael); P. McGolligan, Finance (Fine Gael); Sean MacBride, External Affairs (leader of the New Republicans).

Noel Brown, Health (New Republicans); T. Murphy, Local Government (Labor); James Dillon, Agriculture (Independent); James Everett, Posts and Telegraph (National Labor); P. Blowick, Lands and Fisheries (Farmers).

Tonight Costello pleaded for all parties' support "in the difficult times ahead."

An independent deputy, Ben Maguire, said one reason why Eire needed a coalition government was because "We see Europe being prepared as a battlefield for the next war by countries outside it."

The Wright brothers' Kitty Hawk airplane is coming home at last to America and to "a place of honor" in the Smithsonian Institution here.

Executors of Orville Wright's estate announced in Dayton, Ohio, yesterday that the plane will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution from Britain's Science Museum in London, the Associated Press reported. No date for the shipment was specified.

Thus will end a 20-year-old scientific controversy between Orville Wright, who died January 30, and the Smithsonian Institution. Orville sent the valued power-driven aircraft to London in 1928 when Smithsonian credited Samuel P. Langley's plane as "the first airplane capable of flight."

In 1943, the institution acknowledged that the Wright planes was the first to fly.

Smithsonian Institution officials said last night they had not yet received official notice of the decision

U. S. Official Says Greece May Need Armed Help

Henderson Warns Aid 'Only Holding Fort' Against Vast Red Conspiracy

Foreign troops may yet be needed to help the Greek army cope with the guerillas, Loy W. Henderson, Secretary Marshall's chief adviser on Greek affairs, warned yesterday.

Henderson told a Louisville audience that American economic and military help had done no more than "hold the fort" against what he called a vast conspiracy by "international communism."

"Even the international Communists must realize the immediate dangers to world peace which might be involved," he said, "if they resort to more overt forms of aggression, such as the despatch from the puppet states of heavy reinforcements for the guerillas in Greece or of heavy shipments of arms.

Firm Stand Urged

"International communism in its desire to obtain control over Greece may, however, venture so far as to create a situation with which the armed forces of Greece alone could not be expected to cope. The development of such a situation would of course require a reexamination of the whole Greek problem."

Henderson said the forces of "international communism" would pause if they could only understand that the determination of the United States and other democratic countries could be just as strong as their own.

Nothing would be more likely to make them reconsider, he said, than the certainty that "the United States will not stand idly by while foreign aggressors deprive Greece of its territorial integrity and its political independence."

Troop Use Hinted

This was some of the harshest language ever used by a high American official in discussing the Greek situation. It came close to suggesting that the United States, together with other members of the United Nations, would send troops if Greece should suffer aggression contrary to the Charter.

Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett has already warned of "serious" consequences if any of Greece's northern neighbors give formal recognition to the rebel Communist "government" in north Greece. There has been no sign in recent weeks that such formal recognition was imminent.

Officials here have expected the Communist propaganda machine to build up, gradually and slowly a picture of the rebel regime as a real government, entitled to foreign recognition.

Use of Outsiders Feared

As for the "heavy reinforcements" mentioned by Henderson, reports from Greece have stressed that few, if any, of the captured guerillas in recent weeks have been citizens of Albania, Bulgaria or Yugoslavia. What worries some officials here is the prospect that the neighboring countries may "run out of Greeks" to do the guerilla fighting, and may send in outsiders in guerilla guise.

Henderson quoted approvingly a recent statement by Americans for Democratic Action that Soviet influence "seeps out into Europe and Asia, coming to a halt when a firm obstacle is placed before it, but otherwise oozing, trickling, filtering wherever the ground is soft and the resistance weak."

'Part' of World Plan

He said the recently published Nazi-Soviet documents "helped to refresh our memory."

The present "conspiracy against Greece" he described as only a part of a wider plan formulated many years ago. This plan, he said, was the Communist plan for world revolution.

He said the campaign against Greece was carefully nurtured during the war years and began to mature, "with the connivance of the governments of Greece's northern neighbors," when Greece was liberated by the British in 1944.

He asserted that reports of the United Nations Investigating Commission early in 1947 "left no reasonable doubt as to the foreign origin and support of the Greek guerilla movement."

He sought to answer doubts about the democratic character of the Greek government by insisting that if was the result of a free choice of the Greek people.

"There can be no doubt that

'Shocked' Into Politics by 1932 Probe, Isacson Returns Jolt in Another Way

Back in 1932, a young Bronx law student was "shocked" into politics via the Democratic Party by the revelations of the Seabury probe into the regime of the late Mayor Jimmy Walker. Sixteen years later, Attorney Leo Isacson shocked politics, and the Democrats in particular, by getting himself elected to Congress with the backing of Henry A. Wallace.

The 38-year-old athletically-built orator, candidate of the American Labor Party, will join his good friend, Representative Vito Marcantonio, as a two-man ALP bloc in Congress.

Isacson was not eligible to vote in the Twenty-fourth Bronx District, which elected him, because he'd moved away about five years ago. But he was born, bred, and schooled there and was active in civic life. He's always been a militant Zionist—a significant factor in a predominantly Jewish district. And his legal practice has been most active in recent months on the behalf of tenants fighting rent raises in that very District.

He's been married 10 years, has two children, Jill, 6, and Dale, 2.

Isacson worked his way through college by doing all sort of odd jobs, including the traditional tour of duty as a waiter in Catskill resorts. He earned a B. S. degree at New York University in 1931, got his law degree there two years lated.

Isacson quit the Democrats in 1936 as a protest against "machine politics." He joined the new ALP.

He was elected ALP's lone State Assemblyman in 1945-46, and on losing out in the '46 Republican sweep, became ALP's legislative representative.

Isacson is strictly down the line with the Wallace line—fiercely outspoken against the Marshall Plan and applauded by the Communist Daily Worker.

Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.) is one of the highly vocal friends of China whose persistence helped to force a 570-million-dollar China aid program out of the White House yesterday.

Nebraska-born Judd, now 49, is surgeon by training and a medical missionary of 10 years' experience in China. He was sent out by the Congregationalist Foreign Missions Board, and came home in 1939, five months after the Japanese had captured the town where his hospital was situated.

He promptly called for an embargo on shipments to Japan and for a boycott of Japanese goods. He was elected to Congress in 1942, and since then has campaigned ceaselessly for helping the Chiang Kai?shek government of China.

In recent months he has been like a scrappy terrier with his teeth dug into the Administration's China policy. He was partly responsible for including China in the interim aid bill of last December, which had the effect of cutting appropriations needed for Europe.

John A. Costello

By The Associated Press

John A. Costello, the new Prime Minister of Eire, is a rare Irishman—he has no relatives in America.

The stubby, quiet-spoken Costello hasn't even been to the United States.

In other ways the 56-year-old Costello differs from the ordinary Irish politician. He was one of the few successful political leaders who did not rush to the barricades in the Irish rebellion and win fame as a fighter.

Even his political enemies have no ill to speak of him. One of Dublin's leading attorneys, he has a reputation for combining strict honesty with skill as a negotiator and a patient compromiser.

Friends say he will need all those talents to weld such clashing elements as the convervative United Irish Deputies and the Socialist Laborites into a workable government.

Golf is his only recreation. He is proud of his scores, usually in the mid-80s, when he plays at the suburban Port Marnock Golf Club. Most of his spare time he spends at home with his wife and three children.

Mrs. James M. Helm

No White House secret has ever escaped the lips of Mrs. James Meredith Helm, secretary to Mrs. Truman, who yesterday denied reports Daughter Margaret was engaged. Discreet and alert, she was an integral part of the White House during the Wilson and the Franklin D. Roosevelt administrations, and she now conducts Mrs. Truman's bimonthly press conference.

Helm

With cordiality and good humor, Mrs. Helm answers questions hurled at her by the press. She knows well the value of the printed word, and no one has ever caught her off guard.

She is charming and serene, gentle and warm-hearted. It can be seen why three wives of Presidents have chosen her as their personal assistant. She is not newspaper-minded, however, and sometimes passes by details that go to make a good story.

Daughter of an admiral, the former Miss Edith Benham became the bride of Rear Admiral Helm while secretary to her good friend, the second Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. Before her marriage, she traveled throughout Europe with President and Mrs. Wilson at the time of the Versailles Peace Conference. Her scrapbook of this memorable journey contains many snapshots, clippings, and personal mementos.

Probers Seize Agriculture Dept. Records

Investigators for the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee probing speculation in commodities recently appeared at the Department of Agriculture with subpenas, and carried away files, stenographers' notes and other evidence, it was learned yesterday.

The seized papers were held for two weeks. They were returned February 10, after Secretary of Agriculture Anderson complained to Chairman Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) of the committee.

Anderson said he first learned of the investigators' actions when Department stenographers were subpenaed to transcribe seized shorthand notes.

"I called Attorney General Clark, and he told me to demand the return of the material—all necessary to the business of the Department," Anderson said.

Anderson said he did not believe Senator Ferguson knew of the original seizure, or would have at the removal of the records.

Anderson denied a report he had told Ferguson the material must be returned at once "or someone would go to jail." Instead, he said, Ferguson was very courteous—and "seemed shocked" at the raid.

Similar Raids Reported

The investigators, Anderson said were seeking evidence about the Lathrop Grain Co., a Midwest concern charged with having been favored with purchases of grain for Mexico.

Disclosure of the seizure came a day after three friends of Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) had told of raids by Ferguson's agents on their offices. They were Dyke Cullum, a business associate of Thomas; Ralph Moore, Washington and Oklahoma grain operator, and Marty Heflin, one-time publicity manager for Thomas' campaign for Senator.

Bronx Upset Laid to Flynn

1948 was in a special election to fill a vacancy.)

What riled Democrats here over Tuesday's voting was that registered Democrats who stayed home could have won for them if they had voted. They predicted any real effort to get them out will unseat Isacson in November.

As proof that the vote can be turned out even in special and off-year elections, they cited the success of ALP workers and Communist supporters from many city districts in what amounted to a door-to-door canvass of the Twenty-fourth. They contended Flynn's machine should have matched that activity door for door.

Party officials, however, made no mention of Flynn and the White House did not comment at all. Asked if President Truman had "taken note" of the returns, Press Secretary Charles Ross said he had not. He said he read the morning papers as usual.

McGrath Sees a Lesson

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath remarked "that the fight against Communism on the left and toryism on the right cannot be won unless every Democrat resolves to get out and vote."

Saying the Democratic party never benefits from a light vote, he said it will make a grave mistake "if it does not learn a lesson from the results."

"The Bronx results indicate still another minority election," McGrath said. "The moral is an obvious one. Democrats must have the courage to work and the wi to vote if we are to carry out a successful fight for Democratic principles."

At the Capitol, where Republicans said the Wallace victory puts New York "in the bag" for the GOP in November, Senator Gwen Brewster (R., Me.), rubbed it in. He had the returns inserted in the Congressional record.

Senator Irving M. Ives (R., N. Y.), backing Governor Thomas E. Dewey for the GOP nomination, said Republicans shouldn't be "fooled" into belief that just any GOP nominee could win.

House Democratic Whip John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) said the election "is not indicative of any trend nationally."

Although President Truman did not comment, two White House visitors stressed the "get out and fight" tack. Chester Bowles, former OPA chief, said he told the President he hoped The Bronx district showing "will wake the Democratic party up."

Former Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt, who also called on the President, said he hoped Democrats would be sufficiently stirred up to "get out a big vote in November."

Assessment Hearings

Hearings on new realty assessments will be held by the Prince Georges County Commissioners tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Upper Marlboro, Md. Owners of new buildings recently constructed will have an opportunity to voice complaints concerning assessments.

Wallace Party Enters California Primary

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 18 (U.P.).—Presidential aspirant Henry A. Wallace, whose candidate won a surprise victory in a Bronx by-election yesterday, announced today that his third party has won a place in the California primary balloting.

Wallace, here for a speech tomorrow night, said he had received a telegram today from the Independent Progressive Party of California stating the party had collected petitions signed by 464,000 registered voters, almost twice as many as required to participate in the primary.

The third party candidate told reporters at the Roney Plaza Hotel he was "surprised" by the overwhelming victory his candidate, Leo Isacson, won in the Bronx voting.

"It's a pretty good answer to those who say voting for the new party assures the November election for the Republicans," he said.

New Hampshire Ballot To Carry Wallace Name

Durham, N. H., Feb. 18 (AP).—Henry Wallace's name is definitely going to appear on the New Hampshire ballot in this year's presidential election, the State chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America said today.

Professor John G. Rideout of the University of New Hampshire said the PCA would have no trouble getting the 1000 signatures needed to put Wallace's name on the ballot.

Rideout said the victory of Wallace-backed Leo Isacson in New York's special congressional election was "a good example of the definite trend toward Wallace in this coutnry and to his ultimate victory."

N. Y. Vote Seen Helping Wallace in Illinois

Chicago, Feb. 18 (AP).—Illinois backers of Henry A. Wallace for President said today that results of a special New York election will help win Wallace many Illinois votes in November.

William H. Miller, executive secretary of the Illinois Progressive Citizens of America, said he and leaders of the PCA and of the Cook County (Chicago) Progressive Party telegraphed Isacson:

"Your victory provides a tremendous incentive and will help roll up a tremendous Wallace vote in Illinois next November."

The two Illinois groups, both supporting Wallace and considering merging their forces, plan to enter Wallace as a third party candidate before August 16 in the Illinois general election November 2.

Ala. Congressmen Back 'Rights Revolt'

Support Pledged Governors Against Truman Program

Alabama's Democratic Congressmen unanimously agreed yesterday to cooperate with the Southern Governors' Conference in opposing President Truman's civil rights program.

Representative Hobbs (D., Ala.) said similar action is being taken by Representatives of 14 other States.

The Alabama delegation said in a resolution "we will oppose to the finish" enactment of antipoll tax, antilynching, antisegregation and fair employment practices legislation.

The resolution asked the chairman of the Governors' Conference to appoint a six-member congressional committee to work with a similar group of Governors in opposing the President's program within party ranks.

Supremacy Pledge Plan Abandoned

Wrightsville, Ga., Feb. 18.—The Johnson County Democratic Committee abandoned today its plan to require voters in the March 3 county primary to pledge support of white supremacy and racial segregation.

H. T. Hicks, secretary of the committee, said a "storm of protest by citizens" brought the change in plans.

Miss. Senate Passes Woman Juror Bill

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 18 (AP).—The Mississippi Senate passed a bill yesterday allowing women to serve on juries.

After passage, however, the Senate held the bill for reconsideration.

Senator B. H. Loving urged that the bill be killed on the grounds that recent United States Supreme Court decisions "say no Negro can be convicted and the conviction stand unless there are Negroes on the jury."

"That," he said, 'means that the women of Mississippi would have to serve with Negroes."

Southern Democrats Cancel Dinner Plans

By The Associated Press

A group of southern Democrats last night canceled plans to attend the annual party dinners tonight because of a "no segregation" policy.

Mrs. Olin D. Johnston, wife of the junior South Carolina Senator, told a reporter she would not show up for the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner "because she might be seated next to a Negro" and that her original party 45 had dwindled to about 30.

Mrs. Johnston is vice chairman of the dinner committee.

Earlier it was revealed that Gov. and Mrs. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, also had canceled their reservations

'Harmony' Theme

Truman Talk At Dinner on Air Tonight

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman makes a major political speech tonight at the Jefferson-Jackson Anniversary dinner, one which Democratic stategists hope will put some fire into the party workers for '48.

The speech, which Mr. Truman will deliver at 10 p. m. from the Mayflower comes at a time Democratic hopes have been jolted by the victory of a Wallace-supported candidate in New York.

It also comes at a time when the right wing of the Democratic Party in the South is in an ugly mood, because of the President's fight against Jim Crowism.

Expect "Harmony" Speech

Mr. Truman, according to party insiders, will say nothing tonight likely to fan these fires of dissension. They say it will be essentially a "harmony" speech, barring some last-minute changes or off-the-cuff remarks of a belligerent nature.

It will be the last Washington will see of Mr. Truman for two weeks. Early tomorrow morning he will take off in the Sacred Cow for Key West, Fla., which will be the first leg of a trip that will take him to Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

From the standpoint of fattening the Democratic treasury, the Jefferson-Jackson dinner already is an eminent success. Twenty-nine hundred persons, a record number, have indicated that they will put out $100 per plate to attend, according to the national committee. Similar dinners and rallies will be held in 50 other cities.

"Double-Header" Here

The response here was so great that Mrs. George Mesta, cochairman, had to arrange for a "double-header." Part of the guests will be fed in the Statler and part in the Mayflower.

President Truman, the First Lady and Miss Margaret Truman will dine at the Statler. The Chief Executive will make some impromptu remarks there, and thereafter he and his family will motor to the Mayflower, accompanied by Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the national committee.

Mr. Truman's speech at the Mayflower, his main oratorical effort of the evening, will be seen on television screens by guests at the Statler.

Klan Threat Given FBI By S. C. Mayor

Anderson, S. C., Feb. 18 (AP).—Mayor J. L. Sherard said today a reported Ku Klux Klan threat to "take him for a ride," had been passed in to the FBI.

The Anderson mayor said he had received a telegram from the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League in New York yesterday telling him league observers at a Klan meeting in Atlanta heard the threat.

Sherard recently refused the Klan a permit to parade in Anderson.

The telegram said league observers Monday night had heard Grand Dragon Samuel Green attack the mayor and vow "the KKK will vote you out of office."

Green said in Atlanta today that the KKK had no Anderson klavern.

The Cyclops of the Anderson klavern as quoted as saying "Green is in no position to know our status. The Anderson klavern is responsible to the Grand Dragon of South Carolina."

The Anderson klavern now has 501 signed-up members and about 401 applications, the Cyclops was quoted as saying.

Va. Cave Bones Are Identified As Cherokees'

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 18 (AP).—The dozens of human bones found last October in a cave 3 miles from Tazewell include remains of Cherokee Indians, it was announced today.

The bones themselves are not identifiable as to tribe, but were linked with Cherokees by study of ornaments and other articles discovered with them, Dr. Herbert W. Jackson, associate professor of biology at Virginia Tech, said.

The wooded Clinch Valley once was a favorite hunting ground for Cherokees and Shawnees. In the 1700's, the two tribes fought frequently over their rival claims in the section.

Their last encounter was a bloody battle atop Rich Mountain, 3 miles southwest of Tazewell, in 1768.

N. Y. Woman Held as Alien Communist

The Justice Department yesterday announced the arrest for deportation of Beatrice Johnson, described as promotion manager for the New Masses, New York weekly publication.

The department said Mrs. Johnson had long been active in the Communist Party in this country and that she lacked citizenship.

She was taken into custody under the immigration laws providing for the exclusion of aliens who belong to groups advocating the violent overthrow of the United States Government.

The arrest was made by immgration officers and FBI agents and she was removed to Ellis Island. Late in the day she was released on $1000 bond.

Mrs. Johnson is one of a score of alleged alien Communists who have been seized recently for deportation.

The department said Mrs. Johnson is 45, a native of Poland and is also known as Mrs. Elmer Johnson, Beatrice Siskind Shields, Baile Ziskind, Beatrice Simons, Beatrice Lee and C. E. Johnson.

Records showed she came to the United States in 1912 and applied for naturalization in 1943. She was listed as having been a secretary of various branches of the Communist Party, a teacher at the Chicago Workers School and an educational director for the Communist Party in Illinois between 1930 and 1939.

The department said Mrs. Johnson makes her home in Central Park West, New York City, and that she has a daughter, Josephine, who was born in Chicago in July, 1943.

Aliens Use Detroit, Rep. McDowell Says

Aliens are using Detroit as their biggest gateway to sneak into the United States, Representative McDowell (R., Pa.) said yesterday.

"The situation," McDowell told reporters, "has become a very, very bad one."

He said he has heard that "busloads" of Communists have slipped past immigration officials.

"Unquestionably something has to be done up there," McDowell said. As chairman of a House Un-American Activities Subcommittee, he called in Immigration Inspector Francis Langthorne for questioning behind closed doors.

Langthorne, who lives at Farmington, Mich., has been on duty several years in the tunnel linking Detroit and Windsor, Ontaria, McDowell said.

The Congressman described Langthorne as a "friendly witness." He said he has reason to believe the inspector has information that "hardened Communists, criminals and fascists have been coming through thick and fast."

U. S. Removes Christoffel Trial Witness

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Government counsel backed down yesterday on their plan to force Fred Blair—Wisconsin Communist chairman—to link himself to Harold R. Christoffel.

Defense Counsel O. John Rogge contended this proved the prosecutors were using unfair tactics to send Christoffel to jail for perjury. Rogge asked for a mistrial order, but Justice Edward M. Curran turned him down.

Christoffel, a Milwaukee labor leader, is on trial in the District Court, accused of lying when he told the House Labor Committee under oath that he was not a Communist Party member and didn't know Blair.

Blair wouldn't answer when he was asked on Monday whether he knew Christoffel. He said the answer might link him to a crime. Curran put oc his ruling on whether he would order Christoffel to answer anyway.

U. S. Withdraws Blair

When Blair went back to the stand yesterday, the justice said he thought Blair must answer two questions. Before Curran could tell what they were, Special Prosecutor Frank H. Patton jumped to his feet and said the prosecution would withdraw the Communist chairman as a witness.

Just as quick to rise was Attorney Rogge, who told the court Patton's move proved his charge that the prosecutors called Blair not to give evidence but to make Christoffel look bad to the jury.

Special Prosecutor John S. Pratt told The Washington Post later that the Communist chairman was taken off the witness stand for "psychological reasons." Pratt said, too, that Blair had made it plain he would not answer the question, even though Justice Curran ordered him to. For refusing he might have been jailed for contempt of court. Then he would have tried to get out on a writ of habeas corpus.

No Wish to Make a Martyr

"We didn5t want to give him a chance to make a martyr of himself," Pratt explained. He said that was the only reason for dropping Blair as a witness and that the prosecutors had no doubt that Justice Curran would have been right in forcing Blair to answer.

Pratt said he thought that if the prosecution had not stopped him by taking Blair off the stand Justice Curran would have ordered Blair to say whether or not he knew Christoffel and whether he had brought the court the records of the Communist Party in Wisconsin.

Fred McStroul, a Milwaukee grocer and CIO auto union officer, produced records of his union yesterday. He thought there were only nine members of the House Labor Committee at the meeting wehre Christoffel testified. Rogge claims there had to be 13 for any of the committee's acts to be legal.

Tyrone's Love Can Remain

LINDA CHRISTIAN, carrot-topped Mexican-born starlet and Tyrone Power's latest love, can remain legally in the United States, Immigration authorities ruled yesterday. Experts Miss Life on Mars But Have Hope

McDonald Observatory, Fort Davis, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP).—The green spots on Mars are not plants like the earth's trees and grass, but they may be some lower form of vegetation.

Astronomers last night failed to give a flat answer to the question whether there is life on Mars, but Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, director of the observatory, hoped by March 1 he could be more definite.

The conclusion that the green spots are neither seed plants nor ferns—the two highest forms of plant life—was reached by comparing infra-red photographs of such earth plants with those of the verdant areas of Mars, Dr. Kuiper explained.

Lack of sulphur dioxide and ozone in the atmosphere of Mars was listed as a factor against the possibility of plant life. These would filter out deadly ultra-violet rays of the sun.

Infra-red studies of the polar caps on Mars indicate they are water and not dry ice. Dr. Kuiper emphasized that was a conditional statement.

A factor favoring a primitive form of plant life on Mars is the knowledge that temperatures, while "desperately cold," are not prohibitive to such life.

The Mars studies will continue at top peak for the next two weeks. Mars came within 63 million miles of the earth last night.

Traces Found Of Ancient Civilization

Baghdad, Iraq, Feb. 18 (AP).—The Department of Antiquities said today it had discovered traces of perhaps the world's earliest civilization.

The discovery, in southern Iraq near Ur of the Chaldees, is "a civilization older than the Alubeid civilization, which dates more than 4000 years before Christ," it was said.

Ur, the early home of Abraham, was near the Euphrates River 135 miles southeast of biblical Babylon. The new find was made at Eridu.

An excavation mission found temples and clay pottery.

Dr. Naji Alasil, director general of antiquities, said: "Previous excavations showed the Alubeid people inhabited virgin and previously uninhabited soil.

"They created the first human civilization there.

"But the discoveries at Eridu will force reconsideration."

3 Killed, 86 Injured

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—The British military administration in Tripoli announced today that three persons were killed and 86 injured, 20 seriously, in nationalist-inspired rioting yesterday.

The British said the clashes were touched off by a decision to arrest Aly Fekky Hassan, leader of the Arab Kotla Party, which seeks independence for Tripoli.

Russia, Hungary Sign Defense Pact

Molotov Reports Soviet Has Treaties With All Nations on Western Borders

Moscow, Feb. 18 (AP). — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov said tonight Russia now has treaties with all nations on its western borders.

Molotov spoke following the signing today of a Russian-Hungarian treaty of friendship and mutual assistance.

The treaty with Hungary, he said, was the final link in a chain of pacts which would form a barrier to the "imperialist states."

Russia, Molotov said, now has "pacts of friendship and mutual assistances with all states on its western frontier—from the Black Sea to the Baltic."

Molotov stressed the treaties were concluded in "conformity with the aims and principles of the United Nations."

Lajos Dinnyes, Hungarian premier, replied that for the first time in history "the Hungarian people enjoy the opportunity of cooperating with a great power—the Soviet Union—which disinterestedly and without ulterior motives is helping us to security and independence."

It was reported here the Finnish Parliament yesterday approved a supposed Soviet-Finnish trade agreement.

Hungary Must Choose Between Soviet, U. S.

Budapest, Hungary, Feb. 18 (U.P.) Social Democrat George Narosan announced the purge of some 50 right-wing Social Democrats from government and party posts today and said Hungary must choose between the Soviet Union and "American imperialism."

Narsoan also pledged full cooperation with Communists, indicating a merger of the two parties might take place soon.

Zone Merger In Germany Is Protested

Prague, Feb. 18 (AP).—The Foreign Ministers of Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia declared tonight any merging of the three western zones of Germany carried a threat of another war for Europe.

In a 1500-word declaration issued after a two-day meeting here on Germany, the ministers said the merger would encourage a "revisionist-minded German nationalism and militarism which may become the source of a new attack, directed once more and first of all against Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia, against the Slav nations and ultimately against the whole of Europe."

Representatives of Britain, France and the United States will meet in London next week to discuss economic unification of the western zones.

The Soviet protested the London meeting. The three foreign ministers here said a split in Germany would be at variance with the Potsdam and Yalta decisions.

The ministers said the only solution for the German problem lies in the strengthening of German democratic forces in the territory of a united Germany.

8 Midway Men Declared Lost

Hyeres, France, Feb. 18 (AP).—Hope of finding any of the eight men missing from a swamped launch of the United States aircraft carrier Midway was abandoned today.

The carrier prepared to sail for Naples tomorrow after two days of search.

One officer, six seamen and one Marine were lost late Monday night when their launch was swamped 2500 yeras off shore while returning a party from shore leave.

Snow, rain and rough seas forced abandonment of the search. Prayers for the eight were said over the ship's loudspeaker.

A letter from General Spaatz

on National Security Week

"It is indeed fitting that National Security Week should be celebrated during the period marked by the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln. The father of our nation and the preserver of its union symbolize the sacrifice and vision which have brought the United States to its position of world leadership. The celebration of their anniversaries makes us aware of our national heritage and the priceless liberties which we must preserve.

I welcome this opportunity to express the Air Force's endorsement of National Security Week. The Reserve Officers Association deserves the commendation of every patriot for helping to make the nation aware of the need for courageous evaluation of our national security requirements. Only with wholehearted support of the public can the tasks of the Army, Navy and Air Force be accomplished with success. Only with successful accomplishment of those tasks can America be assured of security at home, and be able to fulfill its obligations abroad.

Sincerely yours,

(signed) CARL SPAATZ

Greek Aid Mission Chief Is Recalled

Gen. Livesay to Be Reassigned Here; Van Fleet to Be Named Top Commander

By Homer Bigart

Athens, Feb. 18 (NYHT).—Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay, military chief of the American Aid Mission, has been called to Washington for reassignment, it was learned today.

Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet will be over-all commander of American military activities in Greece.

Livesay plnas to sail for New York March 15. Other transfers announced today include the reassignment to Athens of Col. Augustus Regnier of Providence, R. I., who denied reports he usurped command of a Greek army unit in pursuit of the guerilla band that recently shelled Salonika. Livesay has been at odds with Greek politicians since the day he arrived, last June 19. Te told the Greeks their carping demands for more and more artillery was a lot of traddle and predicted if the Greek army ever got to moving the guerillas could be fairly well cleaned out by summer.

He felt the Greek army was falling too much under the control of Athens, and was shocked by the spirit of defeatism which, it seemed, was being spread deliberately down through the ranks.

In an attempt to fight Athens' propaganda charges that the Greek army was being starved of equipment, General Livesay issued statistics showing the original appropriation of $135,000,000 from the mission funds for military needs was increased to $159,000,000. All but a small emergency reserve has been spent.

Livesay also pressed the idea of a spring offensive.

(Press reports said a "sizeable" skirmish occurred near Ahinos, north of Xanthi in the Greco-Bulgarian frontier area, and that 52 guerillas were killed and 48 captured.)

U. N. Members Face Arrests, Greeks Say

Salonika, Greece, Feb. 18 (AP).—Greek army officials said today they had evidence guerillas have been ordered to arrest and treat as prisoners of war members of the United Nations Special Commission on the Balkans.

Greece May Need Troops

under stress and strain Greek government officials and other loyal Greeks do at times commit acts which are not in strict accord with democratic concepts," he said. "If, however, Communist-led guerillas with powerful foreign aid were making raids and destroying life and property in great areas of the United States . . . it is doubtful that we would be as restrained as the loyal Greeks have been and still are toward the guerillas or toward the guerilla sympathizers.

"The suggestion is frequently made that the United States should set up in Greece the precise kind of government which the American people would like; headed by leaders of American choosing. The United States is not in the business of making or breaking Greek governments nor could we go into this business without justifying the charges of intervention and imperialism so falsely leveled against us by Soviet propaganda or without weakening the confidence of the Greeks in themselves."

Guerillas Utilize Terror

Outright terror is being used by the guerillas every day, he said.

Not only Greece, but the future of the European Recovery Program itself, depends upon the assurance of Greek security, Henderson said. He found the present situation serious, but not hopeless, and with many encouraging aspects.

He concluded with this remark: "By proving that democracies can be more dogged and persistent in opposing aggression than international communism is in pursuing aggression, the American people must point the way to a stable and just peace."

Benton Assails Educator Fear Of Propaganda

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

Former Assistant Secretary of State William Benton yesterday bluntly accused educators of pretending that propaganda is absent from the State Department's program for exchange of foreign scholars.

The long-standing feud between educators and advocates of a vigorous information program broke into the open at last session of the National Commission to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The commission of 100 members advises the United States delegation to UNESCO.

The information and education programs are under the same assistant secretary. Educators have insisted that the scholar exchange be separated so that there can be no implication of propaganda in that phase of international relations.

Dr. B. M. Cherrington of the Social Science Foundation, Denver, maintained that the educational program should be "so organized that n oone can justifiably suspicion" it has any part in short-range political polices of this country.

Americans, he said, "feel inevitably" that the battle of words with Russia "may be nasty business; it is warfare in the realm of the mind."

"The real truth," replied Benton, is that these (educational) activities . . . as sponsored by governments . . . not only are designed for the same purposes as the information activities but in many ways it is inevitable that their procedures are often more questionable than those in the informational field."

This, he added, is "because they are hidden rather than out in the open for all to listen to, or to see and police each day."

As for the information program, said Benton, it would be necessary as national policy even if "the Pacific Ocean opened up and swallowed Russia and every Communist party tomorrow morning.

'Too Much Security'

Newsmen Protest to MacArthur

Toyko (Thursday) Feb. 19 (AP).—Security regulations "have been used repeatedly in an effort to control or influence the handling of news" from Japan, General MacArthur was told today.

A special committee of the Tokyo Correspondent Club reported that Army agents raided one newsman's home and nine others were embarrassed by critical letters his officers sent their employers.

It said one correspondent has been barred from Japan and others have been harassed by attempts at intimidation, coercion and censorship.

There was no immediate comment from MacArthur or his headquarters.

The correspondents asked the supreme commander for "a clear definition of peacetime security."

The correspondents said they had tried for 18 months to get the definition.

MacArthur recently cabled Publisher Malcolm Muir of Newsweek that he doubted if the Allied press "enjoys anywhere in the world greater freedom in gathering and dissemination of news" than in Tokyo.

The correspondents' report said such information as Japanese crime, rationing, statistics, dollar loan negotiations, purges, reparations and industrial decentralization has been made secret.

Dutch to Sell U. S. Stocks, Cut Imports

$500 Millions, Privately Owned, Face Requisitioning, Gradual Liquidation

The Hague, The Netherlands, Feb. 18 (AP).—The Dutch government announced today plans to requisition and selling millions of dollars worth of American stocks held by private Dutch investors. An immediate drastic cut in imports from the dollar also was ordered.

Finance Minister Lieftinck said the steps were taken because of an acute shortage of dollars. Netherlands holdings of American securities are estimated 500 million dollars. The sale would be a "gradual process" without an abrupt liquidation on the New York stock market.

World War II emergency legislation is still in force.

2 Reds Confess Creating Bad Musical Works

Moscow, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—Two leading Russian composers, accused of creating antidemocratic music, have confessed their ideological sins and promised to do better, it was made known today.

The confessions were made last night by Sergei Prokofiev, one of Russia's "big three" composers, and Vano Muradelli, whose recent opera caused the Central Committee of the Communist Party to crack down on composers, critics and teachers.

Polies Warn U. S. on Illegal Flights

Warsaw, Feb. 18 (AP).—A government spokesman said today Poland is "fed up" with Americans flying into the country without visas.

He said future "trespassers" would face trial and sentences of one year in Polish prisons.

"We've had it, as they say in America," said Wiktor Grosz, minister plenipotentiary for the Communist-led government. "We are fed up. Our patience is at an end."

Five United States Army airmen were held for 20 hours after they returned United States Ambassador Stanton Griffis to Poland Monday night. They were released yesterday to return to Berlin "out of courtesy to the Ambassador," Grosz said.

He said the airmen did not have Polish visas and did not obtain clearance for the flight. He recalled this was the second instance and added:

"All illegal crossing of our frontier will be prosecuted. All civilized countries have regulations which must be observed."

United States Embassy officials said Griffis' plane had clearance to land but the crewmen inadvertently left their visas in Berlin. They said the plane received permission while in flight to land anyway, but when the plane landed the fliers were arrested.

been written into European relief legislation.

The President said there would have to be "assurances that the Chinese government will take such economic, financial and other measures as are practicable, looking toward the ultimate goal of economic stability and recovery." He added that the United States would reserve the right to cut off help if it were not being handled in accordance with China's pledges.

The draft legislation would require China to distribute the American supplies at fair prices, to try and stabilize her currency, and to give full information about the program to the United States Government, the Chinese people and American press and radio observers.

China would also promise to "facilitate the sale" of strategic materials to the United States and set up a special fund of local currency obtained from the sale of American supplies. Similar provisions were included in the Administration's draft bill for the European recovery program.

There was also a provision—important in case of long-drawn-out debate over the appropriation—for an advance of 150 million dollars by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as soon as the program was authorized. The 570 million dollars would be available until June 30, 1949.

The President's message also made a suggestion that may remove one of the present Republican objections to the European Recovery Program. This was that the Chinese program should be administered by the same agency that handles ERP.

Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.) and other Republicans have already proposed that the new ERP agency handle all American relief and recovery efforts, European or otherwise.

Recalling American help to China and friendship for her people, the President reminded Congress of the strain placed upon them by war, occupation and blockade. "The wartime damage has been greatly accentuated," he said, "by the continued obstruction and destruction of vital communications by the Communist forces. The civil warfare has further impeded recovery by forcing upon the government heavy expenditures which greatly exceed revenues."

The amount of help provided under the 570-million-dollar figure, he said, was "within the limits of available supplies."

Roberts Hits Allen for Delay On UMT Bill

Action of Chairman Allen (R., Ill.) of the House Rules Committee in preventing the House from voting on universal military training was termed "legalistic jockeying" yesterday by Owen J. Roberts.

The former Supreme Court Justice called Allen's "repeated refusals" to permit the Rules Committee to free the bill for House action "a travesty of the American system of representative government." He added:

"As an individual member of Congress, it is your right and duty to vote your own convictions. My point is that the other 434 members of the House of Representatives are equally entitled to vote their convictions."

Roberts wrote to Allen as national chairman of the National Security Committee, an organization of private citizens who favor universal training. He said Allen's opposition to UMT was "well known" and pointed out that the legislator had voted against 10 defense measures "in the critical months before Pearl Harbor."

A bill to require training of young men at 18 or upon finishing high school was approved eight months ago by the House Armed Services Committee. Since then it has been bottled up in the Rules Committee, which decides when a bill should be considered by the House.

In the Senate the Armed Services Committee is to decide early next month whether to hold its own hearings on the question or to wait for the House to act.

One-Night War Is Picture by Air General

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Orville A. Anderson, Air War College commandant, said today atomic war might be settled in one night with "mass-destroying weapons."

Anderson spoke to the United States Conference of Mayors here. He was commenting on a recent statement of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower that a future war might be limited to 60 days.

Anderson told the mayors:

"The man who understands the decisive nature of concentration in time and space, with the limitations that are imposed on him in the matter of atomic warheads, wouldn't, in my opinion, take 60 days.

"The period, I think, will be one night, because that would be the proper application of material forces against a nation not prepared to counter. That is the impact that these mass-destroying weapons have brought on us."

James B. Conant, Harvard University president, urged passage of a Federal school aid bill proposed by Senator Taft (R., Ohio), because he said the States need Federal funds for public school support.

In the Taft measure (Senate Bill 472) "The abstention from any degree of Federal control over the States is painstakingly detailed," Conant declared.

The mayors by resolution called on Congress to extend rent control "until present housing shortage conditions are eliminated." They added that "if rent control is discontinued, a serious inflation in housing rentals would result."

Other resolutions approved by the 250 mayors included a proposal that State-collected revenues be apportioned "on a more equitable basis" and an indorsement of bills for Federal aid to education now before Congress.

The delegates re-elected conference officers, including Mayor George W. Welsh of Grand Rapids, Mich., president.

Food Prices Here Seen Holding Level

Usual Weekend Reductions Expected But Wild Slashing Is Declared Over

Most food prices here are expected to continue through Saturday near levels set in last weekend's price competition, except for usual market "specials."

Butter and eggs will be 2 to 4 cents higher in many stores today reflecting wholesale increases, with a few cuts of meat priced higher, and some lower, than last week.

"We'll cut some prices as we do every weekend," said one merchant, "but most of the wild price cuts you saw last weekend are over.

"The wholesale market," he added, "has reacted more like the economists said it would, than like the housewives hoped it would."

A meat wholesaler said several cuts of meat, such as some top-grade steaks and lamb, have dropped three to four cents here, but chuck and other cuts increased.

Butter, which climbed three to four cents on the New York market on Tuesday after an increase the previous day, dropped back two cents yesterday, showing a net gain so far this week of three to 4½ cents over last week.

Egg prices were up yesterday one to 1½ cents a dozen at New York.

U. S. Livestock Supply Low

mittee will consider today how much grain should be granted the industry.

Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R., Mich.), of the House Banking Committee, which killed the program earlier, said he would not consider it again until rent control legislation was disposed of and the grain markets had "settled."

The livestock report showed the following on the Nation's farms on January 1:

Milk cows: 25,165,000; last year 26,098,000; 1946, 26,695,000; prewar 25,973,000.

Hogs: 55 million; last year 57 million; 1946, 61 million; prewar 59 million.

Sheep numbers are the lowest since the Civil War period. The total is 35 million compared with 38 million last year, 42 million in 1946 and 51 million prewar.

Horses number 6,600,000 against 9,900,000 prewar. Mules are down to 2,500,000 from 3,700,000 prewar.

On January 1 there were 462 million chickens on the Nation's farms. A year ago there were 474 million; two years ago 530 million and prewar 474 million.

Turkeys number only 4,500,000, compared with 6,650,000 last year; 8,493,000 two years ago; and 7,192,000.

Government experts report that Americans are eating meat at such a rapid rate that supplies may continue shrinking for several years.

Union Council Accepts British Wage Freeze

London, Feb. 18 (AP).—The general council of the Trades Union Congress, which represents eight million workers, agreed today to accept with conditions the government's freeze on wage increases.

The TUC said the government must pursue "vigorously and firmly a policy designed not only to stabilize but to reduce profits and prices."

Executives of the 187 affiliated unions will meet March 24 to consider the report.

Several individual unions announced they would not drop their demands. These represent about four million workers.

The TUC also decided today to call a conference of trade unions from countries that will participate in the Marshall Plan in London, March 8-10.

The move was opposed by executives of the World Federation of Trade Unions and Soviet trade union officials.

Wallace's Strength

The outcome of Tuesday's special election in New York's Twenty-fourth Congressional District confirms what most political commentators have for some time surmised—that Henry Wallace, if he wishes to do so, can deprive the Democratic candidate of New York State's 47 electoral votes next November. Thus, as a political portent, the election possesses great significance which will not be lost upon the kingmakers in either of the major parties. To say, however, as Henry Wallace did in commenting on his protege's triumph, that "this proves that the so-called third party can become the first party in 1948" is plainly arrant nonsense. It proves only what everyone has recognized and admitted, that the third party has significant nuisance value.

The Twenty-fourth Congressional District is one in which minority interests played a dominant role. The district has a large Negro population. Mr. Wallace appealed to this group in behalf of his candidate, Leo Isacson, assailing the civil rights record of the Truman Administration; it should surprise neither Republicans nor Democrats if large numbers of Negroes nationally support Henry Wallace in protest against the too-often empty pieties of the old parties. The Twenty-fourth District has a considerable Jewish population; Mr. Wallace wooed and evidently won it for Mr. Isacson by flaying the failure of the Truman Administration to act decisively in respect of Palestine. There is a large labor element in the district; it cast its lot with the American Labor Party, probably despite rather than because of the Communist influence in that party.

The American Labor Party which won 56 per cent of the votes cast in the Twenty-fourth District on Tuesday can scarcely be expected to repeat or even to rival this performance in any other part of New York, let alone outside the State. All the same, its impressive gain over 1946, when it garnered only 27 per cent of the votes cast, should give uncomfortable pause to Republican and Democratic leaders alike. The ALP cut the Democratic percentage from 44 in 1946 to 31 on Tuesday. But it cut the Republican percentage from 19 to a mere 3.6. Even allowing for the peculiarities of the district, so much resentment is revealed here, so much dissatisfaction with old-line leadership, so much vague yet genuine yearning for a fresh approach to the world's problems that the major parties can ignore them only at their peril. Mr. Wallace must be credited at least with furnishing a jolt to complacency.

Two Koreas

Russia's reported decision to set up a puppet "democratic people's republic" in northern Korea is the companion piece of her refusal to admit the United Nations electoral commission to her zone. There can be no solution to the economic and political strangulation of unhappy Korea unless and until the Soviet is ready to negotiate. That possibility is rendered remote by Russia's nose-thumbing gesture in presenting the U. N. with a fait accompli. Meanwhile, as the recent riots in southern Korea testify, the American occupation is not increasing in popularity or effectiveness.

The American position remains in support of the United Nations decision to observe elections in Korea. What the Little Assembly will do when it receives the negative report of its electoral commission is of course problematical, though the logical next step would be for the U. N. to call for and supervise elections in the American zone alone. These elections would then provide the basis for the selection of a separate south Korean government if that is desirable. We shall be in a much stronger position vis a vis world opinion if we wait for a U. N. decision than if we take such a decision arbitrarily ourselves. We can of course make known our feeling that an election should not be postponed. Such an election, even if it would entrench rightist elements about which the State Department has some justifiable misgivings, would at least represent the democratic choice of the Korean people. That would be about as close as we could come to carrying out our pledge of independence while Moscow flouts its commitment.

In the last analysis, the possibility of an agreement with Russia on Korea depends, in this newspaper's opinion, on the successful outcome of the European Recovery Program. If the Soviet is faced with a united Europe, then she may be willing to negotiate a general settlement. If this possibility proves illusory, obviously we cannot remain in Korea. For our troops there would have an untenable position were the present no-agreement dogma of the Soviet Union to be perpetuated. Should that unfortunate situation by crystallized, than we should have to base our actions on a well-thought-out plan of strategy rather than on global containment.

Sinophilia

The peculiar word heading this editorial simply means a feeling for China. Such a feeling embraces many schools of thought on the China question—and, we dare say, they will all react negatively, though for different reasons, to the 570-million-dollar aid program that has just been announced. We suspect that the plan, which follows the interim aid pattern of assistance, is offered without enthusiasm. Both the President and the Secretary of State have been subjected to pressure to help war-torn China, and, undoubtedly, think of this program as a sop to those who, like Representative Judd, insist that China is our first line of defense. These latter want to arm the National government of China under Chiang Kai-shek with enough American power in munitions and men for the defeat and eradication of the Chinese Communists. They will see in the present program an effort to dodge what they insist is the real issue in China. The Marshall planners (lately reinforced by General Eisenhower) think that the real issue for this country lies in western Europe, and are against any dispersion of our limited American resources to China till the European program has been fulfilled. Then they would apply the Marshall technique to China.

In due course—and perhaps a beginning could be made now—there should of course be a Marshall Plan for China—that is to say, a plan based on help in return for self-help. Many months ago the outlines of such a program were suggested in these pages. It should be focused on the resuscitation of China's depreciated currency. The greatest disservice that this country ever rendered to China was in forcing China off the silver standard with the Silver Purchase Act. There may be no chance in China of returning to such a standard. But the introduction of silver coins out of the American hoard of silver might serve to stop the present hyperinflation. This is due not so much to the rapid increase in the note issue for the financing of the civil war as to the velocity of its circulation. Each dollar in China is now doing the function of four prewar dollars. Such a rapid turnover comes from Chinese anxiety to turn their money into goods. If the currency were made redeemable in silver coins, then Chinese confidence in the currency might be regained. The fund that Chinese experts estimate would be required for this operation is 400 million ounces, say, 300 million dollars.

An objection has been raised to this course, that the coins would be hoarded. But, far from this being a disadvantage, it is an advantage. Remember that the chief problem is the swift transfer of notes into goods and the consequent upward lift to prices. It follows that if people hoarded the coins as soon as they were issued instead of spending them, the result would be anti-inflationary. And after prices stopped rising, the flight of money into goods might be stopped, with each dollar again able to serve the purpose of four dollars. Another objection is that such a plan would not stop the government from issuing notes to cover its deficit. But note issues are necessitated by inflation as well as by deficits because of the loss of buying power that the government sustains between raising money and paying bills. Moreover, given an initial period of stability, a breathing spell would be provided for fiscal reforms for the increase of revenue. The silver plan, in short, might prove to be a constructive service to China.

The present plan has no such merit. And, to repeat, it is intended only as a pacifier of agitation in both America and China for all-out intervention in behalf of Chiang Kai-shek. The program seems bound to result in competition with ERP aid. Even if the fund is not subtracted from the fund that would otherwise be available for western Europe, there might be competition for the goods. Anything that imperils ERP is, in our opinion, something to be avoided. A silver program for China would not be subject to this danger.

Turning On The Light

No. VII

Congressional inquiries should be dedicated to enlightenment and not to persecution.

Because many congressional investigations have been motivated by politics, it is often assumed that no restraint can be imposed on the partisanship of investigators. We do not share that view. As previously noted, the most successful investigations have been those which have subordinated politics to a public demand for facts. When the facts have been brought forth, they may be more useful to one party than another. But if an investigation is conducted in a partisan manner, it is not likely to be really useful to anyone; for it cannot be depended upon to uncover the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Facts will be blurred by smearing, which may be as detrimental to the smear artists themselves as to their victims.

It would be foolish, of course, to try to take politics out of the legislative process. Political differences are the essence of democracy. Intelligent men who are serving the public interest, however, try to confine their differences to the interpretation of facts and to the shaping of policy on the basis of facts. Only chaos results from a biased or incompetent search for the facts themselves. And it is in this realm of fact-finding that the congressional investigating committee necessarily functions.

In our opinion, therefore, the proposed code of fair procedure for congressional investigations should include a rule requiring all such investigations to be conducted in a nonpartisan manner. It is true that each investigating committee would put its own interpretation on that restraint. Smearsmen cannot be transformed into fair-minded fact-finders by a rule. Nevertheless, such a rule would give the public, the press and Congress itself a measuring rod by which to judge the performance of each group of investigators. Partisanship in the investigative process would thus be more readily apparent and more widely condemned, and pressure of this sort is after all the most reliable weapon against the abuse of any governing power.

Plague On The March

A grim problem faces American cattlemen, and hence all consumers of meat and dairy products, in the northward spread of foot-and-mouth disease in Mexico. An article in the Farm Journal, reprinted in an advertisement in this newspaper on Monday, gives a vivid picture of the threat posed as close as 275 miles south of the Rio Grande. The alarming thing is that the course of this highly infectious cattle malady has not been checked with any certainty; the Farm Journal takes a dim view of the effectiveness so far of the 35-million-dollar slaughter program conducted by the Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Mexican government.

Whether or not the program has been effective is a moot point. This much is certain: since the outbreak was discovered at the end of 1946, the disease has encompassed 16 Mexican States. According to the Department of Agriculture, as many as 3½ million cattle may be infected. Understandably, American ranchers are worried. For unless the quarantine can be enforced in northern Mexico, there is the prospect of a costly invasion of American herds, causing millions of dollars of damage and possibly permanent impairment of the meat and milk supply.

It is too early to determine whether the quarantine line drawn across Mexico will prove workable. This is the primary stratagem resorted to by American experts after the slaughter program in the areas to the south bogged down in misunderstanding among the Mexican people whose cattle were infected. It has been difficult for a Mexican farmer to comprehend why his burro or ox had to be shot, especially when the disease was not yet apparent. Moreover, a certain amount of bureaucratic red tape and international negotiation were entailed in getting the program rolling, and sometimes payments or replacement animals have not been forthcoming promptly. Thus the emphasis now is on use of vaccines and patrolled fences to keep the area north of the quarantine line free from contamination.

These are, to be sure, devious expedients which do not substitute for an eradication program—which means killing infected and exposed animals. Indeed, it is questionable whether a fence line can be guarded sufficiently well to prevent invasion. Apparently, however, this is all that can be done pending a broad campaign of education among the Mexican people, something which the Mexican government sensibly has undertaken. This is, of course, a long-term proposition. From our own standpoint, the important thing is to make sure that the Department of Agriculture has the funds and cooperation necessary to hold the line until the disease can be pushed southward and ultimately stamped out.

War Power In Peace

In upholding the Rent Control Act of 1947 as an exercise of Congress' war powers, the Supreme Court once more laid down the rule that the war power may be used "to remedy the evils which have arisen from its rise and progress" even though the war itself may have terminated. Any other reasoning would impose crippling restrictions upon the war power. For it would mean that essential wartime restraints would have to be lifted the minute fighting ceased, thus bringing chaos upon the people, perhaps worse chaos than if no wartime restrictions had been imposed. "So to read the Constitution," Justice Douglas said for the court, "would be to make it self-defeating."

At the same time the court recognized the danger in permitting indefinite extension of the war power into peacetime. Taking special note of the argument that if the war power can be used in days of peace to treat all the wounds which war inflicts on our society, it may swallow up all other powers of Congress, Justice Douglas wrote: "There are no such implications in today's decision." Not wholly satisfied with this admission that there are limits to the use of the war power in peacetime, Justice Jackson added in a concurring opinion: "I would not be willing to hold that war powers may be indefinitely prolonged merely by keeping legally alive a state of war that had in fact ended."

It is good to know that members of the court are alert to the danger of projecting war powers indefinitely into governmental relations in peacetime. At present, however, we do not think there can be reasonable dissent from the court's conclusion that it is legitimate to use the war power to avert wholesale gouging of rents because of the shortage of housing resulting from curtailed construction during the war.

Pan American Annex

In a news story in your issue of February 11 on the proposal to build a Pan American Annex in the triangular space in front of the Interior Building, you included the following bit of surreptitious editorializing:

"Krug's predecessor, Harold Ickes, also opposed the annex in the triangle, but critics said it was because it would block the view from his office of Constitution ave."

This sentence is unpleasant. You adopt and make on your own the charge that I was opposed to this building "because it would block the view from my office." Perhaps you regard as a merit of this building that is now under construction in the very front yard of Interior, that it will block the view from the Secretary's office.

When I objected to the erection of this building during my tenure as Secretary of the Interior, I did not know how long I would occupy that office, but I did know that it would not be forever. If one element of my criticism was that the annex would obstruct the view from Interior, it was legitimate, although it was only a small and necessarily transient part of my objection. I believe that I was capable then, as I am now, of regarding this building as outrageous from the larger point of view of a beautiful and well-planned Washington.

It happens that my objection is none the weaker now that I have been away from Interior for more than two years. When I drove along Constitution ave. a few days ago it was easy to visualize, on the basis of the excavation that was under way, what the building itself would do to one of the most architecturally satisfying structures in the city.

The small and unimaginative men who are proceeding with the annex now did not venture to oppose the view of President Roosevelt, which was founded on good taste and a sense of sound city planning.

You may be interested in knowing that it was I who finally persuaded President Roosevelt to the purchase of Blair House. Certainly this did not have anything to do with "my view from my office." I tried to convince the President that the Government ought to buy historic Decatur House, again with no reference to the possible effect of that building upon "the view from my office." I expressed to President Roosevelt my exception to the erection of the Jefferson Monument on the site that it occupies. I may have been wrong in this instance, but certainly, in expressing my view, I had no selfish motive relating to the "view from my office." It also happened that I was delighted when the President authorized me, as administrator of Public Works, to negotiate for the purchase of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, although no glimpse of that could even be seen from my office.

"Kitty Hawk"

I refer to your editorial of February 12 entitled "Kitty Hawk," and the statement that the Wright-Smithsonian controversy was "a silly dispute, which never should have been permitted to assume such proportions in the first place," and that part of the attitude of the Smithsonion in maintaining that Samuel P. Langley was the inventor of the first successful heavier-than-air machine was no doubt "due to the difficulty of attributing precise responsibility for a scientific attainment when there were many close contenders."

In order to make a comparison, suppose, for instance, that the father of your editorial writer had discovered the secret of flight after he had discarded all the data supplied by his predecessors, constructed his own wind tunnel, then built his airplane and his engine and flown the airplane two months after a predecessor's plane had demonstrated that it could not fly.

Suppose that 11 years later the Smithsonian Institution (highest scientific authority in the United States) had permitted his predecessor's plane to be removed to Hammondsport, N. Y., where many aerodynamic and other changes were made so that it could fly, and then placed it on exhibition as the first heavier-than-air machine capable of maintaining sustained human flight, and so stated in its report for that year.

Then, suppose for 14 more years this scientific institution continued to publish false and misleading reports in a subtle campaign to take credit away from his father for the invention of the airplane. Do you think he would have called it a "silly dispute?" And do you think he would say that, after all, there were "many close contenders" for the discovery of flight, and that he should forgive the Smithsonian for treating his father that way?

Symphony Criticism

Mr. Hume's February 15 article, "Symphony Agitato Centers on Kindler," at last sheds some light on the mystery of the "agitato."

A first class artist (to my mind Dr. Kindler ranks high among living conductors) is being assailed by letters. The method of approach is the well known cry "by the voice of the people" as recently used by the gentlemen of the Kremlin against composers like Shostakovich and Prokofieff. Any man of culture, and I suppose the vast majority of your readers, knows that true art (no matter whether that of great composers, sculptors, painters or great leaders of science) is the matter of the few for the benefit of the many and, hence, is an artistocracy working for the benefit of democracy.

It has always been the cream of democracy and never "the voice of the people" who knew what it meant to support art. If the National Symphony Orchestra Association, through its board of directors, had decided to take the deficit upon themselves, they would have given proof of their fitness to be cultural leaders, and would have deserved praise rather than being assailed by criticism.

Blackmail On Middle East Oil

American self-interest requires, we are told by numerous civilians, military men, and diplomats, that the United States abdicate its decision for Palestine partition. The reason is that, at whatever cost, we must have Middle East oil, and we cannot afford, therefore, to arouse Arab anger.

I do not ask here to whom the Arabs will sell their oil if not to us. There is no possible customer elsewhere except Russia. To suggest that the Arab despots—for that is what they are—would turn to Russia, is to suggest that fire seeks water. One notes, in this context, that Ibn Saud, who holds most of the proved Middle East oil resources and is the most powerful figure in the area, has made a distinction between the actions of the United States Government and, with respect to Palestine, those of American oil companies.

The oil we want is in the Arab world. This world, during the last war, was largely pro-Axis, as was much of the Moslem world. In 1941 there came the dangerous Ali Rashid revolt in Iraq, a revolt that, luckily for all of us, was crushed by Britain. One of the principal leaders of Arab rebellion against the Allies was the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, who is now leading the revolt against Palestine partition. Although he is one of the greatest of war criminals, it has not even been suggested that he be tried.

So, too, Britain and Russia jointly had to take over Iran and chase out the Shah to keep it from falling into German hands. Egypt, as is well known, scarcely lifted a hand to help the Allies during the war.

A little while ago Mr. Ernest Bevin arose in Commons to make an exultant speech concerning the new treaty he had recently negotiated with the Iraq Prime Minister. (In this he had the full approval of our State Department.)

Before the Iraq Prim Minister could return to Bagdad, murderous riots against the treaty took place in the streets of the capital, and the Iraqi who negotiated it is now an exile in Syria.

Our policy of dependence upon Middle East oil is to risk the security of this Nation. In the unhappy event of war with Russia that country could overrun the area before we could muster a corporal's guard. And, in the unlikely event that Russia should neither overrun the Middle East — sabotage the pipe lines, we should have to transport the oil thousands of miles to the United States, or elsewhere.

The tankers would be subject to attack by both aircraft and submarines. The United States Navy can tell Congress how many vessels of all types it took to combat the old-type German submarines, also how many it would take to combat the new-type German submarine which, fortunately for us, began to appear only at the end of the war. The Russians have this submarine, as well as we. They also have numbers of German submarine experts.

What of Middle East oil in peacetime? The notion is abroad that we must have it. Indeed, we tell the Arabs we must have it, and apparently we are preparing to sabotage the United Nations in the Palestine case in order to get it. The end result is to subject us to limitless blackmail possibilities on the part of the countries that hold the oil. This has happened to us before in the case of indispensable materials that we do not have at all inside the United States, and obviously it can happen in the case of oil, which we do not have in inexhaustible supply.

In 1923 the British, through the Stevenson Act restricting rubber production in British colonies, forced the price of rubber up to more than $2 a pound, and the violent protests of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover that this was in effect a premeditated gouging of the United States, the world's largest user of rubber, were of no avail. So far as raw rubber is concerned, it is clear that if we did not have synthetic rubber plants in this country, we would again have to pay almost any price demanded of us for raw rubber.

Is there a way out? There certainly is. It lies in the erection of synthetic oil distilleries inside the United States. Gasoline may be derived from natural gas, shale, coal and lignite. These are found here in inexhaustible quantities. Such plants would forever remove the possibilities of blackmail on the part of foreign oil countries. They would insure adequate gasoline supplies in the one place where it is safe to have them in the event of war—at home. They would be supplementary to our supplies of natural petroleum, thereby conserving them into the indefinite future.

Bossing The Schools

THE TEACHER of a country school I attended solved the problem of punishment by having unruly pupils remain after hours and memorize the Constitution. Needless to say those pupils grew up devoid of enthusiasm—to put it mildly—for the noble charter of their rights.

But this type of teacher may be slated for revival, if the present trend toward patriotism by fiat continues to grow. Cropping up throughout this country and Canada are threats of a totalitarian technique in education whose product would be, as in Hitler's Germany, and in the Soviet Union, mental goose-steppers.

Here and there legislators and school boards are attempting to rewrite the textbooks. Students must be kept in ignorance of communism, shielded from pictures of Stalin. This country's system of government must be depicted as so perfect it is ready for embalming.

Libraries increasingly are banning—though not yet burning—"dangerous" books and periodicals. Incipient witch hunts for "radical perfessers" bring reminder of the Red scare of the early 1920s, when the bromide of the day at women's club meetings was "Our colleges are honeycombed with bolshevism!"

ONE RESULT of these ideological jitters is the clamor for more teaching of American history and of the Constitution. Typical of this is the bill now before Congress requiring that in the schools of the Capital four years be devoted to United States history, two years to the Constitution.

This may seem to some a surefire formula for turning out patriots. But American history and the Constitution formally imposed, glorified according to super patriots' direction, will not in themselves develop in pupils devotion to the American system. Rather, say educators, this pattern is likely to lead to disillusionment when the student goes into the world and finds he does not live in Utopia.

The manner in which the Constitution and American history are taught is, of course, the gist of the matter. One inspired teacher can make the Constitution more of a living faith to pupils in two hours than a drillmaster in facts can in two years.

Some of those raising the present commotion give the impression that American history and civics have been thrown out of the schools. Yet a fairly recent survey showed that 47 of the 48 States require teaching of these. The United States Office of Education is now completing a survey undertaken more than a year ago to find out how much and what kind of study are being given to the Constitution in the Nation's schools. It is also starting a program to emphasize by means of up-to-date pedagogy American traditions and their meaning.

THE OLD formal teaching of civics, which studied the Constitution merely as an historical document, is out in modern schools. Education today tries to make democratic procedures a learning experience for students. Citizenship councils, student government bodies absorb democratic principles by practicing them. Students also learn the workings of representative government by observing governmental bodies. They study the significance of the Constitution in its relation to present public problems and to the struggle for human freedom everywhere.

Educators generally are becoming alarmed over the efforts of frightened or emotionally aroused lay citizens to take over the process of teaching. The danger is not only that of forcing antiquated methods on the schools but of legislating their curriculums.

The professionals who do the teaching take the stand that authority should be delegated them to do the best jobs they can, and if their jobs are not satisfactory they can be fired. But they cannot function, they say, with amateur censors at their elbows. They cannot kindle a passion for human freedom in the young or train them to think independently, which are the aims of democratic education, if they themselves must be educational robots.

Diplomatic Duplicity

The ugly charges stirred up by the expose of the Russian-Nazi agreement to divide Poland serve mainly to confirm that a welter of duplicity is unavoidable in the intercourse of nations necessarily looking after their own safety and interests.

At the very moment the notorious treaty was being signed by Stalin and Ribbentrop, Sir Stafford Cripps, the British special ambassador was present in Moscow intent on signing an alliance with the man now being called a faithless, dictatorial expansionist.

It would cast an interesting slant on the business to learn if Sir Stafford came empty handed, appealing to a fellow Socialist, or offering less tempting portions of European and Asiatic territory as inducement. But more interesting in view of the present venting of feelings is the question, What opinion would now be being voiced about the character of Stalin and his Communist ideologies had he signed up with the British instead of with the Germans?

No honest reader of history will see a difference between what Stalin did with Hitler in Russia's interest and what any other nation has done or would do under similar pressure. The sole purpose here is to emphasize that the U.N. was formed to make unnecessary the secret diplomatic intrigues and duplicities nations have found inescapable without it.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Milliken Amendment

THE MILLIKIN amendment would set aside three billions of this year's Treasury surplus to be used in the fiscal year beginning in July to help finance the ERP. This device undoubtedly makes it easier for the Marshall Plan to survive in the competition among the other large claimants for funds—China, Greece, Turkey, Germany, the strategic Air Force, universal military training, and also the taxpayers who want their taxes reduced.

Lippmann

A LARGE and difficult question of policy is, however, raised by the amendment. In principle the Treasury surplus which is accumulating this year had already been set aside, and was to be used to reduce the Government debt held by the banks. The object of reducing the debt was, of course, to make bank credit scarcer, and thus to moderate the inflation.

The total surplus this year is estimated at 7.5 billions by the Treasury and at 8.7 billions by the Joint Congressional Committee. If these figures can be taken at face value, they would mean that even with the Milliken amendment, there would be a sizable surplus left for the deflationary measure of reducing the debt. There are, however, high authorities in the field of monetary affairs who say that, owing to gold imports and to the funds used to support the Government bond market, only a small part of the surplus is really available for genuine deflation. For the bank reserves created by the gold imports and by the bond purchases in the open market offset in considerable measure the bank reserves extinguished by paying off bonds held by the banks.

THE MILLIKIN amendment is, therefore, inflationary. If, in addition, Congress reduces taxes, and if it does not clamp down on the activities of the many Government corporations which are multiplying credit, the net effect of Government policy will be not to apply the brakes but to step on the gas.

This can be justified as a matter of public policy only if we have already passed the peak of the inflation and are now entering upon a period of deflation and recession.

THE TRUTH of the matter is that at this time no one knows for sure what the real situation is. The consequences of the inflation are, of course, very obvious in the high prices of goods, in very full employment and in the heavy demand for critical materials. But because deflationary forces take time to produce their effects, they are often invisible in the earlier phases. That is why not only speculators but also monetary experts who must advise on matters of high fiscal policy find it so extremely difficult to judge a situation like the present one.

All one can be reasonably certain about is that at this time there are both inflationary and deflationary forces at work, that it is not clear which will prevail, and that, therefore, the sound policy is to be very flexible and alert—to see which way the cat is going to jump, and to be prepared to act accordingly. In regard to taxes this would mean getting a bill ready to reduce taxes but not to reduce them unless there are signs that a depression, as distinct from a readjustment of prices, is setting in. And for the time being it would mean continuing, not reversing, the policy of using the Treasury surplus to reduce Government debt.

A LITTLE later on the indications may be clear enough to justify a modification of this austere fiscal policy. For the deflationary forces already in motion, though they are not spectacular, may gradually be producing powerful effects. In the past few months there has been an increase in interest rates. There has been a reduction in bank deposits. There has been a break in bond prices. The crop prospects are very much better than had been anticipated. And there is throughout the world an accelerating exhaustion, not only in Europe but in the Western Hemisphere, of dollars for the purchase of American exports.

BEYOND THAT there is the impending British financial crisis, an almost certain demonstration that the economic plans for a German revival are largely miscalculated and unworkable, not to speak of what may be expected in China and Japan.

It is now almost mathematically certain that about half of the Marshall Plan—the half that is designed for Britain and Germany—can only mitigate the trouble, that it cannot produce recovery and restore solvency. That half is none the less important politically and humanly. But in a prudent and objective estimate of what probably lies ahead, we must brace ourselves against surprises and shocks coming from that great part of the world economy of which Britain is the strategic center.

THE CRISIS could be of such dimensions that emergency measures, above and beyond the Marshall Plan, may become imperative. This is not intended, of course, to be alarmist, and there is no reason for hysteria. In fact hysteria would only make matters worse. But the portents are sufficient to demand on our part planning and preparation for many contingencies which have not yet been taken into account in our vastly overextended, infinitely complicated, and thinly supported, general policy.

Washington Calling

Understanding Atomic Energy

IN A recent speech Chairman David Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission told a story about Orville and Wilbur Wright.

Childs

The two brothers left their successful bicycle business in Dayton, Ohio, some 40-odd years ago to try their homemade airplane in North Carolina. One day their sister in Dayton got a telegram reading: "First sustained flight today. Fifty-Nine seconds. Very happy. Home by Christmas." She rushed to a local newspaper office with the world-shaking news that man for the first time had made a flight in a heavier-than-air machine. The next day, in the personal columns, the following headlines appeared: "Popular Local Bicycle Merchants Home for Holidays."

Lilienthal told this story, which may well be legendary, to illustrate how a discovery meaning revolutionary change can be ignored, or so little understood as to be almost disregarded. When the Wright brothers took their contraption off the sands at Kitty Hawk, N. C., the destruction of great cities by mass bomber atttacks became possible.

The members of the AEC are trying to make the American people understand what a revolution has been wrought by atomic fission. It began with a talk by Lilienthal last September at Crawfordsville, Ind. He assailed the idea that atomic science was so difficult, so remote, so awesome, that only a little priesthood could understand it. The American people, said Lilienthal, must know and understand this new force. They must know because they, rather than a priesthood of scientists and men in uniform, must decide how this force is to be used.

COMMISSIONERS W. W. Waymack and Sumner T. Pike, as well as Lilienthal, have repeatedly stressed this theme. The goal is to overcome the shadow of fear and mystery cast over the whole subject in the wake of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Whether this effort will succeed only time will tell. But in every way, through traveling exhibits, through discussion and debate, the AEC is doing all in its power to stir active, constructive public interest in the force that can spell life or death. Recently when he put one of Lilienthal's talks in the Congressional Record, Representative W. Sterling Cole of New York, vice chairman of the Joint Senate - House Atomic Committee, praised AEC for working to inform Americans so that they "can make intelligent decisions which will guarantee to the world that our use of atomic energy will be for peaceful purposes alone."

Necessarily, of course, 99 per cent of AEC's work is secret and the whole operation is surrounded by a rigid security network. When you call on one of the commissioners you must observe the kind of regulations that prevailed during the war at the highest military levels.

AT THE door of the Public Health Service Building, where AEC has its offices, a check is made to determine whether you have a bona-fide appointment. After you fill out a form giving basic data about yourself, you are given a badge and then a guard escorts you to the proper office. You cannot leave that office without another escort. Everywhere are signs, such as: "Have You Locked Your Safes?" Or "The doors and windows in this room must be locked and checked each evening."

One problem under these circumstances is to insure the loyalty of the thousands of men and women employed by AEC at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; at Hanford, Wash.; in New York, Chicago, and here in the Capital. Opponents of civilian control insisted when the issue was being debated that a commission such as AEF could not maintain security.

At least one attempt has been made—apparently planned by interested persons—to show that security was lax. This backfired badly when it was established that the incident occurred under military control prior to AEC. The AEC has a satisfactory working relationship with J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI, which is directly responsible for checking on security—a huge undertaking.

The commission took a further step in persuading retired Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme Court to head a five-man Loyalty Review Board. This board differs from the one set up by President Truman for all Government employes in that the five distinguished citizens comprising it will make their own rules. In conducting its review cases, the board will see to it "that the national security is protected to the maximum extent, while at the same time affording protection from unfounded accusations to employes of the commission to employes of its contractors and licensees, and to applicants for employment." Thus both security and the right of the individual to fair play will be safeguarded. The commission is as proud of this achievement as it is of the material progress during the past year.

An Appeal to Congress

From 2,300,000 American Farm Families

We are farmers—the producers of soybeans and cotton—and we are taking this means of asking you to do something we believe to be right and fair.

We are asking you to repeal the Federal anti-margarine laws.

CLASS LEGISLATION

The anti-margarine legislation is class legislation. It is unfair and it is un-American. It singles out for special taxation a product which is made almost entirely from the crops we grow — 41.5% of all fat used in margarine is soybean oil and 47.4% is cottonseed oil.

Margarine is the only domestic product which is singled out and taxed for the benefit of a competitive product—butter. We are the only farmers discriminated against for the benefit of another group of farmers.

MARGARINE—A HEALTHFUL AMERICAN FOOD

When Federal anti-margarine legislation was first passed years ago, the claim was made that the laws were necessary to protect public health and to prevent the fraudulent sale of margarine as butter.

Today, there is no dispute about the fact that margarine is a fine, nutritious product—as wholesome and nutritious as butter. Furthermore, the Federal Food and Drug Laws guarantee the proper labeling and standard of purity of all food products, including margarine.

THERE IS NO RIGHT TO COLOR

Some enemies of margarine say the real issue is color. They argue that butter has a right to prevent margarine from being colored yellow by the manufacturer. How, then, can they explain the fact that most butter is artificially colored yellow — without penalty? Moreover, butter is colored various shades of yellow to meet consumer tastes in particular areas.

Because of the 10-cent per pound tax on colored margarine, most margarine must be bleached. The oils used in making it are naturally yellow. This color has to be taken out.

We have then a situation in which the color must be removed from one food product to avoid the payment of a heavy federal tax. Its competitor can—and does—use artificial color freely.

Butter is the only food product which lays claim to a particular color.

If it has a preemptive right to yellow, does not lard have the same right to white? Does not cotton have the same right to colors it used before rayon and other synthetic competitors came along?

Butter's color argument does not make sense.

DAIRY FARMER HOODWINKED

We have no quarrel with the dairy farmers. Many of us are dairymen in our own right and we do not feel that repeal of the anti-margarine laws will hurt the dairy industry.

When the dairyman sells his milk as butter, he gets the lowest price for it. As a result, over the years, the production of butter has been declining steadily.

Here is what a dairyman, Merrit Nash, writing in the Western Dairy Journal for January, says:

> "Butter is as antiquated as a price stabilizer in the dairy industry as is the 'surrey with the fringe on top' in the automobile industry. . . . We cannot get results by plodding along with butter, which as a price stabilizer is a sinking ship if ever there was one."

THE GROWING SOYBEAN INDUSTRY

We feel that Congress is well informed about cotton and the 1,600,000 farms in 18 states which produce it.

We are not so certain that you know about the rising importance of the soybean industry, particularly in the Middle West.

Approximately 700,000 farmers raise soybeans. In 1938, the soybean crop was valued at only 40 million dollars. Last year, it amounted to over 700 million dollars. The principal soybean states are Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, and Missouri. In Illinois, the soybean crop was worth more than all the state's dairy products.

ANTI-MARGARINE LAWS INFLATIONARY

We know that you are well aware of the consumers' interest in the repeal of these laws. 80% of the American people now use margarine.
The anti-margarine laws are inflationary. They increase the cost of living.

They force millions of housewives to take time and trouble in coloring margarine. In 1947, it is estimated that housewives wasted about 14,000,000 pounds of margarine which stuck to the sides of the mixing bowl.

There is not one single valid reason for the continuance of this legislation. Bills for the repeal of the anti-margarine laws are pending in the House and Senate. We urge an early hearing on the measures and that the House and Senate be given an opportunity to vote on the issue.

If this opportunity is given and if the issue is understood, we are confident that these laws will be repealed.

Clark to Be Called In Paroles Probe

Chicago, Feb. 18 (AP).—Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.) announced today he will call Attorney General Tom Clark as a witness before Hoffman's sub-committee investigating the paroles of four former Capone gangsters.

"We want to ask him on what team he's playing," Hoffman said.

Both the subcommittee chairman and Representative Busbey (R., Ill.) declared at today's hearing that the FBI, a branch of the Department of Justice, "constantly thwarted" efforts of the committee to get the full FBI report on the paroles.

Hoffman said the committee also received today evidence that the gangsters would not have been paroled had not the attorney general's department withdrawn a second indictment against them.

This testimony was given by James Doherty, a Chicago Tribune reporter

Doherty was invited by the committee to tell of his investigation of the paroles of Louis (Little New York) Campagna, Philip D'Andrea, Paul (The Waiter) Ricca and Charles (Cherry Nose) Gioe after having served a third of their 10-year terms.

They and others were sentenced from a Federal Court in New York after conviction of exorting more than one million dollars from the motion picture industry.

He said he learned the second indictment had been dismissed by New York representatives of the attorney general in May although the special prosecutor, Boris Kostelanetz, had recommended that it be kept pending.

Representative Dawson (D., Ill.), who sat with the subcommittee as an observer, said the dismissal of the indictment was "usual procedure" of the Government.

Asked by Dawson if he did not agree that the Government was following its usual procedure in this instance, Doherty replied "I don't believe it was."

Doherty said he tried to question Kostelanetz about the paroles. The attorney declined, saying he had been ordered by the Attorney General not to talk.

The Federal Parole Board also declined to say who had interceded in behalf of the men, Doherty related. He described its members as "naive" and said they thought the Capone gang "was some kind of fairy tale."

Efforts to reach Paul Dillon, St. Louis attorney and one-time campaign manager for President Truman, for comment on yesterday's testimony continued unavailing.

Campagna's wife, Charlotte, said she paid $10,000 to Dillon in December for help in obtaining a parole for her husband.

In his testimony before the subcommittee Dillon said he helped the four men obtain release but he had not received any fee.

Dillon has been away from his home and office in St. Louis for weeks.

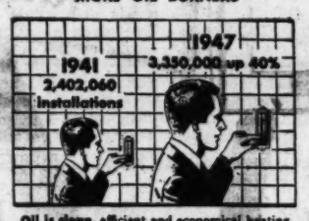
MORE CARS, TRUCKS AND BUSSES

Today, more cars, trucks and busses are on the road than ever before. Huge quantities of fuel and lubricants are consumed daily. A private car will use about 730 gallons per year.

MORE OIL BURNERS

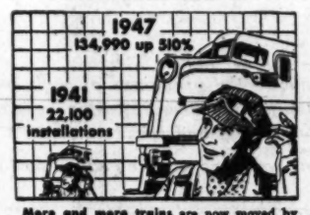


Oil is clean, efficient and economical heating. That's why more homes, schools and hospitals have installed oil burners. The average American home consumes approximately 1750 gallons per year.

MORE FARM MACHINERY

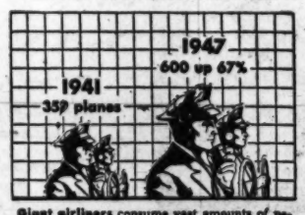
New equipment used by the nation's farmers demands large quantities of petroleum. In the mid-west alone, farm use of oil products has nearly doubled since 1941.

MORE DIESEL ENGINES



More and more trains are now moved by diesel engines . . . use petroleum products to provide power for the roads of steel.

MORE COMMERCIAL PLANES



Giant airliners consume vast amounts of petroleum. Special fuels and lubricants are required to "keep 'em flying." A four-engine plane uses from 200 to 350 gallons every hour it's in the air.

MORE INDUSTRIAL USAGE

As industry steps up production, demand for heavy fuel oil, industrial lubricants and dozens of other petroleum products grows bigger and bigger.

MORE MILITARY NEEDS

Tremendous quantities of petroleum are required by our Army and Navy. For without petroleum, planes cannot fly . . . jeeps cannot move . . . ships cannot sail.

HERE'S WHY

You Must Save Fuel Oil Now

Fuel oil and kerosene must be used carefully. For unless we all save as much fuel oil as possible, there may not be enough to keep our homes, schools and public buildings warm this winter.

This is true even though more oil products are being produced and delivered today than ever before . . . more fuel oil, gasoline, other petroleum products, than even in peak war years. Faced with the greatest demand in history, production is up to new record heights, and crude oil is being rushed to refineries and then to you. But there may not be enough to go around, unless every user saves as much as he possibly can now.

The oil industry is working at breakneck speed to supply you with enough petroleum to meet your needs . . . is spending over 4 billion dollars. New sources of supply are being uncovered . . . right now we are importing more oil than we are exporting . . . refinery and distribution facilities are being expanded . . . newer, faster methods of transportation are being provided.

But this expansion takes time. The oil industry, like others, faces difficulties in obtaining the necessary materials.

Save as much fuel oil, kerosene and gasoline as you can. If everyone cooperates there will be enough for all.

HERE'S HOW

To Save Money . . . Save Fuel Oil . . . Help Stretch the Supply

1. Keep temperature at moderate level—not more than 68 degrees. Turn thermostat to 60 or below at night.
2. Keep doors, windows closed, shades drawn. Close off unused rooms.
3. Install storm windows and insulation to keep heat in . . . cold out.
4. Have your heating system checked to be sure you're getting the most efficient use of your fuel oil.

If everyone cooperates, the current "pinch" need not last too long. As soon as it is humanly possible, there'll be enough oil for all your needs. And the greater your cooperation the sooner that day will be.

If everyone saves . . . there will be enough for all

Wilson at Helm, Gifford Heads A.T.&T. Board

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Walter S. Gifford, ruler of an industrial empire for 23 years, succeeded by Leroy A. Wilson as president of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Gifford moved from the presidency to become chairman of the board, a position vacant since 1928. Such a move is traditional for elder statesmen of the business world.

Directors of A. T. & T. again picked a young man for the presidency. Wilson will be 47 this Saturday. Gifford was only 40 when he took the same job back in 1925.

Gifford

Wilson

And Wilson, again like Gifford, started his business life with the telephone company as a young man fresh out of school.

Started in Ranks

Wilson was born in Terre Haute, Ind., in 1901, graduated from Rose Polytechnic Institute in 1921. He started to work steadily for the company in 1922, after working during the summer of 1919 (to help pay his way through college) as timekeeper with a construction crew.

In 1927 Wilson became traffic superintendent of the Indiana Bell Telephone Co. A few years later he transferred to A. T. & T.'s New York headquarters in the shadow of the Woolworth building. From then on he moved up fast.

Wilson was made general commercial engineer in 1942 and two years later elected vice president. In 1946 he became financial vice president. With today's appointment as president, he was also named a member of the board of directors.

Wilson married a Fort Wayne, Ind., girl, Blanche Wellhide, has one daughter, Shirley Ann. He has been a director of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. since July, 1946.

Walter Gifford joined Western Electric Co. as a $10-a-week clerk after graduating from Harvard. He figured then that he would be satisfied if he could eventually fill a $5000-a-year position.

Some 20 years later he was paid $100,000 a year to guide one of the largest and most intricate enterprises ever put together. He earned a salary of more than $200,000 annually not long after.

A Mystery Man

Gifford has always been something of a mystery man the eyes of the public. Quiet, poised, reticent, he has no leaning to self-glorification.

But in the telephone company he dealt in superlatives, in billions, in terms usually reserved for the ruler of an independent state.

During Gifford's presidency there grew a tradition that has become legendary throughout this country and in financial capitals from London to Shanghai—the $9 annual telephone dividend. Every three months since 1920, in good times and bad, the directors of A. T. & T. have voted to distribute a dividend of $2.25 a share. The $9 dividend has become a symbol of the financial stability of the company and of Gifford's policies. It is paid on some 21,500,000 shares of stock.

Other changes today included the election of Charles P. Cooper, executive vice president, to be vice chairman of the board.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Feb. 18 (AP).—Pessimistic reports on the crop outlook in Kansas provided the background for a late rally in wheat on the Board of Trade today. New crop deliveries canceled early losses and ended with moderate gains. Old crop contracts finished lower.

Corn acted the strongest of all cereals. It had a slump shortly after the Agriculture Department announced the number of livestock on farms on January 1 was the smallest since 1939. But prices bounced back quickly from the setoff. Dealers said country marketings of cash corn were small.

Wheat finished 1¼ lower to 2¾ higher, May 2.35@2.35½; corn was 1¾ to 3¼ higher, May 2.10@2.09½; oats were ⅛ to 1½ higher, May 1.05⅝@1.05½, and soybeans were 3 to 4 cents lower, March 2.37.

Most of the late buying in wheat was believed by brokers to be short covering. It followed a report to one grain house that wheat in southwest Kansas, where the ground is bare of snow, "is very spindly and will have a hard time making a crop." However, reports of this type have been frequent this week.

A statement by Agriculture Secretary Anderson that only 73 million bushels of wheat need to be purchased under the export program did not have much influence on trading. This is approximately the figure which the trade has estimated. Anderson said the export goal will remain at 450 million bushels until at least the end of March.

Modern Autos Called Too Comfortable

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18 (AP).—Modern automobiles are too comfortable for safe driving, according to Prof. Dean A. Fales of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The modern seats in automobiles, while without doubt more comfortable than those in the 1930 models, tend to relax the driver too much and bring on fatigue and drowsiness, Professor Fales told the Governor's highway safety conference.

He said many features of modern cars contribute to eye fatigue and cited the sloping, two-pane windshield, the "soda fountain" steering wheel and inadequate space cleared by windshield wipers.

New York Cotton

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Cotton futures rallied sharply today shortly before the close on a belated covering movement which found offerings scarce. Final prices were 40 cents to $1 a bale higher. Prior to the upturn, the market had fluctuated over a wide range in thin dealings. Traders were hesitant pending a clearer picture on textile demand and export prospects. At times the market was off almost a $2 a bale on flurries of liquidation and selling of nearby March.

Permanent Service Bill for Women Urged

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Top service chiefs yesterday urged Congress to make the WAC, WAVES, and women Marines a permanent part of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and create a fourth such service—the Air Force "WAF."

The biggest guns of the armed forces were turned out to plug legislation keeping the ladies in uniform. Unless Congress acts, the WAC must disband this June, and the WAVES and Marine reserve at the official end of the war.

Air Force officials want to appoint about 7000 women in the officer and enlisted ranks of the Regular USAF. They said the new service undoubtedly would be known as the "Women of the Air Force"—abbreviated to "WAF."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower led off the barrage of Service "brass" backing the bill. Now on leave awaiting retirement, he said he volunteered to appear because he was so much interested in seeing women become a regular part of the services.

Ike told the House armed services subcommittee considering the bill that he was "horror struck" when he first saw Wacs in battle areas. Later, however, he found them indispensable.

"In all the war I never had a woman ask me to get farther back from the battle lines," he testified. "They asked how they could get close to the front. But I had many men try to convince me they could better serve as instructors back home."

Forrestal Favors Bill

Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal strongly urged uassage of the measure, which already has passed the Senate. He was followed by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Acting Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

At Last! Train Reservations With No Waiting In Line!

Now you can get your train reservations simply by making a local telephone call to the C&O's Central Reservation Bureau

1 MAKE A SINGLE PHONE CALL from your home or office. That's all it takes to secure space in Pullmans or reserved-seat coaches on any train of C&O's Chesapeake District.

When you call the number shown below, which is listed for the C&O in your local phone book, you're connected with the new Central Reservation Bureau at Huntington, West Virginia. You pay only the cost of an ordinary local call. You're not bothered by endless "busy signals." You talk right away with a courteous, efficient C&O operator.

2 TELL WHERE YOU'RE GOING, and when, and the kind of accommodations you prefer. The operator sits before a revolutionary new visual control board developed especially by the C&O. It shows instantly all space available on all C&O trains for eight weeks in advance.

The operator will tell you the number of your space, and ask for your name or C&O Credit Card number. That's all it takes to make reservations—both going and returning. No long waits while the operator checks other offices. No calling back to confirm your reservation. A simple phone call takes care of everything.

3 BOARD THE TRAIN. Unless you preferred to pick up your reservation in advance, your ticket will be delivered to you—on the train—by a passenger agent. Tamm's FBI Vote Probe Due to Be Issue

fore 4 p. m., and for 45 minutes told of his 18-year FBI career under questioning of Senator Donnell. The hearing will be continued at 1 p. m. today in Room 424, Senate Office Building.

Tamm's nomination is opposed by the District Bar Association, and by the committee on the judiciary of the American Bar Association. As the hearing started, Senator Donnell read into the record his letter to the American Bar Association judiciary committee, of which he is a member, refusing to vote with it on Tamm because of his Senate role in considering the nomination. Opponents of Tamm are to testify after he finishes.

Other Hearings Delayed

Hearings on two other District justices, James M. Proctor and Harold M. Stephens, were continued yesterday until next Tuesday, because FBI reports had not been received on them. Senator John S. Cooper (R., Ky.), chairman of the subcommittee reviewing the nominations, explained no FBI reports were filed because the agency understood none was needed since the two men are already on the bench. He said a recent change of Senate rules made the reports necessary.

Justice Proctor, nominated from District Court to be associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals here, was indorsed by the District and American Bar Associations and by several lawyers in a brief hearing. Cooper announced that two witnesses had asked to be heard in opposition when the hearing continues at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Justice Stephens, nominated to succeed D. Lawrence Groner as Chief Justice of the Appeals Court here, was also indorsed by the District and American Bar Associations. The hearing on his nomination will be continued at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Experience Is Issue

In the Tamm hearing, a main issue was whether he had practiced law, and whether the fact he had never tried a case in court would hamper him as a judge.

Witnesses were unanimous in saying his work in the FBI had been the broadest kind of law practice, giving him more experience with more types of legal problems than he would have received in private practice.

They were equally unanimous in declaring that lack of courtroom experience would not prevent him from becoming an effective judge.

Said Senator Bridges: "Tamm is outstanding and unusually fitted for the bench. I am completely satisfied that his experience is so broad, his abilities so outstanding that his qualifications for the bench are obvious."

Said Senator McMahon, a former assistant to the Attorney General: "Tamm is judicious, he's cool, he has a good personality and doesn't make enemies, he has a keen legal mind. I sat in many conferences with him and I never saw him caught short on the law yet."

The Washington lawyers who testified for Tamm were: Carl McFarland, former assistant to the Attorney General; James F. Reilly, former member of the District Public Utilities Commission; Lyle F. O'Rourke and Edward P. Morgan, both former FBI agents; John F. Hillyard and Robert I. Miller.

Streetcar Accident Brings $15,000 Verdict

George Bennett, Tremont Gardens, Falls Church, yesterday was awarded $15,000 damages by a District Court jury for injuries suffered when his auto was struck by a streetcar on Christmas Eve, 1945. A daughter, Donna Mae, 15, was awarded $500 and a son Ronald, 10, was granted $50.

According to testimony, the accident occurred when the trolley car split a switch going south on Wisconsin ave. near McLean Gardens. The Capital Transit Co. was defendant.

By Richard L. Coe

"CALL NORTHSIDE 777," at the Palace, is my idea of a good picture.

Newspaper readers will recall the story. A year or so ago a Chicago charwoman inserted a classified ad in the Chicago Times offering $5000 reward for the killers of a policeman 11 years before. The newspaper assigned a reporter to find out what prompted the curious ad—the who, what, why, when and where. The woman had scraped and scrubbed those 11 years and was prepared to scrub 111 more to clear her son of the murder she knew he couldn't have committed.

He eventually was cleared and released from the jail to which he had been sentenced for 99 years. It was a stirring story, one of those vignettes from life which would have been quite incredible as fiction.

Now Twentieth Century-Fox has filmed the story in the realistic style it employed for "The House on 92d Street," "Boomerang" and "Kiss of Death." With James Stewart and Richard Conte heading a fine cast, the result comes off as an engrossing, warmly human picture.

It is the style in which it is told that makes "Call Northside 777" good. Actual Chicago settings are used. The actors look like people not sleek effigies exuding the golden air of Southern California. They speak in the conglomerate accents of a turbulent city. They live in homes that people live in—not the elegant daydreams of Hollywood's dreaming designers, admirable as those artists' creations can be. And, wonder of wonders, the newspaper itself looks like a newspaper office though one suspects the Chicago Times of doing some sly boasting by putting its city editor in a glass-cased private office.

"CALL NORTHSIDE 777." Twentieth Century-Fox release produced by Otto Lang. Screenplay by Leonard Hoffman and Quentin Reynolds from the articles by James P. McGuire. Directed by Henry Hathaway. At the Palace.

A Complex Yarn

The story is almost infinitely complex, detailing the reporter's shifting emotion about his assignment. At first Reporter Stewart feels he's simply writing a sob yarn about an old Polish woman. As he looks further he becomes convinced that Tillie Wiecek's son Frank actually is innocent. When it appears the paper may give up the crusade on Tillie's behalf, he works all the harder, searching the city's dregs for the one woman whose testimony has convicted Frank, bucking the riled police force and grubbing at every shred of evidence that might clear the man.

The ending comes much as these real-life stories do—vindication is achieved, but the true murderer is not discovered and little knots of the maze remain. For in the making of real-life stories, the film producers must be unusually careful not to lay themselves open to lawsuits and "defamation of character."

Director Henry Hathaway has restrained himself admirably from the clinches such a story might have exhibited in other hands. He has been careful to omit oversentimental touches. The script Quentin Reynolds and Leonard Hoffman have evolved is admirably taut and the action is immensely furthered by leaving out the blaring background music that accompanies too many pictures.

And from the Beginning

Stewart is fine as the reporter and Conte excellent as the intense, puzzled Wiecek. Betty Garde, always a reliable player, is stunning as the wretched woman who bears false witness and Kasia Orzazewski memorable as the faithful mother. Lee J. Cobb's city editor has the hard-hitting, honest quality you expect from that able actor.

What the reaction throughout the country is to this realistic style Twentieth Century is doing so much to popularize will be interesting to see. It is the sort of approach to movies that has made a comparative few of the Nation's millions of moviegoers admire in the better films of England, France and Italy.

At all events, "Call Northside 777" is an engrossing picture, and if you do see it, be sure to see it from the beginning. You know. The way you read a book.

'Bishop's Wife' Does Right by Fantasy

Cooper Takes the Angle Cake

Keith's has an urbane and charming fantasy in "The Bishop's Wife."

Here is a picture that should be good and for the most part is. Samuel Goldwyn has given the film his customary finesse. Robert Nathan's delecate novels have gained increasing admirers through the years, and the adaptation Robert E. Sherwood and Leonardo Bercovici have made of this one is both literature and amusing.

The casting is literally perfect. While probably no one could give the central role quite the neat touch that Cary Grant brings to it, David Niven's playing of a befuddled bishop is a gentle joy, Loretta Young may not look like any bishop's wife you ever saw, but she has a winning restraint, and in the supporting roles you find such polished players as Monty Woolley, Gladys Cooper, Else Lanchester and James Gleason.

Cary's an Inspiration

The story is so essentially light one scarcely dares trust it to words. A youthful bishop, bent on building a cathedral, is sacrificing his marriage to his estimable dream. When he prays for guidance, an angel arrives from heaven to help him.

It was certainly an inspiration on someone's part to think of Cary Grant as an angel. His conception of a potential heavenly companion is refreshing, a man whose enjoyment of earthly pleasures he neatly combines with a winning spirit that makes his fellows happy.

Cary is quick to win the hearts of the bishop's associates. He charms the episcopal daughter with a recitation of events leading to one of David's Psalms. He inspires a tetchy old scholar (Woolley) to write the most revealing history of Rome since Gibbon. He shows a rich patrician (Gladys Cooper) the memory of her long-dead love. He leads a boys' choir into singing more enchantingly than any other boys' choir has ever yet sung from the screen. He makes a taxi driver a pleasing conversationalist, an inspiration to which many aspire and few are chosen.

Miss Cooper Scores

Considering that angels have been coming down from movie heavens for quite a time now, it is something of a triumph for "The Bishop's Wife" to pull it off again and make it seem charming. By pleasing restraint, Director Henry Koster has avoided the trite.

For fantasy requires the most delicate handling the movies can muster. It seemed to me the picture was a trifle long for its best effect, but this is a matter dictated, apparently, by exhibitors' demands; their feature pictures must, by custom, be of a minimum length. Considering this necessity, "The Bishop's Wife" is superior make-believe.

From such a cast one expects and gets polished playing. Niven's laconic skill in pouring meaning into very few words is superior acting indeed, and Gladys Cooper's scene with him, stuck in his chair by heavenly demand for his mortal weakness, is a gem you'll relish.

Yesterday's opening at Keith's was an exceptionally crowded one, but the outsized audience obviously was enjoying the Goldwyn touch in the very manner that wise and generous artisan intended.

Senate Confirms Van Fleet, Named 3-Star General

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of Lieut. Gen. James A. Van Fleet—new chief of the American mission to Greece—as a three-star general.

At the same time the promotions of more than 1000 other officers of the armed forces were confirmed. Approved were all service nominations sent to the Senate between January 19 and February 4. Van Fleet's name was sent up later, but pushed ahead as he is on his way to Greece.

Among the confirmations were the appointments of Rear Admiral Edwin D. Foster to be Paymaster General of the Navy and Rear Admiral Oscar Badger to be vice admiral while commanding American naval forces in the Far East.

Committee Votes For Confirmation Of Syzmczak

The Senate Banking Committee yesterday voted 7 to 3 for confirmation of M. S. Syzmczak for a second 14-year term as a Federal Reserve Board member.

Chairman Tobey (R., N. H.) said the committee will not act before next week on the nomination of Thomas B. McCabe of Philadelphia.

McCabe is President Truman's choice for chairman of the board. Mr. Truman announced this recently in demoting Marriner S. Eccles to vice chairman.

Senator Cain (R., Wash.) said he and Capehart (R., Ind.) and Bricker (R., Ohio) voted against Syzmczak in belief that Congress did not intend that one man should serve on the board more than 14 years.

Tobey, Flanders (R., Vt.), Fulbright (D., Ark.), Willis Robertson (D., Va.), Maybank (D., S. C.), Sparkman (D., Ala.), and Wagner (D., N. Y.) voted for Syzmczak.

British Doctors Vote 5 to 1 Against Aiding Government in Socialized Medicine Plan

London, Feb. 18 (AP).—Britain's doctors have voted overwhelmingly against the Labor Government's program of socialized medicine, the British Medical Association disclosed today.

An official of the Health Ministry said the plan would go into effect July 5 regardless of the vote.

The doctors voted 25,340 to 4084 against the plan.

Physicians must decide individually whether or not to participate. A doctors' strike against the measure authorizing free medical service for every Britain was believed almost certain.

The doctors were also asked if they would abide by a majority decision to refuse to enter the state medical service program and 24,066 said yes. Only 4494 declined, the association said.

The doctors dislike provision against buying and selling of practices.

They oppose establishment of a basic state-paid salary of £300 ($1200) a year, which they say is an entering wedge for a full salaried State medical service. They want payment only on the basis of patents treated. The law provides this kind of pay in addition to the salary.

They also oppose a provision barring a doctor from appealing to the courts from dismissal by the State service.

The bill provides free medical, dental, hospital services and even false teeth for all Britons. Funds come from social security deductions from workers' pay checks and the treasury.

The law does not compel doctors to work under its provisions. They may continue private practice, or have private fee-paying patients if they join.

High Court Pays Honor To Its Clerk

The Supreme Court gave a party yesterday in honor of Clerk Charles Elmore Cropley, who has been 40 years in its service.

Cropley

All of the judges and most of the court staff were at the informal celebration in the headquarters of Marshal Thomas E. Waggaman.

Chief Justice Vinson, Justice Jackson and Helen Newman, the court librarian, spoke, giving the clerk presents from his fellow workers.

Cropley is the tenth clerk of the Supreme Court, having joined its staff as a page boy when he was 13 years old, and been appointed clerk 21 years ago. He has served under 6 of the 13 justices who have headed the high court and under almost half of its justices.

McCormack Indorsed For Vice Presidency

Boston, Feb. 18 (AP).—The Massachusetts Democratic State Committee last night unanimously indorsed Representative John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) to be President Truman's running mate.

U. S. Women Held Happier In Sex Life

New York, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—American women have a happier sex life and happier husbands than European women, Dr. James F. Bender, psychologist said today.

He was responding to Dr. Eric J. Dingwall, a British anthropologist, who declared recently that American women are sexually unhappy.

"American women now discuss sex like digestion, or birth," Bender said. "And because they have a scientific approach to it, they lead fuller and more satisfactory sex lives."

Dingwall said secret recordings of women's locker-room conversations proved they were maladjusted, sexually. But Bender said some reseachers "judge American womanhood by the neurotics they meet."

The American woman's freely-expressed sexual impulses are pleasing to her male partner, Bender said.

Couple Take Fourth Twins Without Worry

Wareham, Mass., Feb. 18 (AP).—The fourth set of twins in five years today created somewhat of a housing problem for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lopes—but luckily they aren't worriers.

"We'll manage somehow," said Mrs. Lopes with a smile—"though five rooms are hardly enough for the 11 in my family."

Seven of the twins are still living. In addition, the Lopes have two other children—Jeannette, 9 and Phyllis, 7.

The New England Journal of Medicine said four sets of twins in one family were unusual but probably not a record.

Lopes, 33-year-old mechanic, earns about $52 a week.

"We get along okay," his wife said, "but sometimes it's hard."

As for more children, Mrs. Lopes said with a grin:

"I think I have enough now, don't you?"

N. Y. Recluse Found Dead

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Discovery of the body of a once-beautiful woman in her swanky but junk-crammed apartment brought to light today a legend rivaling that of the fabulous Collyer brothers.

The body of Mary Warner Fowler, 52, was found last night on the bathroom floor of her $150-a-month apartment off Riverside dr. at 95th st. Police broke in after being called by neighbors. She had been dead at least a week.

Residents said Miss Fowler went into seclusion 22 years ago at the death of her mother. She had a telephone but no electric lights.

She would open her door only part way to let delivery boys push packages inside.

Occasionally, neighbors said, Miss Fowler made visits at night to the graves of her parents.

Lawyers Given Rebuff by PSC

Baltimore, Feb. 18 (AP).—The lawyer for Prince Georges County residents protesting a Capital Transit request for higher fares was rebuffed today in an effort to present his case through cross-examination of company witnesses.

Attorney Gregory Hankin told the Public Service Commission that lacking sufficient funds he would be unable to summon his own witnesses. He asked the commission to assign its staff members to help him prepare exhibits and to require the company to supply detailed figures of operating costs.

Chairman Charles Bosley rejected the request.

Hankin replied the only method left was cross-examination. Bosley, who earlier complained of delay in this method, countered, "we will not permit you," and accused Hankin of using "tactics for the purpose of causing delay." Hearings on CTC's request for a uniform zone rate of five cents for each mile and a half began last December.

-not good enough...

"For national security, second best military aircraft are simply not good enough"

The truth of this statement by the President's Air Policy Commission was proved time and again in the last war. By 1943 American aircraft were consistently outperforming those of the enemy, and their margin of superiority was a vital factor in ultimate victory. For the future, if we as a nation are to rely on air power for security, we must continue to provide our Air Force and Naval Aviation with the finest aircraft that can be produced anywhere in the world. In a science moving as swiftly as aviation, this requires the continuing development of new types of aircraft to stay ahead of world-wide competition.

Such development takes time . . . lots of it. In your own thinking about an American Air Power program it is important for you to understand that it takes years to develop each new type, just as it takes years to expand the production of each type once it has proved its worth.

"It takes 4 to 7 years to develop a new plane . . ."

Even before World War II it took a long time to develop a new airplane. In fact, every military type that saw action in the war was designed before the war. Today's aircraft are even more complex, and as time goes on, each new design problem becomes more and more difficult. As the President's Air Policy Commission points out, "It takes 4 to 7 years to develop a new plane from the engineering board to production."

The lesson to be learned from this simple fact is that air power can never be built overnight, regardless of the urgency. The job requires time. If America ever again needs to resist aggression, or to discourage aggression before it starts, second best military aircraft will not be good enough. The superior aircraft required will be available only if they have been under intensive development for years prior to the emergency.

Appeases Cousin Fred

Haight Gets Serious With Racing Column

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

MY COUSIN FRED—he's my horse-playing cousin—collared me the other night and said I wasn't doing right by my racing friends.

So without further ado, I'm going to write an all-turf column with $50,000 Widener motif:

Haight

FLORIDA'S CLASSIC is due Saturday at Hialeah . . . the eleventh running coming up . . . Armed won it last year and the year before, but the Calumet ace is a doubtful starter this time. Big Pebble was a surprise winner in 1941. I was there and picked him . . . this horse, by the way, is the sire of Big Dial, D. C. Kentucky Derby hope this year . . . Assault will be an odds-on favorite if Armed doesn't go to the post . . . the 1946 Triple Crown champ is reported at tops now, the clockers claiming the best condition of his career for the King Ranchite . . . according to word sifting North, El Mono is gaining supporters. This is the 50-1 winner of last Saturday in the race that saw Armed third. He was stamped a sprinter until he cracked down at a mile and an eighth, only a fifth of a second off the track record. Gets in with 112 pounds, 18 less than Assault. So watch out . . . Let's Dance has a chance and gets 19-pound pull from the big horses . . . Riskolater, a head behind El Mono last Saturday after setting all the pace, might be the horse to catch in the fifty-grand outing . . . I'd like nothing better than to hear of a Washington victory by Joe Tucci's Incline. He won the Bryan and O'Hara at Bowie last fall and the Royal Palm this year at Hialeah. Joe sank a gob of money into Incline and two others and I hope he gets at least some of the big dough Saturday.

BRYAN FIELD will air the race over Art Brown's WOL sports show at 4:30 . . . Mantagna was the first Widener winner in 1936 . . . the following year, Columbiana slipped down from Aiken, S. C., and bounded home . . . Then followed wins by War Admiral, Bull Lea and Many Stings . . . Assault is 2 inches taller than Armed . . . Hialeah's betting has been over the million mark daily, but the consensus is that the record of $1,642,341 set last Widener Day will not be topped . . . record Hialeah crowd was 33,399 paid on Flamingo Day, 1946 . . . Armed holds the Widener time record of 2.01 3/5 set last year . . . oddly, three horses have the same fast time for six furlongs of the race—1:15 1/5 for 6 furlongs by Many Stings, Big Pebble and Armed . . . Jockey Jimmy Stout has ridden in six Widener races but has been in the money only once, a third on Stagehand in 1939 . . . of course, Eddie Arcaro will ride Assault this time . . . no trainer has ever repeated in the 10 runnings of the race. Armed won it twice, but Ben Jones saddled him in 1946 and Jimmy Jones, his son, did the honors last year . . . War Admiral packed 130 pounds when he won his Widener. . . The lightest weight winner was Columbiana at 103 . . . the largest Widener field contained 17 horses in 1942 when The Rhymer carried the Greentree colors to victory . . .

ARMED DIDN'T RACE as a 2-year-old and won his 3-year-old debut at Hialeah under Arcaro's handling . . . by the way, a 3-year-old has never won the Widener. Six winners have been four, three were five and one was six . . . only one father-son horse combination has won the race—Bull Lea and his great offspring, Armed. Both had the identical winning time of 2:02 2-5—Armed's time in 1946 . . . Bull Lea is the Nation's top sire . . . gal horses have found the Widener tough to take, Columbiana being the only one of her sex to be successful . . . funny, but there never has been an off track for the Widener, the field always having a fast strip . . . hunch players should take No. 6 as this position has won three of the 10 runnings . . . the longest margin of victory was Armed's four lengths in 1946 . . . no dead heats have been registered for win or place but Day Off and Supreme Sir finished all even for third in 1940 . . . War Admiral was the only winner to lead all the way . . . Arcaro is seeking his third Widener victory with Assault. Eddie won with The Rhymer and Four Freedoms . . . if you don't like all this horse talk, blame it on Cousin Fred.

Knicks Snap Caps Streak By 79 to 75

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The New York Knickerbockers overcame a seven point deficit in the last quarter to upset the Washington Capitols, 79-75, before 3640 Uline Arena fans last night.

Trailing, 53-46, as the final period started, the Knicks scored 33 points in a blazing drive which interrupted a six-game Washington winning streak.

Sid Tanenbaum led the victors with 19 points, one more than Bones McKinney, of Washington made.

Lose Early Lead

Clicking from the opening tap off, the Caps rolled into a 12-4 lead before the Knicks got going. The Washington set shooting was phenomenal, six of the first eight tries going through the hoops.

Then Stan Stutz of Rhode Island University launched a scoring spurt for the Knicks and the New Yorkers tied the count at 16-16. Freddie Scolari, however, dropped in two quick one-handed and Johnny Mahnken connected on a left-handed hook shot to give the Caps a 22-16 margin as the period ended.

Sid Tanenbaum, an All-American at NYU last year, and Tommy Byrnes entered the game for the Knicks as the second session began and their presence was immediately felt. Between them, they threw in 11 points in a Knick flurry and as the half ended the Cap lead had been reduced to a lone point, 32-31.

Scolari Sets Pace

New York kept plugging away and twice owned the lead in the third period, but Scolari stepped into the act again and when he was through the Caps had a 7-point margin as the quarter ended.

Banging away with his one-hander from about 20-feet out, Scolari pumped in 7 points, 6 in succession. When he was through firing, it was Washington 44, New York 39.

Scolari set such a dizzy pace that the Knicks yanked Sid Tanenbaum assigned to guard him, and inserted Stutz again. Stutz slowed Scolari down a bit, but not the entire Cap gang who were out in front, 53-46, as the last period opened.

Washington worked its way to a seven-point advantage early in the fourth period, but they were halted whep the Knicks tied it up twice and then took the lead themselves.

Sid Tanenbaum, Stutz and Carl Braun were the big guns of the offense which brought New York a 70-64 lead with less than three minutes to go.

Rickey Attempts to Justify Himself

Rickey's Interest in Jackie Robinson May Be Traced To Poignant Incident That Occurred 45 Years Ago

By Red Smith
Copyright, 1948, N. Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A curious sort of hullabaloo has been aroused by Branch Rickey's disclosure that when he went into the ring against Jim Crow he found 15 major league club owners working in Jim's corner. It is strange that the news should stir excitement, for surely it couldn't have come as a surprise to anyone.

At the time Rickey signed ackie Robinson for Montreal, anybody who knew anything about baseball was aware that a Jim Crow law did exist in the game, although baseball men never had the courage to put it in writing.

And after Robinson was signed, open opposition to his presence continued until publication of the news stories which killed the projected player strike against him last summer.

Two years ago in a Florida training camp, a club owner let go with an intemperate attack on Rickey for breaking down the racial barrier.

The guy was talking for publication, too, but there was a troubles the owner was inviting, let his regard for the man dull his news sense.

newspaper man present who, appreciating what a storm of reprisals and boycotts and other

The reporter talked the owner into requesting, reluctantly, that his remarks be considered confidential.

So what he said never got into print. But it should have, and the newspaperman in the case should have been sent to bed without his supper.

Chances are this was the same man whom Rickey declined to identify as the only club owner who "ever protested to me personally the signing of Jackie Robinson."

Well, no matter. A year ago, Rickey was weaving and ducking and bobbing in an effort to elude people who wanted to have him stuffed and mounted as a prime specimen of tolerance. He insisted he was not interested in Robinson as a black man or a member of an underprivileged race.

"I want ball players," he said. "I don't care if they're purple or green and have hair all over them and arms that reach down to their ankles, just so they can beat the whey out of the Cardinals and win a World Series."

That was his story, and it was as good as any except for the technicality that it wasn't true. Here is the truth, and this hasn't been published, either:

In 1903 when Rickey was baseball coach at Michigan, he had a a Negro named Charley Thomas on the squad. The first trip the boy made was to South Bend, Ind., where the hotel management declined to let him register. Rickey blamed himself later for not haveing had the foresight to brief the kid in advance, preparing him for such experiences.

Rickey and the team captain were sharing a suite. When Branch learned of Thomas's difficulties, he hurried down and asked whether the management would let Thomas move into the suite. This was agreed, provided Thomas didn't register, and all three retired to their quarters.

Upstairs, Rickey and the captain got to talking. Thomas sat on the edge of Rickey's bed with his head low, so that his face was concealed. When Branch tried to draw him into the conversation, the boy lifted his head. He was crying. He was wringing his hands between his knees, twisting the fingers as though trying to pull the skin off.

"It's these," the kid said lifting his hands.

Rickey didn't understnand.

"They're black," the kid said.

"It's my skin," the kid said. "If it wasn't for my skin, I wouldn't be any different from anybody."

"My hands," the kid said. "They're black. If they were only white!"

Rickey said, "Tommy, the day will come when they won't have to be white."

That was 45 years ago. It was 43 years before Rickey found the right time and the right place and the right guy in Jackie Robinson. In those years Rickey has gone a lot of places and done a lot of things and been pictured in many lights. He may be all the things they have called him—a rush of wind in an empty room, a glib horse-trader, a specious orator, a shouting revivalist.

He has been described, in purest Brooklynese and with faithful accuracy, as a "man of many facets—all turned on."

It remains a simple matter of fact that he has not forgotten Charley Thomas. He has kept up with Charley Thomas, knows where he is today and what he is doing and how he is doing. Charley's doing all right, by the way.

In the circumstances, it was not hard to believe Rickey yesterday when he described his feelings at the major league meeting where 15 club owners approved a report stating that the employment of a Negro in professional baseball was jeopardizing their investment.

"I was," he said, "deeply disturbed."

Racial Talk Inference 'Unforeseen,' He Declares

By Jack Hand

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Branch Rickey tried to square himself with the rest of baseball today.

The Brooklyn Dodgers president is surprised at the unforseen interpretations of his Wilberforce University talk Monday when he disclosed major league action in 1946 against signing Negro players.

As Rickey put it in a brief news conference after a luncheon meeting, his Wilberforce (Ohio) address has resulted in "interpretations not intended and certainly not foreseen."

Rickey told his Ohio listeners, in an address given Monday at the annual football banquet of the Negro school, that the majors voted to oppose signing of Negro players. He said they approved a statement reading, in effect, "hiring a Negro in professional baseball was jeopardizing the investment of the owners."

Didn't Think It Was News

"It didn't occur to me Monday night that it was a news item," Rickey said today. "I thought it would be a delightful thing for them (the students at Wilberforce) to know that there now is a recognition of the Negro in baseball. I didn't feel that I made any accusation then and I don't now."

Several club officials commented after Rickey's original speech that they did not recall taking any such action. Rickey agreed that they probably were correct.

"The report covered perhaps as many as 20 or more pages and the Negro reference not more than half a page," he said. "I am told that many members of the leagues who were present do not remember the reference to this matter. Anyone who makes this statement is to be fully believed. I can understand that other people would not attribute the same importance to the subject that I did . . ."

"Simply Shocked"

Rickey said there were 35 or 40 men preesnt at the special joint meeting in the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago, September, 1946, when the vote was taken. There was not a dissenting vote with Rickey remaining silent.

"I suppose I should have protested," he said. "I was simply shocked to hear it read. Immediately a vote was taken to approve the entire report. I didn't vote at all. I choose to think that very few of those 35 or 40 gentlemen knew of that paragraph before it was read."

Efforts by Rickey to locate a copy of the reference to Negro players have been unsuccessful, he said. But he added, "in the light of further information since my address at Wilberforce, I understand fully that there were other reasons than the so-called Negro reference for removing the report from publicity."

Rickey said there had been other instances of the majors destroying reports that they believed should not be publicized.

Purpose of Reference

"The purpose of the reference (at Wilberforce)," Rickey said, "and the sole purpose of it, was to show the transitional attitude toward the hiring of Negro players in the short period of something more than a year."

When Rickey signed Jackie Robinson for Montreal in the winter of 1945-46, he was the only Negro in organized ball. Last year with Robinson playing first base for Brooklyn, there were others in the mapors. Cleveland had Larry Doby and the St. Louis Browns hired and later fired two Negro players.

"I wish very much to say," Rickey said in a typewriter statement to the press, "that no club owner in the American or National League, with one exception, has ever protested to me personally the signing of Jackie Robinson by the Brooklyn Club and several have expressed approval." He refused to discuss the lone exception in his original statement. Nor would be name the man who read the report in question at the 1946 joint meeting.

Halts Late Rally

Navy Tops Penn State, 40-36; Barrow, Searle Lead Scoring

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (AP).—Navy staved off a late Penn State threat to win its seventh basketball decision of the season in a slow game today, 40-36.

John Barrow, Navy center, found the range in consistent fashion and topped all scorers with 12 points. Bob Searle, Middie forward, netted 11.

Penn State more than matched the Midshipmen during the first half, controlling the ball in slow, deliberate fashion on offense and effectively using a zone defense to tone down Navy's customary fast break.

Parkhill opened the scoring with a two-pointer just 20 seconds after the opening whitle. George Eliopolus and Barrow hit from the floor and the latter added a free throw to send Navy ahead, 5-2.

However, State went ahead on a field goal by Nordbloom and kept the lead until 7½ minutes later when Searle popped one from outside to regain the advantage for Navy, 15-14.

The lead changed hands six times more before the half ended but Navy had a three-mark margin when the gun sounded for the intermission.

They added to this when play resumed, building up an eight-point lead which State never succeeded in overcoming.

Bo McMillin Now in Detroit

Indianapolis, Feb. 18 (AP).—Alvin M. "Bo" McMillin flew to Detroit today, probably to sign a contract to coach the Detroit Lions professional football team.

The Gray-haired Indiana University coach refused to deny or confirm printed reports he would sign with Detroit.

"If I go it must be announced by the Lions," was all he would say.

It was reported the National Professional League team had offered the Hoosier coach $30,000 a year for five years to be coach and general manager.

Two Aides Follow

Indiana University sources said that McMillin would take two of his staff with him—Owen Cochrane and C. A. Temerario.

In McMillin the Lions would have a coach who twice has led college all-star elevens to victory over the professional champions in games at Chicago.

McMillin, a veteran of more than 20 years of college coaching, also has a Big Nine championship—in 1945—to his credit.

Citation Wins $10,000 Prep For Flamingo

Miami, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP).—Calumet Farm's sensational 3-year-old, Citation, won the $10,000 Everglades Stake with ease at Hialeah today before a crowd of approximately 16,000 fans.

The victory further enhanced the chances of Warren Wright's 1947 juvenile king for the Flamingo at Hialeah a week from Saturday and the Kentucky Derby.

Citation won by a short length, well in hand. William Woodward's Typnos was second and Walter P. Chrysler, jr.'s Silverling third in the three-horse race.

Red Raney Heads Home After Hospital Release

Raney was hospitalized with a fractured skull and brain concussion when he fell during a recent Lions-Hershey Bears hockey game here. The Lions entertain the Eastern Division leading Providence Reds in an American Hockey League match tomorrow night at Uline Arena.

Fulks Returns Against Caps

Joe Fulks, whom the Caps sidelined in their February 5 engagement with Philadelphia, is expected to return to the Warrior lineup tonight when the Caps meet Philly in the Quaker City.

Fulks received a painful leg injury against the Caps and has not played since then. He was held to only two points in the second half of the game by John Mahnken and Irv Torgoff, the same pair who will guard him tonight.

The Caps took over undisputed leadership of the Western division in the February 5 Warrior game and hope to increase their first place margin with another victory tonight.

Alumni Status May Hamper Porterfield

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 18 (AP).—Bill Porterfield may not turn out to be the next head football coach at Virginia Tech after all. Porterfield may not get the job because he is a graduate of Virginia Tech.

The Associated Press learned tonight that the Virginia Tech Athletic Council had received telegrams and telephone calls urging that no Virginia Tech graduate be named to the post. Tech Athletic Director W. L. (Monk) Younger merely said he had "no comment."

3 Dixie Leagues Discuss 'Sanity Code' Tonight

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 18 (AP).—Representatives of the South's three major collegiate conferences meet tomorrow night to talk over the National Collegiate Athletic Association's "sanity code."

The Southeastern, Southern and Southwest Conferences will be represented.

Bob Neyland, head coach at Tennessee, said recently the meeting was called "to see if we can't approach the subject of athletic scholarships in uniform manner." He added:

"We hope to take back to our respective conferences a program for putting the 'sanity code' of the NCAA into operation."

Neyland is president of the Southeastern Conference Coaches and Athletic Directors Association.

The Southeastern Conference is expected to act on the recommendations at a special meeting in Birmingham Saturday. The so-called "purity code" bars the conference's present system of athletic scholarships.

Rhode Island Wrests Scoring Lead From North Carolina St.

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Rolling up 181 points in two games during the week while the best North Carolina State could do was edge out Duke, 44-43, Rhode Island State's Rams swept into the lead in the college basketball scoring race.

Through games of February 14, the Rhodies had amassed 1243 points in 16 for a 77.7 average, exactly a half point per game better than the Wolfpack's 77.2 average. The Southernors have racked up 1776 markets in 23 games. Rhode Island's rise to the top ended North Carolina's three-week monopoly on first place.

Bowling Green, hitting the hoop for 233 points in three games, regained third place from Bradley by increasing their per game average to 71.3. Bradley fell into a fourth place tie with western Kentucky, each having a 70.4 average.

No team was even close to the Oklahoma Aggies who continued to hold the best defensive record. They have allowed only 31.7 points per game in 23 contests.

They'll Be Closer

Villanova, Pa., Feb. 18 (AP).—The forced absence of Gil Dodds from mile competition will result in closer races but the times will not be as spectacular says Browning Ross, Villanova College mile star.

"You can't help but enter a race with a doubtful outlook," Ross said yesterday, "when you realize that even if you do a 4:10 mile, you'll still get second place."

American Beats CU, 61-56

American University's Eagles rallied for 23 points in the last quarter to defeat Catholic University, 61-56, last night in a Mason-Dixon Conference game at CU gym.

It was AU's second win over CU this season, the score of their last meeting being 55-50. The win brought the Eagles' conference record to 8-2, CU now has a 9-6 conference record.

CU led through most the game and held a 41-38 margin going into the last quarter. Then Bob Lamon and Tex Griffin paced the AU rally by scoring 15 points between them in the last eight minutes.

Lamon of AU and Chuck Connor of CU were high scorers with 16 and 14. AU helped itself considerably by converting 15 out of 19 foul shots.

The slow-starting Eagles fell behind, 7-2, in the first three minutes and didn't score their first field goal until Bob Lamon connected after five minutes had elapsed.

They passed CU for the first time with 4:45 left before intermission. A layup by Fred Fling put AU ahead, 22-21. From that point till the end of the half the lead changed hands five times. CU was on top at halftime, 27-25.

Purses Slashed by $32,500 for May 3-15 MePimlico Stakeseting

Offerings Drop Below 1947 High

Baltimore, Feb. 18 (AP).—The Maryland Jockey Club today pared $32,500 from its 1948 spring stakes offerings at old Pimlico track, but will still offer $205,000 in added-money for its 13-day meet.

The Pimlico dates are May 3 to 15.

The fifty-eighth Preakness, to be run Saturday, May 15, is still a $100,000 added-money race, and is expected to have a gross value of around $140,000.

Henry A. Parr 3d, president, disclosed that while there will be a feature race each day, two stakes have been eliminated and the prize money cut for four others.

Two Events Dropped

The $205,000 total for the spring meet compares with last year's all-time high of $237,500 for the stakes. In 1946 the total was $212,500.

Being eliminated are a couple of $7500 2-year-old events, the Ral Parr Stakes and the Pimlico Nursery. The former, named for the first Maryland member of the Jockey Club, is being perpetuated by substituting it for the Rennert Handicap, but it will be run under allowance conditions.

Parr said the 2-year-old events were being dropped because the club decided they did little toward establishing the division since they were held so early in the year.

The stakes with reduced values are the Dixie Handicap, from $30,000 to $25,000, the Pimlico Oaks, from $20,000 to $10,000; the Jervis Spencer Steeplechase Handicap from $15,000 to $10,000, and the Gittings Handicap from $10,000 to $7500.

Stakes Schedule

May 3—The Baltimore Spring Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs, $7500; 4—The Ral Parr, 3-year-olds, six furlongs, $7500; 5—The Carroll, 3-year-olds and up, fillies and mares, six furlongs, $7500; 6—Pimlico spring maiden steeplechase, 4-year-olds and up, 2 miles, $5000; 7—Pimlico's Breeders' Stakes, 2-year-old fillies, foaled in Maryland, 4½ furlongs, $5000; 8—The Dixie Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, one mile and three sixteenths, $25,000; 10—The Survivor, 3-year-olds, one mile and a sixteenth, $7500.

May 11—The Jennings Handicap 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs, $7500; Jervis Spencer Steeplechase, 4-year-olds and up, 2 miles, $10,000; 13—The Gittings Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, 1 mile and a sixteenth, $7500; 14—The Pimlico Oaks, 3-year-old fillies, one mile and a sixteenth, $15,000; 15—The Preakness, 3-year-olds, one mile and three sixteenths, $100,000.

Bear Vets Return For Ren Clash

Five members of the 1944 Washington Bears join their old team tonight when the Bears take on the New York Renaissance in a professional basketball game at 8:45 at Uline Arena.

Jack Clayton, Puggy Bell, Charlie Isles, Johnny Isaacs and William (Sugar) Bell are the men who led the Bears to a winning streak of 76 games in 1943-45. In '44, these same Bears won the World's Professional Basketball Championship Tournament in Chicago.

Rounding out the Bears team tonight will be Leroy Whatley, Bill Washington, Vic Hansen, Bill Brown, Deuce and Johnny Gibson and Don Butler.

Dad, Son Foes As Hoyas, BC Clash on Ice

JOHN P. CURLEY, Jr., and Boston College come to an athletic parting of the ways tomorrow night at Norwalk, Conn. Since young Curley is a defense man on Georgetown's ice hockey team it well might be a violent parting.

Curley has been an avid B. C. rooter for the past 15 years—after all, his father has been athletic director there all that time.

Because Curley, sr., still is head man, his son thought he'd duck any unfair charge of nepotism by performing for another school. So last fall he enrolled at Georgetown.

Curley, 22, also is a second baseman. The Newton (Mass.) native was a Marine Corps flier, too, with the war ending before he was sent into combat.

The Hoya hockey team, a rarity on the Hilltop these days because it's undefeated, meets two rugged opponents at Norwalk, facing strong St. Nicholas tonight and Boston College tomorrow night. The Eagles hold a decision over Dartmouth, which is recommendation enough.

In three previous games, the Hoyas trounced Lafayette, 17-1, and defeated Lehigh twice, 4-2, and 7-1.

Terps, Spiders Risk 'Streaks'

Maryland and Richmond know somebody's losing streak will be broken tonight at College Park in their Southern Conference battle.

Flucie Stewart's Terrapins go into the game after being on the wrong end three straight times. Two of the opponents were conference foes and Maryland now has a shaky 6-5 record that needs improving if it wants to compete in the post-season tournament.

Richmond, which will be met again in the next to last game, appears to be an older hand at losing games. The visitors currently are burdened by an eight-game losing streak and have an unimposing 5-12 record.

Indians Win In Overtime

Four goals in an overtime period by Wally Warner, Max Pheasant and Lennie Koontz gave Anacostia's Indians a 43-40 victory over Episcopal of Alexandria yesterday at Episcopal.

Anacostia fought an uphill battle after falling behind, 23-13 at halftime. The Indians tied it up at 40 all as the regulation game ended. Warner paced the Indians to their tenth win in 15 games as he tallied 16 points. Ralph Williams and Henry Schacht were high for Episcopal with 10 points each. Episcopal now has an 8-4 record.

D. C. Schoolboys Enter Track Meet at Garden Saturday

CIRILO McSWEEN, quarter-mile champion of Central America, will head a large delegation of Washington area high school stars to the National A.A.U. interscholastic track meet, Saturday at Madison Square Garden in New York City.

McSween, a 19-year-old Panamanian, will represent Dunbar High. Other schools entered are Episcopal of Alexandria and Cardozo and Phelps of Washington.

While a high school junior in his native Panama last year, McSween won the 440-yard championship for his country in the Central America Olympic Games in Colombia in the brilliant time of 0:48.5.

He has a scholarship awaiting him at Marquette after he graduates from Dunbar in June. He'll major in dentistry at Marquette.

In last year's meet, Episcopal and Cardozo finished second and fourth respectively in the prep class.

SWITCHING OVER to the high school division will cost Cardozo a probable first place in the 60-yard dash. Marcellus Boston of Cardozo won that event in the prep division last year, but is ineligible to run in more than one event as a high division trackman. Boston has already been entered as a member of Cardozo's 960-yard relay team.

Episcopal has entered a mile relay team of Bob Holton, Jack Clarkson, Jon Dilweg and Pete Whitlock. Holton, Clarkson and Chris Holland are in the 60-yard dash, Dilweg and Jason Eckford in the high hurdles, Dilweg in the high jump, Burrell Manning in the half mile, Ben Moore in the broad jump and Tommy Birge in the shot putt.

Phelps' entries are Ray Hill in the 60-yard dash, Sam Wright and Elton Salter in the 440, Willie Venson in the mile, and Jim Strivers, Herb Grimes, Zeb English and Cal Owens on the 960-yard relay.

AAU Seniors Box Tonight

A more experienced group of boys will fight tonight than in last week's opener of the AAU Boxing Tournament, which enters the second round at Turner's Arena beginning at 8:15 p. m.

Twelve of the 21 fights will invoice senior class boxers, among whom are seven AAU and Golden Glove champions. Top bout is expected to be between Claude Lawrence of St. Mary's and John Crowell of Apollo, in the 135-pound class.

Lawrence is a defending senior champion while Crowell gained the novice featherweight crown last year. Another lightweight bout pairs James Walton of Police Boys Club No. 2 and Garfield Hawkins of the Youth Civil Corps.

Gene McIntyre of the Olympic Club, lightweight champion of the recent Golden Gloves, makes his debut against Ralph Simms of Police No. 2. This bout should develop into a slugging bee as both are punchers.

'Retiring' Louis Frets Over 3d Walcott Bout

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—A new hitch developed tonight in the negotiations for a Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott fight when Promoter Sol Strauss asked the Camden, N. J., veteran to sign for a return match at an even 30-30 split in the event he dethroned the champion.

Walcott balked at the idea declaring "it means I'll have to fight him three times before I can get the champion's cut in a fight."

Jersey Joe lost a controversial decision to Louis in their title bout last December 5. Negotiations have been going on for some time for a return and it was believed tonight that the whole thing, except for a minor dispute over movie percentages, had been settled.

Strauss, acting director of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club in the absence of the ailing Mike Jacobs, saw Louis Sunday and it was believed that the champion raised the question of a possible return go then.

It came as a surprise all-around as Louis has said several times that his next fight would be his last "win, lose or draw."

Asked whether that meant Louis had changed his mind about retiring, Miles said "That's not necessarily so. There's a possibility he may lose and then he might want to fight for the championship again."

Dr. Galloway Cites Home Rule Labor

3000 Man Hours Spent on Talks, Senate Unit Told

Dr. George B. Galloway told a Senate subcommittee yesterday that House members spent about 3000 man hours in meetings on District affairs during the first session of this Congress.

"Congress ought not to be burdened with local legislation at a time when great issues of peace and reconstruction are pressing upon its attention," said Dr. Galloway.

Dr. Galloway is staff director for the House District Home Rule Subcommittee headed by Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.) and he helped draft the subcommittee plan for setting up an elected city council to head the District government.

His testimony to the Senate Expenditures Committee paralleled that of Representative A. S. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.) and former Senator Robert M. La Follette, jr. (R., Wis.) urging Congress to ease its own workload by establishing home rule for the District.

Galloway had served as staff director for the joint committee headed by Monroney and La Follette which drafted the Congressional reorganization law of 1946. At one point the reorganization bill included a home rule section but it was dropped.

Galloway voiced hope in the hearing that the new home rule bill will be approved at this session.

He said later the study that turned up the 300 han-hour figure was made by Clarence M. Pierce, assistant home rule staff director.

Pierce explained that it was based on a study of the record of House District committee and subcommittee meetings and House sessions on District affairs from January through July of last year.

Not counted in the total time spent on District affairs, said Pierce, were all the hours that House members gave to local legislation in executive meetings and in their own offices.

4 Thugs Tie 7 in Home of Pa. Banker

Philadelphia, Feb. 18 (AP).—Caleb F. Fox, jr., socially prominent Philadelphia banker and sportsman, was robbed of $40,000 in valuables by four masked bandits who invaded his suburban home early today, police reported.

The thugs tied the seven persons in the house in a bedroom.

They found found mink and beaver coats, diamond and sapphire bracelets, rings, necklaces, watches, silverware and other valuables, which Fox valued at $40,000.

The banker, with his son, Bernard Fox, and the latter's wife, were watching a television performance when the four men entered.

Flood Waters Threatening Ohio, Indiana

Chicago, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—Flood crests moved down the Ohio River today, threatening floods in Ohio and Indiana.

Floods covered wide areas in Mississippi, Kentucky and Maryland, and rising streams threatened to inundate farmlands in Illinois. United States weather forecasters said a cold front would end the thaw by the end of the week.

The Ohio reached 53.9 feet, almost two feet above flood stage, at Cincinnati early today. It was expected to drop by more than a foot by tomorrow morning.

In Mississippi, prisoners joined National Guardsmen and Army engineers in reinforcing levees along the Yazoo and Tallahatchie Rivers.

About 100,000 acres of farmland wer under water.

Engineers said the flood is expected to approach the record of 40 feet at Greenwood, Miss. area several years ago.

The Ohio rose to 38 feet at Evansville, Md., this morning, and 43 feet was predicted for Saturday.

The threat had abated in West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and at Newport, Ky.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 18 (AP).—The National Commission of Evangelism of the Presbyterian Church in the United States today adopted a 1948 budget of $134,205.

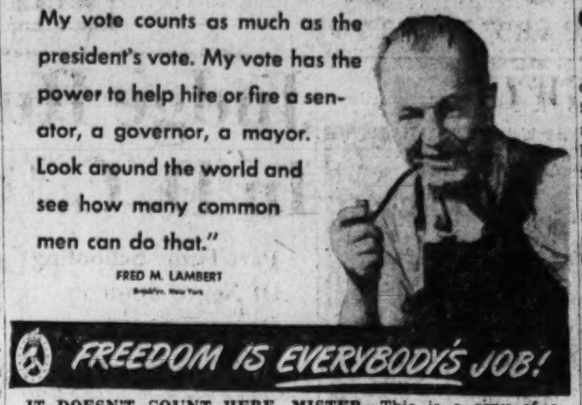
7 Drown as Auto Plunges Into Creek

Pomeroy, Ohio, Feb. 18 (AP).—Homeward bound from a church service, seven persons drowned last night in swollen Thomas Fork Creek. Their car missed a bridge and plunged down a 25-foot embankment.

The tragedy came to light at 5:30 a. m. today when the overturned four-door sedan was found in the stream near here.

Officials said the victims, including two small boys, died of "drowning and asphyxiation."

In the Wrong Locale . . .



IT DOESN'T COUNT HERE, MISTER—This is a copy of a streetcar ad carried in Washington trolleys. A London weekly says it "taunts the unfortunate inhabitants" of the voteless District.

An English newspaper yesterday editorialized that a poster appearing in District streetcars "taunts the unfortunate inhabitants of the District of Columbia who have no vote."

The Washington correspondent of the London Economist, a weekly newspaper, reported she had seen a poster card in Washington streetcars showing a "kindly-eyed, pipe-smoking mechanic" who is saying "Who says my vote doesn't count?"

The British weekly said the poster mechanic, identified as a resident of Brooklyn, would be feeling "much less smug" if he lived in Washington. It carried the remainder of the mechanic's text:

"My vote counts as much as the President's vote. My vote has the power to help hire or fire a Senator, a Governor or a mayor. Look around the world and see how many common men can do that."

Men "common or uncommon" have no vote in Washington, the economist pointed out.

A spokesman for National Transitads, Inc., which handles bus and streetcar advertising in Greater Washington, yesterday said he didn't remember the poster. If it did run, he said, it was "through error."

The Advertising Council, of 1010 Vermont ave. nw., recognized the poster as one of a series it is distributing throughout the United States to plug the Freedom Train and the "American Heritage" campaign of the American Heritage Foundation.

Boy Fugitives Caught After 90-MPH Race

Three teen-age boys who escaped from the National Training School, robbed a house, and stole an automobile, gave Virginia police a 90-mile-an-hour chase before they were caught yesterday.

The three were admitted to the school only a week ago as juvenile delinquents. They are a 17-year-old Baltimore youth, a 16-year-old Chicago boy and a 15-year-old from Lexington, Ky.

After their escape Monday night, they ransacked the home of Samuel DeVito, 2216 S st. se., exchanged their school denims for some of DeVito's clothing and left with more clothing, cash and jewelry.

They told police they looked over "five other cars" and finally stole one owned by Presser Jeffreys, 319 36th st. ne. When they sped across the Morgantown bridge over the Potomac without paying the toll, the guard on duty notified Fredericksburg police. Policeman Mason Estes, in a scout car near the bridge, picked up the chase. He followed the car through the city and to a point near Culpeper at speeds up to 90, he said, before the stolen car ran out of gas.

A .38-caliber pistol found in the car was there when they took the auto, the boys told Fredericksburg Police Chief S. B. Terry. Police recovered $15 in cash, a necklace, two suits, two pairs of trousers and a camera from the car.

Va. Assembly Virtually Kills Bill for Nonprofit Lotteries

Richmond, Va., Feb. 18 (Spl.)—The House of Delegates today virtually killed the Moncure Bill which would have permitted religious, charitable and other nonprofit organizations to operate lotteries.

By vote of 58 to 21, delegaes refused to advance the measure to third reading, despite persuasions by its sponsor, Delegate Frank P. Moncure, of Stafford, that raffles are "a harmless pastime" enjoyed by "Christians and heathens alike."

The House passed a bill to retain the State's present auto inspection system, doubling the inspection fee to 50 cents. It received a bill by Delegate W. H. C. Murray, of Richmond, to repeal the "Right to Work" law enacted at the 1947 special session to ban the closed shop in Virginia.

Other General Assembly developments today included:

1. A bill to change the State's milk inspection laws by downgrading milk and creams was referred to a subcommitee of the House agriculture committe.

2. A point hearing on a bill by Senator Charles R. Fenwick, of Arlington, to tax cigarettes one cent a pack to aid hospital construction in the State. Senator Fenwick said the tax would not be "burdensome" whereas need for hospitals is "imperative."

3. Introduction in the House by Delegates J. Maynard Magruder and George Damm, both of Arlington, of a bill providing for Arlington County in event the county is incorporated into a city.

A strong objection to incorporation of Arlington, Magruder explained, is that the county would lose out on road funds. Cities, he pointed out, now receive only $4000 a year for each mile of primary State highways running through them, whereas in counties such roads are maintained and constructed by the State and allotments for secondary roads are made annually.

Soft Coal Men Prepare For Pension Showdown

By The Associated Press

Soft coal operators, accustomed to crisis with John L. Lewis almost every spring, got ready yesterday for a possible new showdown over pensions for the miners.

A meeting of major negotiators was called for February 25 by Ezra Van Horn of Cleveland, Ohio operators' representative and former chairman of the dissolved Nationwide bargaining committee.

Lewis is said to be demanding pensions of $100 a month for his 400,000 soft coal diggers after they have reached 60 years of age and completed 20 years of service.

Balmy Weather To Linger Here

Yesterday's 70 Top Was High for Date Since 1890; Two More 'Spring' Days

Greater Washington basked in the warmest February 18 of more than half a century yesterday as the temperature hit an even 70 degrees.

The weatherman predicted at least two more springlike days—today and tomorrow. A cold air mass, moving down from western Canada, may end the week-long mild spell Friday night, according to Forecaster George H. Brown.

Considerable cloudiness but with temperature in the 60s was predicted for today. Tomorrow will be partially cloudy and not quite so warm, the weatherman said.

Starting from a low of 34 at 5:48 a. m. yesterday, the mercury moved steadily upward to nudge 70 at 2:24 p. m. It was the warmest weather here since the Indian summer days of late October, and 34 degrees above normal temperature for this time of the year. Record high for February 18 was 72, in 1890.

There is still considerable ice on the river above and below Chain Bridge, but the Potomac is running freely, having cut a deep gorge through the ice to clear the channel on the Virginia side.

The Canadian cold, expected to lose its bite by the time it reaches here, was scheduled to hit the Red River Valley area of Minnesota last night, with accompanying snow flurries.

It will strike a glancing blow at Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana by tonight, weather observers said, diminishing in force as it travels east.

Much of the Nation shared Washington's weather yesterday. The mercury rose to new highs for the date unmatched in the 20th Century at Columbus, Ohio, which had 63; Louisville, Ky., 73, and Cincinnati, Ohio, a tenth of a degree under 74. Other temperatures above seasonal normal were at St. Louis, 70; Kansas City, 68; Chicago, 54, and New York, 51.

The warmth, after long-sustained cold, brought word from the Petroleum Regional Advisory Committee, in New York, that the fuel oil shortage on the East Coast is now under control. Besides the temperature change, the committee credited consumer cooperation, extra effort of the oil companies and an easing in transportation difficulties.

The warm spell, however, brought worries to orchardists in the peach and apple belt of western Maryland. With most of the ground thawed, they feared the sap would start rising in the trees making them vulnerable to a cold snap.

Prince Philip, London Cabbie Lock Fenders

London, Feb. 18 (U.P.).—Michael Moses Poluck, a moon-faced cabbie, came out second best today in a fender duel with Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip at Hyde Park corner, London's busiest intersection.

Prince Philip, on his way to work at the Admiralty from Kensington Palace, lodged the bumper of his car under the right rear fender of the old taxi.

Neither Philip nor Elizabeth, who was seated beside him, was injured. Poluck's fender got a small rip.

Poluck climbed down and stalked around to the other driver, who also got out.

"What's your name?" he shot at Philip.

"The Duke of Edinburgh," Philip replied. The cabbie lifted his cap.

"Well, I don't know what to do now, sir," Poluck told Philip.

A policeman walked up.

Philip said his car and the taxi "just bumped and I'm sorry it happened," the Associated Press reported.

The officer waved everybody on, since there was no injury. All parties said there would be no complaint.

Philip's keenness for speed is well known. King George likes to drive fast, too, but he warned his son-in-law last fall he should take no undue risks.

Philip dropped Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace. He was not late for work.

"I had visions of being hanged, drawn and quartered," Poluck said.

Safety School Is Praised By 'Graduate'

Washington's new traffic school was recommended highly to all drivers yesterday by one who attended at the court's suggestion.

Sixty-four-year-old W. L. Ganter, 1008 Otis pl. nw., attended the sessions after being charged with failing to give full time and attention to his driving.

He scored 80 for the course, but he scored 100 with Municipal Court Judge Aubrey Fennell when he came into court for sentencing. The judge freed him on personal bond after Ganter's soliloquy on merits of the school.

"I think attendance should be required of all those getting permits as well as those getting renewals of permits after their license has been suspended," he declared.

For his remarks he received judicial thanks.

Judge Fennell then freed four others who had attended the traffic school, releasing them on their personal bonds.

Maternity Pay Bill to Cover Unwed Cases

CONTEST

Unmarried expectant mothers will be included in a bill now before Congress providing maternity leave with pay for women employes of the Government.

Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.) yesterday said he would so amend his bill after hearing several witnesses approve the suggestion at a hearing of the Senate Civil Service Committee, which he heads.

Langer introduced the proposed law a year ago today. In it, he asked that expectant mothers be allowed 60 days' maternity leave—apart from any annual or sick leave—on presentation of a doctor's certificate and at full pay.

Langer said he wrote the bill without covering unwed women because he thought it would be more acceptable that way. After hearing the favorable testimony, however, he announced he would add an amendment.

Dr. Herbert P. Ramsey, professor at the George Washington University medical school and an American Medical Association official, said he though there was a great social need for the law.

Support came also from Dr. Martha Elliott, associate chief of the Children's Bureau, Federal Security Agency, and Miss Margaret Plunkett, chief of the Women's Bureau's division on women's labor law, who observed that 26 countries have legislated some form of maternity leave.

Eby Admits Labor Chiefs Often Have Too Much Power

A CIO official said yesterday "there is considerable truth" in the statement that "labor leaders are too powerful and rank and file workers too subservient."

"There is similar truth in the assertion that political bosses, likewise, often have too much power," Kermit Eby, the CIO's research and education director, said in a statement submitted to a Senate labor subcommittee. He added:

"The remedy, furthermore, in both cases is the same—an educated membership or electorate stimulated to take their rightful part in the organizations of which they are members."

Eby and CIO President Philip Murray both urged passage of a bill to set up a government education program for workers.

D. C. Considering Flashing Lights For Night Traffic

A plan to operate flashing lights of warning at traffic intersections where lights are now turned off between 1 a. m. and 6 a. m. is being considered by the District Department of Vehicles and Traffic.

George E. Keneipp, director of the department, told the District of Columbia Trucking Association at a monthly luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday that "we have found it is dangerous to turn off lights between 1 and 6 a. m.

He said the department was anxious to establish more one-way streets to speed traffic.

COED SURVEYS BLAST SCENE—Sena Arnold of 3305 Cleveland ave. nw., examines damaged room in the basement of a George Washington University Building rocked by a gas explosion

The Washington Post

A pocket of illuminating gas, touched off by an electric spark, was given yesterday as a possible cause of the blast which partly wrecked a classroom at George Washington University Tuesday night.

The fire marshal's office and police advanced that theory of the explosion, but said the investigation was continuing.

The explosion, about 10:30 p. m., blew out two six-inch walls, splintered furniture and shattered doors and windows.

Fire officials said it was possible for gas to seep through the ground from a main in the street and collect in the room. A janitor at the school, Eddie Sligh, 45, suffered flash burns, but was not in a serious condition.

They said Sligh had gone into the basement room to throw an electric switch when the blast occurred.

Parties Given For Winners Of Contest

'Government Girls' To Leave Tomorrow For Bermuda Trip

Surprise farewell parties were given last night for the two Government lovelies selected as top winners in the "Miss Government Girl" contest sponsored by The Washington Post.

Gini MacNaught, 20, of 4615 21st st. ne., the top winner, showed up "as excited as I can be" in a smart new suit dress purchased especially for her trip to Bermuda—to begin tomorrow. The party, at 2325 15th st. nw., was given by her "boy friend," Keith Garr, 28, of 1619 R st. nw., a salesman.

Audrey Hall, also 20, and hardly less subdued, turned up for a family gathering at 325 Delafield pl. nw. on the arm of her husband, Ernest, 24, a George Washington University student.

Both girls, who will be featured in a sequence of the Mary Worth comic strip, are scheduled to leave for a nine-day Bermuda junket from National Airport at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Roommates in the comic strip, they will roo mtogether in Bermuda — at the Hotel Bermudiana. The trips are being provided by the World-Wide Travel Service Corp. and the hotel stay by the Hilton Hotels.

Both Gini and Audrey reported purchase of some mighty glamorous new clothing for their trips. Gini had a $200 gift from The Washington Post to help defray the cost and Audrey, as second place winner, a gift of $50.

Gini, who is dark-haired and has blue-green eyes, said she bought "a really terrific" ankle-length ballerina dress of black tissue faille, a red strapless sun dress, a pair of 2½-inch platform shoes at $32.50 and a teel blue bathing suit "that fits real tight." Among other things.

Audrey will take two bathing suits "because I'm a real mermaid," two strapless evening gowns, a pink angora sweater, an "adorable" pair of sports shoes and $100 "just for spending money."

NLRB Ruling Gives Inspectors Worker Status

Factory inspectors of production are not supervisory employes under the Taft-Hartley Act and therefore they can be represented by the union of the rank and file workers, a majority of the National Labor Relations Board ruled yesterday.

NLRB Chairman Herzog and members Houston and Murdock issued the majority opinion in the first case to involve this issue since the passage of the new labor law. Members Reynolds and Gray issued a joint dissent.

The minority said that the inspectors were clearly "representatives of management." The majority argued, however, that the law's legislative history showed explicit intent not to include inspectors among supervisory employes.

Two Jailed in France In Fatal Train Wreck

Lille, France, Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Two railroad men were jailed today on charges of involuntary manslaughter in connection with a train wreck that killed 22 persons and injured about 40.

Police said Albert Dufour, station master, told them he had become upset while arguing with an employe and dispatched the train permaturely. It collided with a freight train.

New Gallinger Laboratory Held Pressing Need by Board

Razing of the presently "impossible" main laboratory of Gallinger Hospital and its replacement with a new structure was urged yesterday by lay advisers.

Describing the laboratory facilities as "highly inadequate," the Board of Visitors to Municipal Hospitals yesterday called on District Commissioners to press for construction of a new building.

The laboratory is designated to perform all th emajor clinical diagnostic functions of the hospital, conducting tests where speed and accuracy may often mean a patient's life.

"It is needless to dwell upon the inadequacies of the building and its state of utter disrepair to the point where it is impossible to expect anyone to rehabilitate either the building or its facilities or to properly carry on its functions," the board members officially reported to the Commissioners.

The sentiment was echoed by Gallinger Superintendent Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney, who admitted the laboratory's deficiencies. Dr. Sweeney explained that $190,000 was appropriated for a new structure in 1944, but construction was held up by wartime needs and building material shortages.

Now, said Dr. Sweeney, building and material costs have risen so much that District architects have estimated such construction will cost an additional $225,000. Though the District Commissioners are "interested," he said, he has no present hope for the needed appropriation.

Members of the inspecting board emphasized that they made similar recommendations in 1944 and in 1945. They asked the District Commissioners to make certain that the needed additional appropriation request is contained in the budget for 1950.

The report was submitted by Attorney Renah F. Camalier, chairman, and Mrs. C. Ashmead Fuller and Mrs. William North Sturtevant, board members.

'Culture' Spread In International Affairs Advocated

Charlottesvillea, Va., Feb. 18 (A.P.).—Public opinion should be influenced by those educated in foreign affairs, Andre Philip, former French Minister of National Economy, said here today.

If this theory were followed, he said, "international attitude" would be developed so that intense nationalism that often disrupts international councils would not be so strong.

Philip recommended a spreading of "culture in international affairs" starting with the business representatives of a nation.

As for specialists in foreign affairs, Philip said:

"Too many specialists who have complete knowledge of their own subjects have little idea of overall political implications."

Harper's Ferry Plans Purchase Of Water Works

Harper's Ferry, W. Va., Feb. 18 (Spl.).—A proposal calling for purchase of the Harper's Ferry Water Works, Inc., by the town of Harper's Ferry will be presented to the West Virginia Public Service Commission in the next three weeks, Mayor L. D. Nichols announced today.

Details of the plan were outlined to residents of the town by local officials last night, but formal protests are to be lodged with the PSC at the impending hearing, which will be held in the commission's office at Charleston.

The town proposes a bond issue of about $21,000 to finance the water proposal, Mayor Nichols said. This would include a $9000 improvement fund in addition to the $12,000 purchase price for the privately owned water company.

Judge Rules for Students In D. C. Tuition Dispute

Part-Time Schooling Of Negro Students Reduced Sharply, School Board Says

Part-time education in the Negro schools has been reduced until there are now more white students on half-day programs than Negro students, the Board of Education said yesterday.

A report, prepared by Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning, showed 1254 white students on part-time programs and 1202 Negro.

Part-time schooling, caused by a shortage of school buildings, has been reduced in the Negro division by the construction of new schools, including the Richardson opened this month, and the transfer of white schools to use by Negro children.

5000 More Go Full Time

The report showed that more than 5000 Negro students who last year were on part-time schedules are now going full time. Part time education in the white schools has increased by 836 students since last year.

At its semimonthly meeting, the board also voiced its opposition to two congressional bills that would require high school pupils to study American history for four years and the Constitution for two years. The bills also provide for congressional review of courses and text books.

Board Member Adelbert W. Lee filed a minority report declaring that he found "much of value" in the bills. Over his opposition the board's committee on legislation last week attacked the bills.

Exchange of Words

Board Vice President Robert A. Maurer and Lee differed sharply after Maurer said that Lee "could have saved school officials a lot of time if he had his friend and legal counselor submit the bills to the Board of Education rather than to members of Congress."

Maurer referred to Franklin T. Miles, Washington attorney, who drafted the bills which were introduced by Representatives Alvin E. O'Konski (R., Wis.) and A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.).

"I resent your comments," Lee shouted at Maurer. "Mr. Miles may be my adviser in litigation but he is certainly not my counselor in these matters."

Miles, who attended the meeting as a spectator, left with Lee shortly after the verbal exchange and before the end of the meeting.

In answer to charges by Lee that District high school graduates are not properly trained to pass examinations for Annapolis and West Point, Corning read a letter from the Naval Academy which stated that the quality of District graduates is "better than the national average."

Other Action

In other actions yesterday the board:

Requested a joint meeting with the Commissioners to discuss the possibility of improving the medical inspection program conducted in the schools by the Health Department by placing doctors and nurses assigned to schools under supervision of the superintendent of schools.

Announced the retirements of Miss Frances C. Carroll, 1015 Jackson st. ne., teacher at Brookland Elementary School, after 33 years of service, and of Mrs. Henrietta F. Childs, 1737 S st. nw., first aid assistant at Cardozo High School, after 19 years.

Noted that the cost of operating District schools is high as compared with the cost in other cities but declared this was primarily out of board hands since the major portion of expenses went for custodial salaries which are set by the Civil Service Commission.

Woodstock, Va., Feb. 18 (Spl.).—Garland Weaver of New Market has been appointed town policeman for Woodstock to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of William L. Fultz.

Weekly Gains

Measles Rate Found Rising In District

Measles among Washington children is increasing to epidemic stage, it was reported yesterday by the District Health Department.

With reported cases now listed as slightly under 100 weekly, the peak may not be reached before two more months, according to Dr. James G. Cumming, director of the Health Department's bureau of preventable diseases.

"No one can tell definitely about these things, but we're probably due for an epidemic," declared Dr. Cumming. "They come around about every two or three years," he said, pointing out that the last epidemic was in 1946, when the peak of 425 cases was reached one week, in late April.

Reported cases of measles, he said, rose rapidly the first two weeks of this month, with 36 cases reported for the week ended February 7 and 91 for the week ended last Saturday, in contrast to 33 cases recorded for the week ended January 31. The five-year average number of cases reported for this time of year is 25 weekly.

Health authorities admit, however, that not more than 20 per cent of measles cases are reported for department statistics.

They recommended that children known to have been exposed to measles be given injections of the new gamma globulin, which the Red Cross supplies to the Health Department for free distribution to physicians. Physicians, they said, should pass it on free to their patients, though a 2-cubic-centimeter vial costs $6 in a drugstore.

It was pointed out that complications which sometimes develop with measles are often more serious than the disease itself. These include ear infections and pneumonia.

Patients should be given absolute bed rest in a darkened room. Plenty of fluids, excepting milk, should be given the sick child. Addition of a little baking soda to the drinking water is recommended. And the sick child should be isolated from other children.

Trumbull's Plea In Mortorcycle Racetrack Denied

Four of six petitions for commercial rezoning were granted by the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday, after a public hearing in the County Service Building at Hyattsville.

Frank and Alma E. Grasso were refused commercial rezoning of a lot on Riggs rd. near Chillum rd. The Chillum Citizens Association contended sufficient property already zoned for commercial use is available.

The request of Clark L. Trumbull, jr., for permission to use a 19-acre tract on Baltimore blvd., south of Contee rd. near Muirkirk, for a motorcycle racetrack was denied after a number of nearby residents objected.

American Legion Post No. 26, Takoma Park, was granted permission to operate a clubhouse on the north side of Bunker rd. near Beltsville.

Tobacco and Corn Insurance Slated

Tobacco and corn growers in two nearby countries will be given a chance to protect their crops through a trial insurance plan to be placed in effect in the near future by the Federal Crop Insurance Program.

Anthony Madden, director for the program in Maryland, said trial contracts would be made available to farmers in Anne Arundel and Kent Counties under an experiment to be conducted in selected counties of the States. The insurance will protect crops against loss from drought, flood, hail, wind, frost, excessive rain, wildlife, hurricane, insect damage and other unavoidable causes.

The contract will cover tobacco damage in Anne Arundel, at a cost of six dollars an acre, and corn crops in Kent County, at 50 cents an acre. The insurance guarantees a $170-an-acre yield for tobacco and $15-an-acre for corn.

Ruling Expected Soon On 'No Man's' Highway

Richmond, Va., Feb. 18 .—The question of who has jurisdiction over the "no man's" highway between Langley Field and Hampton may be cleared up soon.

The State Highway Department is awaiting approval from Army engineers in Washington of recommendations that the right of way be transferred to the State.

Such a transfer would clarify a situation that now leaves State route 134 with neither State, county nor the military claiming control.

33 New Homes Built

Shenandoah, Va., Feb. 18 (Spl.). A total of 33 new homes, costing approximately $165,000, have been built here in the last year, according to a report by Mayor Henry A. Fix. Cost of the homes, exclusive of land, ranged from $3500 to $14,000, the mayor's report showed.

38 Nonresidents Enrolled Last July Exempt From Fee Under Letts' Writ

A District Court judge yesterday overruled the Corporation Counsel and ruled that 38 nonresident students at Woodrow Wilson High School do not have to pay tuition.

The decision, in effect, exempts from the new nonresident school fees those Maryland and Virginia children who had "enrolled" in District schools by July 25, 1947, but were not attending class at that date. Some 75 students are favorably affected by the ruling.

The 1949 District Appropriations Act ends free schooling here for nonresidents, except those "enrolled" in local schools before the effective date of the legislation. The Corporation Counsel's office interpreted "enrolled" to mean actually attending school.

At Woodrow Wilson High, 38 Maryland students protested this interpretation, and refused to pay the first semester tuition of $97. When threatened with expulsion they obtained a restraining order. Yesterday Justice F. Dickinson Letts granted a temporary injunction. Date for a hearing on a permanent injunction has not yet been set.

Justice Letts announced, after studying the case for more than a week, that by "enrolled" in the schools, Congress referred to students who were "registered," and not merely to those attending classes.

At the same time, he dismissed a motion to prevent the expulsion of Herbert Clarence Young, jr., Hyattsville, Md., from Macfarland junior high school. The boy's father, a Metropolitan police detective, argued through counsel that District employes should not have to pay to send their children to District schools. Previous to the new law, children of persons working here were allowed in school free.

The Board of Education, meanwhile, asked the Corporation Counsel yesterday for its opinion on a request by the Washington Building Congress that the District lower the nonresident night school tuition of $26 for apprentices.

The building organization did not question the fairness of charging tuition to nonresident students, but pointed out the present rate would work "an extreme hardship" on the apprentice training program in the local construction industry.

Veteran Donors Contribute Blood

Daniel M. Clancy, 626 Highland ave. nw., yesterday gave his eighteenth blood donation—a routine affair for him, but a special occasion for the Red Cross Blood Center.

Clancy, a Bureau of Engraving and Printing employe, was the 1000th donor at the center, 1730 E st. nw. He was one of a group of Engraving and Printing employes, headed by Mrs. Frances Nadeau, which visited the center yesterday.

Although Clancy got the honors, he wasn't the only veteran donor in the party. Also giving up her eighteenth donation was Mrs. Frieda Vogel, 1810 Casadel ave.

The goal of the peacetime blood program, opened January 5, is to provide 30,000 pints annually for Greater Washington.

Kennel Owner Denies Dogs Are Nuisance

Ashton, Md., Kennel Owner Claude P. Williams said yesterday his dogs bark only when exercised.

Williams denied his dogs create a community nuisance during hearing on an injunction petition filed by former Washington Outfielder Sam Rice.

The hearing is being held before an equity examiner in Montgomery County Circuit Court in Rockville.

Claiming a $25,000 investment and that his kennels have been hosts, at various times, to dogs owned by Winston Churchill, Marlene Dietrich, Paul McNutt, Greer Garson and Henry Wallace, Williams said the dogs were exercised for 15-minute periods five times a day.

And, he said, they only bark during these periods. His attorney, Joseph H. Simpson, jr., presented nine witnesses to back up Williams' no-barking claiming.

The injunction is sought by Outfielder Rice, whose home is adjacent to the Ashton kennels, on grounds he and his wife "can't sleep, read or converse" because of the barking which, Rice claims, starts in early morning and continues until late at night.

One of Williams' witnesses, Mrs. Louis A. Cornet, 1927 N. Capitol st., countered Rice's barking charge by telling the examiner Rice, at one time, kept "4000 chickens" at his home and that she had found the odor offensive.

Rice presented his side of the neighborhood barking issue last Wednesday.

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

Four well-known writers described the backgrounds of their books yesterday at The Washington Post Book and Author luncheon in the Hotel Statler.

More than 500 persons attended the luncheon, speakers at which included Agnes Sligh Turnbull, author of "The Bishop's Mantle"; James Warner Bellah, whose "The Irreguiar Gentleman" was published yesterday; Charles Hurd, author of "Washington Cavalcade," and Michael F. O'Reilly, coauthor of "Reilly of the White House."

Mrs. Turnbull, relating the personal background of her best seller, said the clergymen in her own family had given her an insight into "the drama, tragedy and comedy that go on behind the scenes in clergymen's lives.

Material Mostly Factual

"I was struck by the fact that the average person does not know very much about the practice of this profession, so I decided to try to tell the story of a young clergyman, one sincere and dedicated to his purpose," she said.

When she came to write, she found that the material had been growing in her mind for years from the stories she had heard in her own family, and that most of her material war factual.

As an instance, she cited the story of a clergyman maneuvered into an awkward situation by a designing woman, which was used as a subplot for "The Bishop's Mantle."

Mrs. Turnbull said the story was told to her by an uncle, an Episcopalian minister. "I can still remember the terror in his face, though he was nearly 90, when he told it," she said.

Later, on the possibility that the story might be too melodramatic, she checked it with a New York clergyman, she said, and learned that it was a not uncommon occurrence.

Bellah in Whimsical Mood

Bellah in a light whimsical talk that brought frequent ripples of laughter said the title of "The Irregular Gentleman" had been inspired by an English valet at a Hollywood trout farm operated by Noah Beery many years ago, and not by numerology as some of his friends suggested.

Bellah said that when he went to tip the valet, upon leaving the farm, the valet refused because "I once worked for an irregular gentleman in England and you make me homesick."

"A writer lives his real life when he is working," Bellah observed, "and lives his unreal life after working hours, which is why headwaiters and blonds take him seriously."

Reilly, describing his experiences as a secret service man guarding Presidents, paid tribute to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "absolute fearlessness."

Recalling the assassinations and attempted assassinations of other Presidents, Reilly said "in retrospect, it seems odd to me that the quick black shadow slipped by us on a sunny Sunday afternoon."

Hurd said that in working on "Washington Cavalcade" he came to the conclusion he was living in the most fascinating city in the world, a capital that was planned as a capital," and where politics dominates the scene as it does not in London or Paris.

"People who come here for political reasons like the city and in time become old families," he said, "so that we have a background of politics that you find nowhere else.

"You simply can't live in Washington for a day without having politics brought into the discussion."

Soroptomists Hear Lawrence Hoes Talk On Monroe Doctrine

The Monroe Doctrine—United States tradition of serving as guardian of its hemisphere—is just as beneficial to us today as it was at its inception 125 years ago as a bulwark against the Holy Alliance in Europe.

This was brought out in a talk given yesterday at the Soroptomist Club luncheon by Lawrence Hoes, great-great-grandson of James Monroe.

If it had not been for the Monroe Doctrine, Hoes said, European air bases would be scattered throughout the map of Central and South America and we would be in constant danger of attack.

Special guests at the luncheon were Miss Hazel Hackett, president of the Federated Soroptimist Clubs, and Miss Grace Chandler, editor of The American Soroptimist, the club's publication.

Mrs. Rose E. Cowen, president of the Washington Soroptimists, presided at the meeting.

Engagement Refuted Again

Mrs. Truman's Calendar Has Teas, Receptions

By Elizabeth Maguire

"MARGARET is not engaged to anyone, and that's final," said Mrs. Truman to Mrs. James Helm and Miss Reathel Odum, White House secretaries and refuters of rumors. The flat denial came yesterday from Mrs. Helm at Mrs. Truman's press conference, and chances are things haven't changed since then.

During the Lenten season Mrs. Truman's schedule of official duties is somewhat reduced. There will be a reception on Tuesday, however, of chiefs of missions and their wives who have not been received by Mrs. Truman heretofore. The reception will take place in the afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The last time Mrs. Truman received chiefs of missions was in November. Diplomats who were away from the city at that time will be received, as well as others who have come to town since then.

The Ambassador of Iraq and Mme. Jawdat will attend, and the Ambassador of Greece and Mme. Dendramis. Also the Ambassador of Pakistan, Mr. A. H. Ispahani; the Ambassador of Burma and Mme. So Nyun, the Ambassador of Ecuador and Senora de Dillon, the Ambassador of the Soviet Socialist Republics, Alexander Semenovich Panayushkin; the Ambassador of Peru and Senora de Ferreyros, the Minister of Bulgaria and Mme. Mevorah and the Minister of Nepal and Rani Kaiser.

Mrs. Ispahani, wife of the Pakistan Ambassador, is still in Pakistan, and Mme. Panyushkin, wife of the Soviet Ambasasdor, has not yet left Moscow.

WHEN Miss Anita Cajigas becomes the bride of Flying Officer Clarence George Mattusch, the First Lady and Miss Truman will be among the guests. The ceremony will take place in the Church of the Epiphany on February 28.

Among other engagements, Mrs. Truman and Margaret were presented their 1948 memberships in the YWCA yesterday by the YWCA president, Mrs. Howard G. Nichols and the executive director, Miss Mabel Cooke. After the presentation, at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Truman received 200 delegates attending the National Conference of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

Today the First Lady will receive women who are attending the Jackson-Jefferson dinner in the evening. Some 500 or 600 are expected. Ladies of the Cabinet will receive with Mrs. Truman.

On Monday Mrs. Truman will attend the fashion show at the Mayflower Hotel, sponsored by the Ladies Aid of Garfield Memorial Hospital for the benefit of the Cancer Prevention Clinic. Friday, the 27th, she will receive 40 boys and girls who are winners of the seventh annual talent search of the Science Clubs of America, and the following day at noon Mrs. Truman will greet a group of college students from Baltimore interested in church work.

The concert to be given at Constitution Hall on March 9 by the American Friends for Italian Aid for the benefit of needy children will be attended by Mrs. Truman and Margaret.

Tomorrow's Woman Gets Program for Freedom

By Genevieve Reynolds

A seven-point program by which tomorrow's woman may "more completely call her soul her own" was offered yesterday by Ordway Tead, chairman, Board of High Education, New York City.

The educator and author made his suggestions during a speech before delegates to the conference on "The American Woman's Changing Role as Worker, Homemaker and Citizen," which is being sponsored by the Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Seneca Falls convention of 1848.

Here is Mr. Tead's program:

(1) More active participation of women in labor organizations for collective bargaining with unions allowing women equal rights of membership.

(2) Collective bargaining to obtain part-time work as an accepted practice for women.

(3) Immediate consideration of a social program of maternity subventions under proper safeguards.

(4) Encouragement of planned parenthood so that women might be enabled to relate the rearing of adequate families to their resources as creators and builders of happy and successful homes.

(5) Make provision on a dignified and well paid basis of trained women who either on a whole or part-time basis can qualify as family workers and domestic assistants.

(6) Teach boys and young about the nature and responsibilities of marriage, of family life, of fatherhood, of women's right to self-fulfillment; greater vocational guidance for women; extension of all-day nursery schools for children as young as three years of age; encourage married teachers to continue in their profession.

(7) Work to become a "whole" rather than a frustrated personality.

Equal Pay Needed

Mr. Tead emphasized that unions should support aggressively laws requiring equal pay for equal work. Also that they should press upon the attention of management through collective bargaining the accepted practice for women to do part-time work. "If it were planned that two women should each work on half-time to supply a full week's work," he explained, "that would enable many women better to reconcile the claims of home and of job, of personal health and family duties. The social benefits of half-time work seem to me so considerable that the adjustments required at the job would in the vast majority of positions be worth whatever bother they might entail. Perhaps the acceptance of no other single practice would be so helpful to so many women.

Principal of the future state must be that every man and every woman shall be a "whole person," according to Mr. Tead, pointing out that many men are narrowed by work and business, and that many women are narrowed by home and children—or by both jobs and domestic duties. "As long as there is fragmented living, there will be frustrated living," he maintained, "but both men and women should search inwardly to determine those inner resources which make for more creative living."

Dr. Kyrk Speaks

Dr. Hazel Kyrk, professor in the home economics and economics departments, University of Chicago, discussed "Family Responsibilities of Earning Women." "My interpretation is that married women are pulled or pushed into the labor market," she said. "The pull is the opportunity for employment at attractive wages under good working conditions. Opportunities are maximum in metropolitan districts for younger women in boom periods, but at a minimum for older women and those who live in rural communities."

She went on to point out that the "push" comes from economic necessity.

During the discussion period, Susan B. Anthony 2d, great niece of the pioneer suffragette, Susan B. Anthony, gave brief comments on women's current role.

"At the Seneca Falls convention in 1848, the real Susan B. Anthony spoke for the women of the future," said Susan 2d. "We should speak for the women of the twenty-first century.

"The woman worker should have minimum wages, equal pay and equal opportunities for jobs," she continued. "And there should be a FEPC that would assure employment for all women regardless of sex, color and marital status."

By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

There was plenty of excitement both outside and in at the Chevy Chase Women's Club yesterday. While the regular luncheon meeting and program were in session, members filed out one by one to have their chests X-rayed at the mobile unit sent by the Montgomery County T. B. Association. Pictured above, in the foreground, are Mrs. Alton Grinnell (left) and Mrs. Robert Dannemiller, who both planned the project for the clubwomen. Behind them Mrs. Wesley Evans, another club member, receives her application from the attendants of the mobile unit, Elmer Moore and Mrs. Gladys Ward

U. N.'s Destiny Up to People, Byron Price Tells Press Club

The fate of United Nations rests with the people of the world, says Byron Price, assistant secretary general of the U. N.

Speaking at the Women's National Press Club luncheon at the Mayower Hotel yesterday, he called these "critical and possibly decisive days for U. N."

"We must look the facts in the face," he declared "and be conscious always that one first-class failure in the delicate and always highly dangerous field of international politics might discredit or wreck the entire effort at international cooperation."

The major difficulty, he said, is the "clash of policy" among the great powers responsible for making the peace which the U. N. was organized to keep.

Traces U. N. History

Reviewing the history of U. N., he recalled that it had always been understood that the task of the U. N. would be to keep the peace, once peace is established.

"It is the people who forged this instrument out of bitter experience," he continued. "It is they who will pay the penalty if now they allow the edge of the blade to be dulled by neglect, or turned against its makers to further the purposes of power politics."

The speaker added that as one American, I am not ready to believe that the American people will be accessory before the fact to so great a tragedy."

Turning to the questions, "Has it been worth while? Is it worth while going on?" he outlined a few basic facts concerning the U. N. organization:

1. United Nations and its specialized agencies have accomplished more in international cooperation in the first operational year of 1947 than has been achieved in any like period since the world began.

2. For the most part, this accomplishment has been effected by the unanimous agreement of the 57 member nations. The recent session of the General Assembly adopted in all 93 resolutions, 64 being passed without opposition. "I leave it to you to compare this record of concerted action with the performance of national legislative bodies generally," said Mr. Price.

3. There have been serious disagreements also, and bitter disappointments, for United Nations was born to trouble. It must be remembered that every package "arrives at Lake Success bearing someone's label: 'too hot to handle'."

4. The one hope of ultimate success lies in the fact that United Nations sprang from the irresistible demand of the peoples of the world for collective action, supported by force, to forestall future wars.

Our Cultural Goings On

Secretary Royall's Portrait Will Be on View at Tea; Tapestries Inspire Talk

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

NOTES FROM A CLUTTERED DESK. February 24 Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jonniaux are giving a tea in their Connecticut Avenue studio to show a portrait of Secretary of the Army, Kenneth Royall. Mr. Jonniaux is a Belgian Royal Court painter and has many elegant daubs to his credit. At Dumbarton Oaks, where Washington's most stimulating cultural goings-on take place, Jean Verriere, the inspector general of France's "Monuments Historiques," will give a lecture on French Gothic tapestries tonight.

Saturday afternoon witty, kindly Mrs. "Chip" Robert is giving a cocktail party for Verbena Hebbard, who dropped in from California. She is an up and coming gal who rakes in shekels painlessly, simply by being part owner of the Beverly Hills Hotel.

The National Symphony drive totaled a mere 20 per cent of its goal last week—to help up the sum the Old New Orleans Restaurant is going to donate 10 per cent of next week's gross intake. It is the suggestion of Rita Dimitriou, the Athenian songstress, who is appearing in their Sazerac Room.

It's On the House!

BERMUDIANS are so excited when they build a house that when the roof's finally in place, they break a bottle of champagne on the roof-tree, or whatever, and ask friends in for a drink. They call it a Roof-Wetting Ceremony.

Next week is Peace Week in Peru. Some 15 Peruvian women's organizations asked the Pan-American Liaison Committee of Women's Organizations to draw attention to the event. So the committee, combined with the American Brotherhood National Conference of Christians and Jews, is giving a reception February 24 at the Pan-American Building. Beguiling, Chilean-born Mrs. Robert Mills McClintock, who is chairman of the World-Wide Women's Appeal for Peace, is also chairman of the reception. The new Peruvian Ambassador, Alfredo Ferreyros, will speak for 10 minutes only on Latin American Women's Organizations; Col. Robert S. Allen will say a few words, the United States Air Force Band will play, some of the top ranking diplomats will be invited and it should be an enjoyable as well as interesting occasion.

The Wit Department

SOME SIXTY PLUS members of UNESCO'S United States National Commission met Tuesday-Wednesday in the Department of State. Naturally, the subjects discussed were serious—but now and again a ray of humor crept through the silken curtain of intellectuality. During the first session plans for Julian Huxley's favorite project, Wildlife Conservation, were gone over then the committee turned to proposed studies of tensions conducive to war. Tensions, dangerous to peace, incidentally, are political, geographic, racial, religious, and economic. The increasing population is also a war factor. During a pause one of the brainy members commented to handsome Anna Rosenberg in a very audible whisper: "Maybe if there was a little more wildlife there would be fewer tensions!"

Red Skins Addenda

A FEW MONTHS ago we stuck our inquisitive nose into Indian (red) affairs. Since then we have been deluged with information about our much put-upon red brothers. Now, just when Congress has granted Federal relief to the Navajos, we hear our Alaskan Indians are being given a run-around in the Salmon Trap Sites Bill. If the bill passes they can't fish their own waters, professional overfishing will deplete the supply and eventually the Indians, who depend on fishing for livelihood, will be pauperized. It's tough to be an Indian!

On March 12 and 13 the University Players are giving Aeschylus' "Agamemnon" in the Lisner Auditorium. Miss Edith Hamilton has done the translation and adaptation.

PRETTY for Prom Time: This frock for Congressional daughters was among those shown yesterday at the Congressional Club during the "Today and Yesterday" fashion show and brunch which celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the club. Made of peach marquisette, with billowing skirt, off-the-shoulder neckline and tiny, bustle effect, the dress is reminiscent of those that Grandma wore when she was a girl. Available at Jelleff's

Congressional Club Members Delve in Old Trunks for Frocks

By Peggy Preston

You had to look twice at the Congressional Club fashion show yesterday to tell whether it was 1900 or 1948.

Members of the club, in celebration of its fortieth birthday, staged a "today and yesterday" fashion display that proved anew that "fashion repeats itself."

Models for the part of the show that depicted costumes of other years were drawn from Congressional Club circles. Wives of Senators, Representatives and other Washington officials had dug deep into discarded trunks and pulled out some tricky ensembles for the occasion. Included was a gown worn to the Taft Inaugural Ball; a Gay '90's bathing suit; a slinky satin and beaded evening dress of 1926 vintage and several more.

Appearing on the runway alternately with these "amateurs" were a group of professional models wearing the 1948 versions of the same clothes from a local specialty shop. In some instances the similarity in style was sufficient to make a girl want to dash for the nearest old clothes hamper.

Gibson Girl Manner

There was, for instance, the costume worn by Mrs. Jamie L. Whitten of Mississippi. With a sweeping purple skirt she wore a white eyelet batiste blouse and big white felt hat with ostrich trim—right out of the Gibson Girl era, but strongly style-right for 1948.

Her mother's wedding dress, worn by Mrs. Albert L. Reeves, jr., of Missouri, might have come out of any designer's collection for this season. A beautiful Paris fabric of all over embroidered lace and satin, it was cut on simple, classic lines with tiny cap sleeves and miniature train.

Mrs. James I. Dolliver of Iowa wore one of the most handsome gowns which was worn to the Taft Inaugural Ball by her husband's aunt. Made of pale green satin, trimmed with gold lace and green glass beads, it was the most elaborate of the costumes on parade. Modern style items borrowed from the dress were represented in the off-the-shoulder sleeves that ended just blow the elbow and a separate "gimp," or little cape, with high neckline.

The audience gave a loud round of applause to Mrs. Leroy Johnson of California, who appeared in a bathing suit from 1900, complete with black bloomers, middy blouse, black stockings and shoes and big, bloused bathing cap. The modern, scanty two-piece swim suit that followed had little in common with Mrs. Johnson's offering. But it did feature a modest, plaid "grandma" ruffle on the brief skirt.

In the Show

Others wearing "clothing from our trunks" were Mrs. Donald L. Jackson of California; Mrs. Claude I. Bakewell of Missouri, Mrs. Fred Bradley of Michigan, Mrs. Brooks Hayes of Arkansas, Mrs. Homer R. Jones of Washington, Mrs. John C. Kunkel of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Karl M. LeCompte of Iowa, Mrs. William T. Reed of South Carolina and Mrs. E. P. Scrivener of Kansas.

Mrs. Clifford Davis of Tennessee, president of the club, presided at the brunch which preceded the show, and introduced the new members in whose honor the affair was held. Included were Mrs. Julius Krug, Mrs. Claude L. Bakewell, Mrs. Parke M. Banta, Mrs. Charles E. Potter, Mrs. John C. Kunkel, Mrs. Edward T. Miller, Mrs. Russell V. Mack, Mrs. Clark W. Thompson, Mrs. William M. McCullough, Mrs. Wingate H. Lucas, Mrs. Ralph Harvey, Mrs. John D. Dingell and Mrs. Ken Regan.

Also Mrs. John C. Stennis, Mrs. James E. Van Zandt, Mrs. John Bell Williams, Mrs. Ernest K. Bramblett, Mrs. Abraham J. Multer and Mrs. Frederick J. Muhlenberg.

Seated at the head table with Mrs. Davis were members of the board, including Mrs. Wallace H. White, jr., Mrs. Albert Thomas, Mrs. J. Harry McGregor, Mrs. Mike Mansfield and Mrs. Aime J. Forand.

Fashion Showing

Democrats Honor Wives At Tea Party

To honor the wives of Democratic Senators and Congressmen, a tea was held yesterday afternoon at the Women's National Democratic Club. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, president of the club, received with members of the Board of Governors, from 4 to 7 o'clock.

In the receiving line at different times were Mrs. Scott Lucas, Mrs. Carl Hatch, Mrs. J. Howard McGrath, Mrs. Spessard Holland, Mrs. Claude Pepper, Mrs. J. William Fulbright, Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Harley Kilgore, Mrs. Brien McMahon, Mrs. Erland H. Hedrick, Mrs. Louis Ludlow, Mrs. Clarence F. Lea, Mrs. Jasper C. Bell, Mrs. Clifford Davis, Mrs. Frank M. Karsten, Representative Mary Norton, Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, Mrs. A. S. M. Monroney, Mrs. Lansdale G. Sasscer, Mrs. Pete Jarman, Mrs. Dwight L. Rogers, Mrs. Fadjo Cravens and Mrs. John L. McMillan.

The tea was one of the largest ever held at the Club. There were non-resident members from States of California, Montana, Virginia, the Carolinas and Florida. Mrs. William H. Davis, immediate past president of the club, who came down from New York City for the occasion, was greeted by friends on all sides.

Spring flowers were placed around the rooms, and different colored cakes were served with tea and coffee. Mrs. James Murray, jr., chairman of the membership committee, wore a charming ballet length frock of black net sprinkled with sequins.

Among the ladies who poured coffee were Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, Mrs. Arthur Clarendon Smith, Mrs. Wilbur Hubbard, Mrs. William Clayton, Mrs. Braxton Jones, Mrs. Mastin White, Mrs. Norman Littell, Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. Jackson G. Davis, Mrs. William J. Price and Mrs. Virginia Roser.

Presiding at the tea table from time to time were Miss Edith Merideth, Mrs. Fred Morrison, Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. Rose Yates Forrester, Mrs. Edward Stitt, Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Mrs. Loren Johnson, Mrs. William Warne, Mrs. Philip Owen, Mrs. Laude Orchard and Mrs. Curtis Shears.

Attractive Young Woman of Poor But Proud Family Was Victimized by Employer's Son; Should She Confess Incident to Her Fiance?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I cannot suppress my secret any longer and implore your advice. I am an attractive young woman of poor but proud parentage. Two years after I graduated from high school I took a position as domestic in a distant city with a fine socially prominent family to which I became very attached.

One night when I was left alone in their beautiful home, their son, a young officer in the Air Forces, came home in a very drunk condition and forced his affections on me. Soon I found I was going to be a mother. Incidentally the young man had no recollection of the incident and I was too embarrassed to remind him.

As I didn't want to soil the good name of this family I returned to my parents, who I thought would be sympathetic but they turned out to be just the opposite. In due time I had a baby girl who died a few hours after birth.

Fiance Is Very Moral Character

AS MY parents acted so ashamed and disgusted with me, I left for my present position which I have held for one year. I am highly respected here and held in very high esteem by a certain fine and enterprising young man who has asked me to be his wife.

We have been constant companions for six months, he is of very high moral character and, needless to say, means all the world to me. My conscience tells me I should confess my past misfortune to him; but I hesitate to tell him everything as I fear it might alter his love and respect for me.

Would it be wrong of me to take this chance to assure myself of a happy future and say nothing of the past? Please answer soon, as he is pressing me to name a definite date for our wedding. H. F.

Let Dead Past Bury Its Dead

DEAR H. F.: Surely your misfortune belongs to the dead past, of which Jesus said, "Let the dead past bury its dead." The whole history of His teaching shows Him instant in forgiving persons bowed by a sense of guilt, who yearn for absolution and return to righteous living. And always in healing such afflicted souls He said in effect, "Thy sins are forgiven thee. Go in peace — and tell no man."

Also in the Lord's Prayer, Jesus gives us the key to perfect atonement thus. "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us,"—which plea and promise, if sincere, issue from a humble contrite heart ready to fulfill the redemptive terms thereof. All of which signifies that moral purification is intensely personal to the chastened soul, and doesn't consist in abasing oneself to other fellow beings—none of whom is without sin, as John reminds.

In your case, with the baby dead, the "past" concerns only you and the man who victimized you, and inasmuch as he has no recollection of what transpired, it can't be said to have any reality for him and if you have forgiven his offense, humbly mindful of your weakness in subscribing to it, holding no resentment against him or his family for the vicissitudes in which it involved you, surely you are entitled to feel forgiven, too, and go in peace, telling no man—burying the incident in healing silence.

Real Forgiveness Means Forgetting

TRUE forgiveness embodies spontaneous forgetting; it is a total spiritual experience of going free of past mistakes, of lifting one's consciousness and character above them; whereas to hark back in morbid rehearsal of old misfortune, either in thought or garrulous discussion, is to resurrect the "anatomy" of the difficulty and again invest it with destructive emotional energy, thus generating further measures of injurious consequences.

Your family's reaction to your misfortune tremendously accelerated your own guilt-feelings, of course. And to gain relief from these, constructively, turn to a proper confessor, say a priest, clergyman or professional psychologist, if you feel you can no longer carry the secret alone.

As concerns your wish to do right by your fiance, it seems to me the quality of your intentions and your moral ability to be a good wife to him are what matter most. If your maturing character is such that he can repose full faith in you on this score, I should say that silence about the past would be a positive contribution to his happiness,—and moreover a very decent form of reticence as regards the other man, whose name and his family's would be (as you say) "soiled," and to no purpose if you were to tell your fiance about the mindless incident in which he figured. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

One Cup for All

When combining a recipe, measure the dry ingredients first, then the liquids. Then if your kitchen is equipped with only one measuring cup the same one can be used for each article without washing and drying in between measurments. Of course, the correct kitchen should be supplied with two measuring cups exactly alike to do away with such contingencies.

Ask Anne — Your Questions on Homemaking

We received a pair of white ice skating shoes which have had a black stain put on them. Is there a successful way of removing this stain from the leather top? M. S.

If this is a stain and not a dye, it should come off by sponging with a pure neutral soap, such as castile or saddle soap. If you use soap, use plenty of suds and little water, applying it with a light circular motion. Sponge soap from the leather when clean with a cloth wrung out of clear water. If you use saddle soap follow the directions which come with it. If you want the shoes good and white, use a white polish on them after washing.

How can I remove ink from a seersucker suit? The suit was washed before the stain was discovered. M. M. M.

Sometimes several methods must be used before a successful one does the job. The rule is always to start with the simplest first. Wash the garment or spot in hot suds to which a few drops of household ammonia has been added and rinse. If stain remains, allow the spot to soak in the suds for 20 minutes. If the stain remains after this treatment, use a bleach to remove it. A bleach which should not affect the color of the suit is a half and half mixture of household ammonia and hydrogen peroxide. Or, you might try bleaching the stain with oxalic acid. Dampen the stain with cold water, stretch the stain over a bowl of hot water and apply crystals of oxalic acid directly to the stain. Rinse by dipping in the hot water and finally in water to which a few drops of ammonia has been added. Oxalic acid is a poison, so treat it accordingly. Before using any bleach, be sure to test its effect on the color in an inconspicuous spot before applying it to the stain.

Can wallpaper be applied directly over water-mixed paint? How do I make the paste for applying the paper? Would this be a very difficult job to do myself on just one wall which has neither windows or doors? T. W. D.

If the paint is not peeling or if there are not too many coats of paint, I see no reason why wallpaper cannot be applied successfully over it. If the paint is peeling or very thick, remove it before papering by moistening it with warm water and scrubbing with a stiff brush. To make paste for papering, buy dry wheat paste powder made especially for wallpaper where you can buy your paper. To make it, sprinkle the dry paste into warm water, stirring constantly to prevent lumps. Continue adding paste until it is the consistency of heavy cream.

If you are handy about such things, you should be able to apply the paper yourself. Choose a paper which has a design not too difficult to match. Have the margin cut off where you buy the paper. It is much more convenient if you have a large table upon which to lay the strips of paper for pasting. A wide whitewash brush is excellent for applying paste to the paper. Now, figure the exact length of each strip of paper and cut several. Place them one on top of the other face down on the table. Apply paste to top strip, being sure to get it on evenly and not miss a spot—particularly the edges. If the strip is longer than the table, fold the paper, paste sides together.

Now, starting in a corner at the top left-hand side, apply the paper to the wall. This will place the uncut margin of the paper on the righthand side and work from left to right on the wall. It is helpful when cutting the paper if you cut it at exact right angles to the sides so that when the top of the strip is placed straight with the ceiling, the paper will run down the wall straight. Smooth the paper in place with a clean, soft cloth, working from top to bottom. If there are air bubbles, peel the entire piece of paper back from the nearest edge to release the air. When paper is in place, go over the edges lightly with a damp cloth to remove any paste which may have got onto the right side. Do this after putting on each strip, because it is hard to remove when it dries. The paper will look smeary until completely dry.

One precaution: Be sure to use a good, firm stepladder or some other firm stage for reaching the ceiling. Remember, both of your hands will be full as you climb, so DO NOT USE a chair!

Can you tell me how to remove ink stains from the wood of a curly maple antique desk? V. T. L.

Try washing the spots off first with a mixture of mild soap and water with a little vinegar added. (Use about 2 tablespoons of vinegar to a quart of water). If this doesn't take off all the ink, buy powdered pumice or rottenstone at the drug store and use this, together with linseed oil or sewing machine oil, to rub the spots. Leaving oil on the spots a few hours to soften the ink particles, then rubbing, may help in removing them.

In regard to information about used dress patterns requested by J. M., I have at times sent them to the St. Michael's Indian Mission, St. Michael, N. Dak. It is a home for destitute Indian children. The mission uses the patterns in making over used clothing sent for the children. M. M. R.

Shut the Doors

Where there are small children in the home it is particularly important that doors leading to the stairs, cupboard doors that prove bumpers for smallheads and doors to medicine closets containing things apt to be injurious be closed after each opening. Get the habit of closing doors and drawers. It is easily cultivated and results in a neater home.

Care Adds Wear to Hosiery

Fasten the garters to your hose in the reinforced hem provided for them, never below the hem. Be sure you are wearing the correct length stocking so there is no pull when the stocking is gartered. Wear stockings just once, then wash to remove any perspiration or acid that may have accumulated on them. Don't try to put on stockings while your legs are still wet from your shower. It is well to dust the legs with powder after drying them so the stockings will go on easily. Roll the stockings up from the feet when donning them, never try to pull them on from the top. A roughened toenail can start a run in a second; and while on the subject of nails, be certain your fingernails are smooth before putting on the stockings.

Do Just as Well

If just by accident you are out of lard or drippingss and wish to fry some article of food, don't forget your salad oil will answer the same purpose and will help you out just as well.

Md. Fisheries Commission In Dispute

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (AP).—A charge that Chairman John E. Clarke of the Maryland Tidewater Fisheries Commission desires to "run the agency by himself" was hurled today by Commissioner George T. Harrison.

Harrison, president of the Tilghman Packing Co. on Tilghman's Island, accused Clarke of "mismanagement" of the commission in a bitted verbal battle which brought the commission controversy into the open.

"I am dissatisfied with the policies and mismanagement during your administration. . . . You have taken the attitude that you are going to run the bay yourself," Harrison heatedly told the chairman.

His criticism came after he made a motion that Capt. Amos S. Creighton be given back his "full powers" as commander of the commission's enforcement patrol fleet. The motion died when neither Clark nor Allan A. Sollers, third member of the commission, offered a second.

Harrison contended the commission's appointment of Mason Sheehan, a former Navy pilot, to fly the commission's plane and take charge of the enforcement fleet's personnel had usurped the authority of Captain Creighton, commander of the patrol fleet. He said Creighton was "upset" after personnel authority was transferred to Sheehan last August.

Clarke, who offered to relinquish his position as commission chairman following a disagreement with Harrison several weeks ago, said he had "no comment, except on the inaccuracies and substance of your charges."

Mary Washington College to Give Pageant Tonight

Students and faculty members of Mary Washington College, Fredericksburg, Va., will present a historical pageant centering on the life of Mary Washington at the Shoreham Hotel tonight, as a feature of the annual Virginia Society ball.

The pageant, "The Life of Mary, Mother of Washington," will include a series of tableaux depicting outstanding scenes in the life of Mary Ball Washington, and will be climaxed with "The Peace Ball," in which a group of members of the Concert Dance Club will dance the minuet. Twenty-eight students are included in the cast.

Guests of honor at the ball will be Dr. Morgan L. Combs, president of Mary Washington College, and Mrs. Combs. They will attend a reception at 9:30 p. m. and will participate in the grand ball at 10 o'clock.

Following a custom of several years' standing, members of the Society of Virginia attending the ball will appear in colonial attire.

Mann Backs Separate School Board Vote

The claim that separation of Arlington's school and County Board elections will keep independent voters from the polls was called "ridiculous" yesterday by Harrison Mann, Democratic executive committee chairman.

The statement was made early this week by T. Oscar Smith, chairman of Arlington's Joint Legislative Committee, after county delegates to the Virginia General Assembly announced they would sponsor a referendum bill on the separation.

Mann pointed out a National P-TA magazine statement that nomination of school board members on non-partisan ballots and at special elections "is the best way."

Governor Lane Backs 'Fill the Fleet Week'

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (AP).—Governor Lane gave State support today to "Fill the Fleet Week," from February 22 to 29.

In a proclamation, the Governor declared: "The recruitment of adequate personnel is a problem deserving the attention of every citizen in keeping with a duty to guard our national security.

"There is an acute need for the enlistment of young men to bring personnel to an adequate level and replace those who have completed their tour of duty in the country's service."

U. S. Trend Down

Near States Show Gains In Livestock

States near Washington . . . Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia . . . went against the national trend in the numbers of livestock on farms on January 1, the Government Crop Report yesterday disclosed.

Although national figures showed a marked decline in cattle, milk cows, hogs and sheep, the tri-State figures showed a gain.

The biggest gains, however, were made in the financial value of the livestock. For instance, the value of all Maryland cattle this year was estimated at more than 57 million dollars. A year ago it was estimated at 50 million and before the war at only 25 million.

Virginia cattle increased in value from 51 million dollars before the war to 103 million in 1947 and to 115 million in January.

West Virginia cattle increased from 28 million before 1947 to 56 million this year.

The value of Maryland milk cows increased from 37 million last year to 41 million; Virginia from 55 to 61 million, and West Virginia from 14 million prior to 1946 to 28 million dollars today.

The value of hogs, chickens and turkeys showed similar increases, although the numbers of the poultry are decreasing.

The detailed figures on numbers and valuation are:

Md. Oystermen Seek to Recoup Recent Losses

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (AP).—Oystermen set to work today in ice-free waters of the Chesapeake and tributaries trying to recoup some of their losses of recent weeks.

Ralph C. Hammer, State shellfish culturist, said the freeze dealt a severe blow to Maryland oystermen.

"Northern producers have been dropping their prices," he said. "Our oyster dealers are losing trade as a result. Some of the losses have been in the Midwest, but there are others."

Hammer said he could not say how much oystermen lost because of the freeze. One oysterman said the loss was "over $100,000."

Another trouble facing Free State oystermen is the fact that Virginia has cut off their supply of seed oysters. To end this lack a group of planters is trying to work out a plan to grow seed on State oyster bars.

Foes Draft Fight On Bay Authority

Kilmarnock, Va., Feb. 18 (AP).—The newly organized Virginia Pound Net Fishermen's Association met at the firehouse here tonight to adopt a constitution and by-laws.

The association was formed to oppose establishment of the proposed Maryland-Virginia Chesapeake Bay Authority.

Members said they did not oppose "reasonable" conservation of fishery resources, but preferred to remain under the Virginia Commission of Fisheries rather than have that supervision transferred to a joint Maryland-Virginia body.

The group also voted its opposition to bills pending in Congress relating to the fishing industry.

Anne Arundel Needs For Play Area Cited

Annapolis, Md. Feb. 18 (AP).—Anne Arundel county commissioners today looked over a county-wide recreation plan presented by George A. Nesbit of the National Recreation Association.

It called for a joint effort of officials in Annapolis, schools in the county and private recreation groups. It would cost $28,000 a year.

The county now has no recreation set-up.

David S. Jenkins, county school superintendent, told the commissioners school authorities were not asking it be adopted but they wanted the commissioners to realize the recreation need "without sugarcoating."

Wood Indicted In Baltimore Police Slaying

Baltimore, Feb. 18 (AP).—Roy Arnold Wood, 24-year-old bricklayer trapped by police when he kept a date with his girl friend, was indicted on a murder charge by the grand jury today in the slaying of Patrolman Joseph D. Benedict last Friday.

Wood will be arraigned before Judge Emory H. Niles Friday. A trial date probably will be set at that time.

Police captured Woods when he kept a date with Mrs. Mary Bates Tolliver on a street corner Sunday night.

Abram Wood visited his son in a special cell today. Mrs. Mabel Shook, Wood's sister, accompanied him, as did Mrs. Bates.

The pretty young electrical equipment worker said today she loved Wood and will do everything she can to help him.

"I don't feel very proud of myself for turning Roy in," she declared. "But I feel I did the right thing and the best thing for him. At least he will have a chance now to clear himself if he is innocent."

Md. Court Rules Missing Cemetery Never Existed

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (AP).—The Court of Appeals today settled the case of the missing graveyard. It ruled it was never there.

The case bobbed up when a plot of land on Smith and Old Pimlico rds. in Baltimore County was bought by the Roland Park Co.

The company found the title to the land was clouded. There was supposed to be a 50-foot square graveyard and a right of way to it reserved in the deed. The search for the missing cemetery began.

The land was sold in 1849, but none of the five owners was ever bothered by the graveyard till the Roland Park Co. took over.

The court held today there never was a cemetery, even though one was intended.

Museum Clause In Will Upheld

Charles Town, W. Va., Feb. 18 (Spl.).—A clause in the will of the late Mrs. Mary Esta Burton Hilleary, providing for a local museum and meeting place for certain organizations, has been upheld by Judge D. H. Rodgers in Circuit Court here.

The will, dated April 20, 1943, provides a residuary interest of $5000 in the estate and a Charles Town residence to be used for the project, which will be managed by a board of trustees who already have indicated their willingness to serve. Agencies authorized to use the building are the Jefferson Historical Society, the Charles Town Woman's Club, Charles Town Junior Women's Club, Bee Line Chapter of the DAR, Lawson-Bott Chapter of the UDC, and organizations of the Colonial Dames and Daughters of 1812.

Provisions of the will were upheld by Judge Rodgers in a ruling handed down on a suit filed by C. L. Hilleary, husband of the dead woman, and H. W. Willis, executors of the estate, who requested a court "construction" of the museum bequest.

Taxi Holdup Man Returns $2 Taken With His Apology

John Cooper, 41, accused of the robbery, is in jail awaiting action by Stafford County authorities.

Ledger said he picked up Cooper in Falmouth last night and that near Mountain View, 12 miles away, Cooper robbed him of $2 at gun point and ordered him to leave the cab.

Ledger walked some distance, telephoned Fredericksburg police and then hitched a ride back to his cab. There he found Cooper still seated in the vehicle Cooper offered his apologies and handed back the money, Ledger said. The police arrived a few minutes later and arrested Cooper.

Howard Duncan of Front Royal was named a director of both organizations. H. S. Wakeman of Luray was elected to the board of the Shenandoah group and Warren H. Risler, Charles Town, and J. M. Fishpaw, Berryville, were added to the Farm Loan board.

Two Former Middies Named Rhodes Scholars

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 (AP).—Two former Midshipmen will enter Oxford University next fall as Rhodes scholars.

They are Ensign Marry A. Watson of San Antonio, Tex., and William E. Slesnick of Norman, Okla. Both were in the class of 1946. Slesnick resigned from the Navy in June, 1947.

Watson and Slesnick were picked among thousands of Navy men by a board set up at the Naval Academy.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

"Good Old Days" Are Gone but Not Forgotten

I've recently returned from a brief visit to Cincinnati. It proved quite disillusioning.

I remembered the Queen City as the place that had such a fine municipal government. Its streets were clean and paved, its policemen courteous, its politicians honest. That was several years ago.

Now I find that its main streets are full of holes, some of them a dangerous 12 inches deep. A light snow on the morning I arrived stopped rush hour traffic cold (no pun), and our speedometer showed that cars were lined up for 1.9 miles—with not a wheel turning.

The politicians (I was told) are still as honest as before, but the cops have grown surly and streetcar fares have risen to 11 cents, from their prewar three-for-a-quarter rate.

Curious about comparative streetcar fares, I've been asking some questions. I find that most transit companies reckon on an "average fare" basis.

Tickets, tokens, passes and cash fares are averaged by dividing "passengers" into "revenue" and arriving at an average fare which is always less than the top cash fare.

Here in the District, the average fare is about 7½ cents. It is lower than the average fare in a dozen other cities — including Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Pittsburgh and Seattle.

Special school tickets at 3 cents each help to bring down the average, and so do weekly passes. On Sundays, for example, a pass holder plus two children can ride all day on one pass.

And according to company officials, they frequently do.

I'm not arguing for higher streetcar fares just because McKee finally delivered my new car. I'm just pointing out that we might as well realize that the "good old days" are gone, and they're not coming back.

Everything is higher, and memories of seven-for-a-dollar gasoline are just that: memories. You can kiss them goodbye.

EXPLANATION

The reason yesterday's "New Words Department" item didn't make much sense is that our proof readers are the old fashioned kind.

They think there's only one way to spell a word.

I had picked up a pied line which included the word "superstitution," and tried to reproduce it. But the proof reader apparently thought Bill was woolgathering again, so he corrected the spelling to "superstition."

That made it practically impossible to make any sense out of the item, but instead of being perturbed by the incident, I find myself very philosophical about it. I say to myself:

"Other columnists are embarrassed by the presence of typographical errors. You hold the distinction of being embarrassed by the absence of one."

YEP, THE WAR IS OVER

Advice to employes, in the Raleigh Haberdasher monthly "Raleigh Review":

"You are not dressed for work until you put on a smile."

FLASH!

The first robin of the season reported to this department was seen by Washington's best known philatelist, William M. Stuart of 2124 I st. nw.

If the robins are back can Povich's baseball stories be far behind?

FOSTER PAPA WILLIAMS

WINX disk jockey Howard Williams is conducting a novel contest on his Band Stand program (10:05 a. m., Monday through Saturday—advt.).

Howard is trying to improve the show, so he's asking listeners to tell him two things they like about the program, and two things they don't like.

The idea isn't unusual, but the prize is. The writer of the best letter will win Howard's services as a baby sitter for any night next week.

Howard is probably wishing secretly that the baby will turn out to be about 19 years old and blonde.

But I hope the prize is won by a couple with an infant that requires frequent feeding and changing — especially changing. In that event we could get Williams to write us a play-by-play account of the payoff.

It should prove highly educational.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

What ever happened to all the people who just last week were in favor of riding the weatherman out of town on a rail?

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—At the end of the 1940 presidential campaign there was such a flood of contributions by Willkie supporters that $38,000 surplus remained in the Willkie clubs. Oren Root, jr., treasurer of the Willkie clubs, was undecided what to do with this $38,000 surplus and kept it deposited in a bank. In 1944 the Republican leaders asked Root to use the money for the Dewey campaign. Mr. Root, who knew of Willkie's differences with Mr. Dewey, withheld the money. He felt that it should be devoted to a cause memorializing Mr. Willkie . . . This week the $38,000 will be presented to Indiana University to be used as a scholarship fund in memory of Wendell Willkie.

FASHION NOTE: Margo, the screen actress-dancer, heard this story from the proprietor of San Angel Inn, the old hotel in Mexico City. Pancho Villa once made it his headquarters and arrived there with five women. The women had a trunkful of loot which Villa's plundering had brought them. They went into town and ordered hats designed for them by the most fashionable milliner in all Mexico. When Villa had to flee, the ladies had to travel light—and to decide regarding the loot each would carry, and the five women, vying for Villa's affections, abandoned all their trunks and took with them only the pink box containing the hat each thought would make her more attractive.

PUBLICITY DEPT.: The two aviators who recently were arrested for flying a B-17 out of the country without a permit, visited a magazine editor before the flight. They confided the plot to him; the Latin-American capital they were to bomb, the man who was the No. 1 target, etc., and asked the editor for $50,000 in return for the exclusive rights to the pictures and movies of the bombing . . .

The editor told this story in the 20th Century-Fox executives' dining room. He then was reminded that he might legally be considered an accessory in failing to reveal knowledge of a plot against a friendly power. And in the room, when he told it, were men from Time, Life, a columnist and an FBI official. "Don't worry," George Jessel assured the distressed editor. "Your secret is safe, nobody heard you except the magazines, the press, the FBI and closed-mouth me."

Taft Seen Probing MacArthur

By Drew Pearson

It is considered more than significant that a crack reporter for the Cincinnati Times-Star, owned by the Taft family, has left for Australia to cover the route which General MacArthur took on his northward advance from Australia to the Philippines.

Gen. MacArthur

The reporter is Douglass M. Allen, jr., who left for Australia early in January and is scheduled to hit Korea and Japan around April 15, working his way north through the Philippines and the battle-scarred Pacific islands.

Inside word is that Allen will do a little quiet probing of certain incidents surrounding MacArthur's campaign, which, during the war, were shrouded by censorship. One of these is the famous jungle mansion which MacArthur had the Seabees build for him on a hill overlooking Hollandia.

MacArthur aroused Navy resentment—at times, even bitterness—during his northward advance to the Philippines. And if he decides to become a presidential candidate, obviously it would not hurt his rival candidates, including Senator Taft, to have certain hitherto censored information told to the American public during the crucial days just before the Republican Convention in Philadelphia.

Goebbels Diary

A backstage row is developing over whether the diary of Joseph Goebbels belongs to the United States Government or to the Herbert Hoover Library.

The Goebbels' diary, about 7000 pages long, was recently discovered in Germany by friends of Herbert Hoover while Hoover was on a survey of Germany's economic conditions. The diary has been carefully edited and annotated by Louis Lochner, former ace Associated Press correspondent in Berlin, and is shortly being released to American newspapers by the North American Newspaper Alliance, with book publication handled by Doubleday & Co., Inc.

However, the Alien Property Custodian claims that all former property of the Nazi government in the American zone of Germany now belongs to the American people, and that the profits from the Goebbels diary should go to the United States Treasury. Justice Department officials also claim that the original of the diary should be deposited in the Library of Congress, though friends of Herbert Hoover have already made plans to deposit it in the Hoover Library.

Hitler's propaganda minister kept a most meticulous day-to-day account of his hate plans and his conversations with Hitler. Part of the diary is devoted to diatribes against the Jews and Catholics and tells of vows to liquidate both religions after the war. It is obvious from the diary that Goebbels was insane.

Note—Louis Lochner has done an excellent editing job, with cross-references to the many Nazi figures mentioned in the Goebbels diary.

How the Gas Lobby Works

The public-utility lobby has long been known as the most brazen in Washington, while Senator Ed Moore of Oklahoma has long been known as the tool of one section of this lobby—the gas and oil interests.

But just how brazen this lobby is and how closely it is linked with Senator Moore has leaked out recently in connection with the appointment of Burton Behling to the Federal Power Commission.

Shortly after Behling's name was first sent to the Senate to be a Federal Power Commissioner, he received a summons to report to Senator Moore's office. There, much to his surprise, Guy Woodward, Moore's chief assistant, introduced him to F. M. Porter, president of the Mid-Continental Oil and Gas Association.

Together, Woodward and Porter tried to back Behling into a corner on the price of natural gas. Particularly they wanted to know how he stood on the famous Rizley bill which would permit the gas companies to hike gas prices just at a time when customers can least afford it and when gas companies are already making record profits.

Behling was then preparing an exhaustive report on natural gas for the Commission, and to disclose his position in advance would have been unethical. He refused to commit himself.

Whereupon Senator Moore held a political club over Behling's head and blocked his confirmation to the Federal Power Commission.

However, whether because of Moore's political club or because of his own personal conviction, Behling has now recommended exactly the price boost for natural gas previously demanded by Senator Moore and his friend, gas-lobbyist Porter.

Incidentally, Moore is now delighted to try to push through Behling's confirmation to the Federal Power Commission.

Last Night

Last night I kissed your loving lips . . . And held you close to me . . . And all the world was like a dream . . . That touched eternity . . . I never knew that life could be . . . So wonderful and sweet . . . Or how much joy my heart could hold . . . Until it skipped a beat . . . Last night the silver stars became . . . A crown around your head . . . While magic moonlight made a song . . . Of every word you said . . . I whispered that I wanted you . . . In sunshine and in rain . . . Because if you were always mine . . . No day would be in vain . . . Last night I kissed your loving lips . . . And all at once I knew . . . That life was sweet and wonderful . . . And I belonged to you.
